WIMBLEY CASE CHARGES FILED; PAIR IS JAILED

HUSBAND OF VICTIM HECKLES WITNESSES

Murder charges were placed against Harry C. Wimbley and John M. Crowder last night after a coroner's jury ordered them held for grand jury action after hearing the testimony in the drowning of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Wimbley and her daughter, Wilma.

The coroner's jury inquiry was marked by heckling of witnesses by Wimbley, who, when informed that he could not cross-examine witnesses, said, "All right, then leave me out of the picture."

Directly after the inquest, Wimbley and Crowder were taken to the Seventh Precinct where murder charges were placed. They were then taken to the District Jail. Both Wimbley and Crowder did not testify.

In an interview at the District Jail last night Wimbley denied any plot had been formulated by him to exterminate the Tench family. "We made no sand-bags to hit them with," he said, "and that gasoline was bought because we had a leak in the tank and I was afraid that the gasoline would drain from the tank before morning."

Only Bootlegging.

"Did you ever mention any plan to Crowder for making money?" he was asked.

"Nothing only bootlegging."

"Did you ever mention insurance to him or discuss the $10,000 policy on your wife's life?"

"No," he replied.

In his confession Crowder declared Wimbley said "there would be enough insurance after killing the Tench family and the Wimbley family, and burning their bodies with gasoline."

"Were there any double indemnity clauses in the accident policy you bought?"

"There was double indemnity for some kinds of accidents; I don't know which."

Crowder had said Wimbley told him there would be double indemnity if the body of his wife was found burned. This was substantiated by the police.

Easiest Way Out.

"Why do you think Crowder told such a story if it is not true?"

"I don't know why; but he was probably afraid that he was in a jam and decided it was the easiest way out."

"What was your idea in buying the gun?"

"I didn't buy the gun. Crowder bought it. He wanted it to use on the husband of a woman he was hanging out with."

"Did you make any signs to Crowder near the canal to overturn the canoe?"

Answers in Negative.

"Did you say to him, 'why the hell didn't you upset the canoe?'"

"No."

Wimbley said that in July he spent a few days with his wife at the Continental Hotel in Petersburg, Va., at which time, he said, he suggested that she should get an accident insurance policy. He said last night that he signed his wife's name to the application.

Earlier in the day Wimbley was brought to headquarters where he was faced by Crowder, and listened to the reading of Crowder's fourteen-page confession of the plot against the family of Patrick H. Tench, at Dendron, Va., Wimbley wept. He made no statement.

Death Plot Detailed.

Detective Sergt. James F. Springman told the jury of the plot to sand bag the Tench family and burn their bodies, which fell through when Crowder lost his nerve. The preparations for the plot, including the purchase of a gun, the fashioning of sand bags and the purchase of gasoline were narrated in detail.

Springmann then told of Wimbley's alleged remark to Crowder as they walked near the Chesapeake & Ohio

28 Resorts Closed In Brooklyn Raids

Huge Vice Ring Is Believed Smashed; Leader and Women Seized.

New York, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—A huge Brooklyn vice ring was believed to have been broken up tonight with the arrest of Louis Weiner, known as "Cockeyed Louie," the closing of 28 resorts and the removal of several van loads of women employes to the office of the district attorney for questioning.

The raids were made by a corps of 75 detectives who had been working on the case for several weeks under orders of District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan. It was reported that Weiner's operations extended throughout New York State.

It was charged that Weiner was paid a "protection fee" by each of the resorts, sometimes as much as $1,000, and that he received large sums from the earnings of the establishments.

Britain Again Seeking Parley on Gold Supply

U. S. Is Not Considered Seriously Affected by Crisis.

London Stock Exchange Will Resume Trading Today.

(Associated Press.)

Struggling England is more surely headed for better days as the result of temporarily suspending the gold standard, in the opinion of governmental authorities here.

No vitally adverse effects on the United States are expected by the Administration.

For months the tense situation of British finances has been watched. Uncertainty caused worry. It was known such drastic action as has now been taken was contemplated.

Tenseness over this is gone. Relief evidenced itself in high quarters yesterday, so far as this situation was concerned. It was prompted by a feeling that the possibility of such action by the British had been more deleterious than the actual realization proved to be.

There was no evidence that the 10 per cent wage reduction by the United States Steel Corporation late in the day had dimmed materially the faith of official Washington. It did give new indication of the seriousness of the domestic situation, because of the corporation's position of industrial leadership, but the President and his advisers are hopeful the reduction will have no sweeping reflex among the employes of big business generally.

Months ago, Mr. Hoover sought to pledge the industrial captains against a lowering of wages. He has recognized, however, that in these matters

London, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The London Stock Exchange will open tomorrow for business as usual, and Great Britain tonight was preparing to renew efforts for an international conference to deal with problems of the world gold supply.

While the country calmly continued readjustments after its temporary suspension of the gold standard, Lord Reading, foreign secretary, let it be known today that Great Britain again would seek to call such a conference.

Lord Reading said he thinks recent British developments may remove the objections of some nations to the conference. No time or place has been considered for such a meeting, but the foreign secretary said he thought the conference should include representatives of the central banks and governments.

Stock brokers looked hopefully to the exchange's reopening. The unofficial street market during the last two days, while the exchange was closed, developed a boom-like tendency.

The House of Commons again tackled the supplementary budget of Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden today, and the government obtained a majority of 67 on a vote arranging the legislative program for the coming week.

CHINESE UNITY IS PLANNED TO OPPOSE JAPAN

Leaders in Strife-Torn Country Move to End Civil Warfare.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS CALLS CONFERENCE

Withdrawal of Soldiers Is Urged; Envoys Outline Situation to U. S.

Tokyo (Wednesday), Sept. 23 (A.P.). The foreign office was informed today the Chinese government has rejected Japan's offer to agree to the appointment of a joint Sino-Japanese commission to endeavor to solve the Manchurian controversy.

(Associated Press.)

Intervention by the League of Nations and moves to unite a strife-torn China to "deal with Japan" pushed news of military activity into the background yesterday in the Manchurian controversy between China and Japan, although a strong force of Chinese troops made a counterattack last night at Kungchuling, south of Changshun and about half way between Mukden and Harbin. The attack began at 9:30 p. m.

The league called upon representatives of China and Japan to withdraw troops from the disputed area and summoned spokesmen of the two nations to meet with the council to devise means of withdrawing the soldiers without danger of additional loss of life and property.

The league action followed an appeal made on Monday by China for intervention and came after Kenkichi Yoshizana, Japanese representative, promised Japan would abide by the league covenant and Kellogg pact and would attempt to reach a friendly settlement.

U. S. Invited to Assist.

Recalling the Washington Government's participation in the Kellogg pact and Pacific treaties, the council ordered the minutes of yesterday's sessions be sent to the American Government. The minutes then were communicated to Hugh Wilson, the American representative at Geneva. Thus the league conveyed a polite invitation to the United States to interest itself with the league in stopping warlike activities in the Far East.

Further assurance of Japanese desires to settle the controversy came from Tokyo, where the government announced it was ready to approve a Chinese proposal for the appointment of a joint Sino-Japanese commission to attempt to end the trouble.

In China, Chiang Kai-Shek, president of the Nationalist government, told a Nanking mass meeting that the "National government is prepared for a final and supreme struggle" if the League and Kellogg signatories "fail to uphold justice."

The president said that if necessary he would lead "the army and the entire nation in the fight for the preservation of our race." He added that all civil dissension in China must cease.

Insurgent Faction Ready.

An expression of a desire for peace came from the insurgent government at Canton, which was reported as being ready to unite with the Nationalist government to "deal with Japan."

Chinese government leaders charged that the Japanese attack in Manchuria last week on Chinese soldiers, which resulted in scores of deaths, was without provocation. This was denied by Japanese spokesmen, who said Chinese had destroyed a bridge of the South Manchurian Railway, operated by Japan.

Unconfirmed reports that the Japanese military occupation of Manchuria was spreading were received in

15 TRUE BILLS AGAINST POLICE LOOMING TODAY

GRAND JURY REPORT READY, KEPT SECRET

Hunt and Stoll Petition to Expunge Records to Be Heard Tuesday.

The second chapter in the grand jury investigation into third-degree methods utilized by Metropolitan Police to extract confessions will be reached today when that body presents an exhaustive report to Justice Jesse C. Adkins in the District Supreme Court.

Extreme precautions were taken by the office of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday to prevent the grand jury's report from leaking out. As a further means of keeping inviolate the indictments and a special report, Mr. Rover announced yesterday that only the regularly assigned reporters attached to the courthouse would be permitted to inspect the work done by the grand jury.

Indictment of Fifteen Rumored.

Persistent courthouse rumors have stated that approximately fifteen members of the police force, ranking from a lieutenant in a Northwest police station to a group of privates in the Traffic Bureau and the Fourth Precinct, would be indicted for various types of assault. In some cases the indictments charge outright assault, while in others the burning of feet, the threatening of torture in its manifold forms, and the withholding of food have figured in stories that have been listened to attentively by the jury.

Practically every one with a provable claim of maltreatment against the police has been given a chance to step forward and relate his or her grievances. In many cases the police have been the aggrieved parties, in that some one with a grudge has brought accusations that would hardly stand up under investigation.

Most of those indicted were notified last night, or some time ago, that charges against them were being investigated. The officers learned of these investigations through witnesses summoned to tell their stories and also through the "grape vine" route.

Record Expunging Hearing Tuesday.

A determined attempt to have the grand jury report involving Policeman Joseph Hunt, of the Second Precinct, and, by inference, Inspector Stoll, stricken from the courthouse records will be made Tuesday by attorneys for both men. The hearing to expunge from the records the report scheduled for yesterday but was postponed one week.

The report that the pair seek to have wiped off the records is the one returned by the grand jury charging

All Pupils Get Seats, Many Use Makeshifts

Furniture Supposed to Be in Schools Is Still Missing.

Yesterday found public school officials boasting that at least every child enrolled in the schools had a seat, even though hundreds of them were given makeshift chairs as a substitute for the regular school furniture which should have been in place and ready for use when the school year began on Monday.

Jere J. Crane, engaged as business manager of the public school system to prevent just such things as happened at the opening of the school term, somewhat angrily declared that he was tired of trying to explain why necessary school furniture was not in place and indicated he was no nearer knowing where the requisite furniture was, or when it would be installed, than on Monday.

Confronted with newspaper accounts of children seated on school floors and lawns because of lack of furniture, which should have been in place when school began, Mr. Crane raided all sources for the impromptu seats which he provided for the children yesterday. They were of about all classes and descriptions and the children placed their books and school equipment on the floor beneath them.

District officials explained that

FARRELL'S PREVIOUS SLASH ATTACK CITED

Observers Recall Reduction in 1921 Preceded Upturn in Business.

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Three of America's greatest corporations today reduced wages 10 per cent and a fourth cut salaries from 10 to 20 per cent.

United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel Corporations, between them responsible for more than half of America's great steel production, cut wages, effective October 1. U. S. Steel pays wages to more than 200,000 workers.

General Motors Corporation, makers of more than 30 per cent of the Nation's automobiles, reduced salaries, effective the same date.

Meanwhile, Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. announced a 10 per cent wage cut.

The finance committee of U. S. Steel in a statement said:

"For the purpose of better meeting prevailing unsatisfactory conditions in the industry, rates of wages of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation will, effective October 1, be reduced approximately 10 per cent, varying somewhat with the character of the work performed."

Bethlehem Also Cuts.

Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem, said:

"I consider the action of the United States Steel Corporation in readjusting downward wage rates, a constructive move, and Bethlehem will make a similar adjustment, effective October 1."

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, said:

"The purpose of this action is to establish a new base of salaries in line with the standards of values now existing and in harmony with the reduced cost of living. Up to the present time the corporation has made no general change in salaries."

While in the early stages of the depression the highest officials of these organizations were among the most outspoken foes of wage and salary cuts, they and other business leaders have, as the slump dragged on, indicated that wages and salaries were in danger.

Continuous declines in commodity costs, unexpected diminution in the volume of business, and extraordinarily depressed international conditions, virtually make real steel earnings nonexistent. Officials feel they waited perhaps too long before taking the present drastic action.

Whether this is a signal for general cuts in other corporations, no one cared to predict. Chrysler Motors, Westinghouse Electric, Sinclair Oil, and many others have announced cuts, and many cuts have been without announcement.

Some observers recalled that the final reduction in wages by U. S. Steel in the 1921 depression virtually coincided with the bottom, both in business and the stock market, and has been widely regarded as making the end of the painful period of deflating after the postwar boom.

Will Save $25,000,000.

Affecting more than 200,000 U. S. steel workers, estimates were that the corporation will save about $25,000,000 annually, on the basis of this year's operations. General Motors shares would be affected about 20 cents each annually, similar unofficial estimates said.

General Motors salaries of $50,000 were cut 20 per cent; from $20,000 to $50,000, they were cut 17½ per cent; from $10,000 to $20,000, 15 per cent; from $3,000 to $10,000, 12½ per cent, and up to $3,000, 10 per cent. Hourly wages were not affected.

The dramatic accusations of James A. Farrell, president of U. S. Steel, before the American Iron and Steel Institute last May, that other leading steel manufacturers were in fact not maintaining wages was recalled today.

"There has been honeycombing and pinching and that sort of thing, and even among the most talked of companies, the so-called big companies, the companies in the headlines now and then, they do not pay the standard rates of wages when it comes to

NEW POLICY VOTED BY TRANSAMERICA

$300,000,000 Corporation to Divest Itself of Control in Large Banks.

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Expressing the belief that Nation-wide branch banking in the United States is unlikely in the near future, the Transamerica Corporation announced today sweeping changes in its policies, which will eventually lead to divestment of its controlling interest in banks with assets of some $1,700,000,000.

It also was announced that the corporation, formed two years ago to bring together the vast banking and other interests assembled by A. P. Giannini, of San Francisco, will continue as an investment company, under a reconstituted board of directors, which will bring into the corporation new and powerful banking interests.

Elisha Walker will remain chairman of the new board, but A. P. Giannini, his brother, A. H. Giannini, and his son, L. M. Giannini, will retire from the directorate. James A. Bacigalupi, of San Francisco, long an associate of Mr. Giannini, will remain as president. Mr. Giannini had retired from active participation in the management on reaching his sixtieth birthday in 1930.

The new board of directors will include three partners in the old and prominent international banking firm of Lee Higginson & Co. They are Frederick W. Allen, Charles E. Cotting and George Murnane. Other new directors are Frederick C. Dumaine, president of the Amoskeag Co., Boston; Henry O. Havemeyer, New York capitalist; Charles W. Nash, president of Nash Motors Co.; Roland L. Redmond, of the New York law firm of Carter, Ledyard & Milburn; Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway.

Announcement of the changes in the firm's management and policies was made at the main offices of the corporation in New York today, after the plans had been finally approved by the directors, meeting in San Francisco. At today's meeting, directors decided to declare no dividend on the stock at this time. Dividends so far this year total 60 cents a share.

Transamerica now holds 99 per cent of the stock of the Bank of America National Trust & Savings Association, operating some 300 branches in California, and with assets reported in its last balance sheet in excess of $1,100,000,000; 63 per cent of the stock of the Bank of

LEGION PROMISED BONUS DISCUSSION

Commander O'Neil Assures Full Consideration; 50,000 March in Parade.

Detroit, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Free and unrestricted discussion of the veterans' bonus issue by delegates to the national convention of the American Legion was promised tonight in a statement issued by National Commander Ralph T. O'Neil.

Meanwhile technicalities held up consideration of the prohibition issue, the other controversial subject facing the convention.

The subcommittee on policy, on whose decision eventual consideration of the issue largely depends, announced tonight that it was not ready to report because it had received no word from another subcommittee appointed to consider the matter at a secret session. No decision on the matter was forthcoming tonight, despite unverified reports that the second subcommittee had voted, 9 to 7, to submit a modification proposal.

The national commander's statement on the bonus follows:

"In view of the importance the country generally seems to attach to the subject it is perhaps advisable for the national commander of the American Legion to make a statement as to the probable treatment of the bonus question—which is briefer than the question of further payments on the veterans adjusted compensation payments—if that subject is presented to this convention.

"As national commander I am chairman of the convention. While my personal views are my own, as national commander and chairman of the convention I shall see that the bonus question is considered on its merits to the reasonable limits of the desire of those holding divergent views upon it. There will be no attempt directly or indirectly by the chair to influence in any way the de-

Chaplin, Obscure to Gandhi, Argues With Indian Leader

London, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—The Mahatma Gandhi, whose home-spun loin cloth and sandals have symbolized his spirited leadership of ancient India, clasped hands tonight with Charles Spencer Chaplin, whose motion picture antics in baggy trousers and flopping shoes made him a leader in one of the world's newest industries.

The two men, known by the power of photography to millions of persons throughout the world, met in the tiny home of Dr. Chuna Lal Katail, a Hindo who lives near the East India docks, not far from the Limehouse district of London.

Their meeting was more than a contrast in personality between a religious leader and a comedian. It quickly developed into a discussion of the machine age which might have become heated had not Gandhi's regular evening prayer interfered.

Chaplin, who has been visiting recently with Winston Churchill, the most vigorous of Gandhi's political foes, requested the meeting. When the subject was broached to Gandhi, he asked:

"Who is Mr. Chaplin?"

Gandhi said he had never heard of the motion picture star, although the cinemas in India have shown many films made by Chaplin. Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, the Indian poetess and political leader, explained to Gandhi that Chaplin was an actor and it was agreed they would meet at Dr. Katail's reception.

Presidential Hope Indicated by Reed

Says He Would Consider It Compliment to Have Missouri's Pledge.

Kansas City, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—James A. Reed, former United States senator, who was advanced by Missouri as a favorite son candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928, said he had informed a St. Louis inquirer he would "consider it a compliment," to have the State delegation pledged to him at the next Democratic National Convention.

Reed, however, declined to say whether he would or would not seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

He said his information was given by telephone to Edward J. White, vice president and general counsel of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, who had called him to explain reports of the organization of a club in St. Louis supporting Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for President.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen To Be Candidate Again

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen tonight announced her candidacy for reelection as a representative in Congress from the Fourth Florida District.

Mrs. Owen is a daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan.

DR. SHELTON'S TRIAL IS BEGUN IN SECRECY

Capital Methodist Minister Faces Woman's Charges in Alexandria.

The trial of the Rev. Dr. William A. Shelton, pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church South, by an ecclesiastical board composed of twelve ministers of the Southern Methodist Church, on charges preferred by his former secretary, Miss Carrie A. Williams, began yesterday in the Washington Street Southern Methodist Church, in Alexandria, behind closed doors.

The hearing continued into the night and did not adjourn until fifteen minutes before midnight.

The nature of the charges made by Miss Williams, as a result of which Dr. Shelton has been suspended from his pulpit pending the outcome of the trial, have not been made public.

The trial was ordered by Bishop E. D. Mouzon, of Charlotte, N. C., and is being conducted with the greatest secrecy. The Rev. W. S. Hammond, formerly pastor of the Alexandria Church, is understood to be presiding; the Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester, presiding elder of the Alexandria district, is acting as prosecutor, and the defense is being conducted by the Rev. Dr. H. H. Sherman of the Board of Christian Education, and the Rev. Dr. J. J. Rives, of the Francis Asbury Church, both of Washington, and they are being assisted by Attorney Raymond B. Dickey, of Washington, and Attorney Robert H. Jones jr., of Atlanta, Ga. These attorneys, however, are acting only in an advisory capacity to the defense ministers. They are barred from the trial room.

Dr. Regester stated, when adjournment was taken for luncheon yesterday that each person connected with the trial is solemnly bound to secrecy, and that no statement of any character would be made until after the trial ended when, as is customary, the decision reached will be announced.

Although the trial has been reported to be "entirely a family mat-

Three young boys, 5, 6, and 8 years old, last night stood shyly rubbing their bare feet on the floor of the Marlboro courthouse as they answered only by a nod of the head, the questions asked by a coroner's jury which later absolved them of blame in the death of Alem K. Marr.

Between two of the boys, and reaching six inches above the head of the youngest, stood the shotgun with which they were alleged to have shot the 75-year-old man whose shot-ripped body was found in the caretaker's home of the Glebe Club at Mount Calvert, Md.

The coroner's jury, while specifically absolving the children of responsibility for the death, said the man was murdered by a person unknown to the jury. After the inquest, State's Attorney Alan Bowie said he would continue his investigation of the case, which was postponed pending the verdict of the jury. It was known that Mr. Bowie was "not satisfied" with the theory advanced by the sheriff's office that the children were responsible for the man's death.

The three children are George Mc-

U. S. Rubber Company Adopts Five-Day Week

The announcement said a reduction of one-eleventh in salaries will be made to conform to the reduction in working time. The adjustment will apply to every salaried employe, including the president and other officers.

Former Peiping Premier Will Represent China Here.

Nanking, China, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The Chinese Nationalist government today announced the appointment of Dr. W. W. Yen, premier of the old Peiping government, as minister to the United States.

Dr. Yen, who is rated as one of China's ablest statesmen, twice previously declined the appointment, pleading that he had retired from public service. He accepted the third offer, however.

His ultimate acceptance of the diplomatic post was believed to have been influenced by developments in Manchuria, where Japanese troops have seized several cities. This development found China without a spokesman of ministerial rank in Washington. Dr. Yen succeeds C. C. Wu, who resigned several months ago and joined the insurgent Chinese government at Canton.

$2,460 Theft Reported From Mayflower Hotel

Jewelry valued at $2,145 and two garments with an estimated value of $315 were reported stolen yesterday afternoon from Mrs. Melville Gillette's suite in the Hotel Mayflower. Entry was believed to have been gained by use of a duplicate key. Mrs. Gillette is from New York.

The loot consisted of three pins studded with diamonds, pearls and sapphires, a platinum wedding ring, a pearl bracelet, two imitation pearl necklaces, a jacket and a fur neckpiece.

Maiden Flight of Akron May Take Place Today

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Weather prospects had so materially improved tonight that suitable conditions are expected for the initial flight of the new Navy Dirigible Akron tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock Eastern Standard Time.

Summer Officially Ending As Heat Hangs On; Hits 102

18 Reported Overcome as Mounting Mercury Forces Suspension of Classes at Georgetown University and Work in Temporary Buildings.

Washington will officially leave summer behind at 7:24 o'clock tonight, but not summer temperatures such as yesterday claimed eighteen heat prostrations, closed Government departments and forced suspension of classes at Georgetown University.

For all of her distress, however, Washington could still gloat over suffering Baltimore, which was the hottest city in the United States yesterday, with an official high of 100 degrees.

The unseasonable heat wave was felt all along the Atlantic seaboard, according to Charles L. Mitchell, weather forecaster, who said not much relief can be expected today, though "not so warm" was the official weather forecast.

Emergency and Casualty Hospital ambulances were kept busy in the afternoon as mounting temperatures took their toll. Georgetown University sessions were canceled following the first morning class at 8:40, when the heat was found too oppressive for study.

Although Washington schools continued in session throughout the humid day, pupils in nearby Montgomery County were given a half day off because of the heat. In Annapolis, Md., all schools were closed when temperatures climbed.

Government workers were released from temporary structures between 1:30 and 3 o'clock yesterday. Employes quartered on the top floors of the Treasury and Munitions Buildings were freed in the early afternoon, and workers were dismissed from the Labor, Commerce, Treasury, Census and Federal Trade Commission temporary buildings.

By noon the recording instrument on the Avenue kiosk had risen to 94 and was still climbing. It reached

11 DIE, MANY HURT AS SUMMER ENDS

Freak Winds Strip Wisconsin Chickens; Heat Drop Is Forecast.

Chicago, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—The official end of summer brought tornadoes to five Midwestern States today, killing three persons in Iowa, three in Oklahoma, two in Missouri, two in Kansas and one in Wisconsin. The high winds that marked the end of a record-breaking heat wave, lifted houses from their foundations, hurled automobiles off roadways and deluged the countrysides with rain and hail that broke through roofs.

Nearly a score of persons were injured in the five affected States and property damage ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Temperatures dropped precipitately from the 90s, presaging seasonal cool weather for tomorrow, the first official day of autumn.

Freak Winds Do Tricks.

James Holt, 17, scrimmaging with his teammates on the Oswego, Kans., High School Football team, threw himself to the ground when the wind came up. A piece of timber lurched through the air, killing him and injuring Louis Richards, who was lying beside him.

Janesville, Wis., reported that the wind ripped the feathers off flocks of chickens, bent an iron pump handle almost double, and pushed an automobile down the road, upside down injuring its driver.

Hugh Whitford, of Milton Junction, Wis., was strolling into his cellar when the winds lifted his house, then crashed it down upon him, crushing him to death. His wife was hurled 50 feet through the air, but was not seriously injured.

School Roof Sheared Off.

Twenty pupils were learning their arithmetic lesson in a country schoolhouse near Fairfield, Iowa, when the wind sheared off the roof.

At Bloomfield, Iowa, residents reported that hailstones as large as hens' eggs broke their windows and roofs.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—A dozen persons were prostrated here today as the mercury mounted to 99 in midafternoon, shattering all September heat records for 50 years. Schools were closed at noon when the temperature reached 96. The highest on record here was 101, registered September 7, 1881, and today's mark took second place.

Motorcycle Stunt Rider Is Released by Court

Charges of reckless driving, no permit, dead tags, and no registration card, placed against Joseph W. King, 18 years old, went for naught in Police Court yesterday when Judge Isaac R. Hitt took the boy's personal bonds.

Policeman K. P. Greenlow testified that he arrested King when the latter, with a passenger on the rear seat of a motorcycle, stood up in the seat and let the handlebars go. King told the judge he was only practicing a stunt that had been shown him by a policeman.

school buildings, which should have been completed, but are not ready for occupancy, would be ready soon and declared that despite this seeming fault, they had launched and pushed with rapidity the largest school-building program in the history of the District for the current period.

Meanwhile pupils of the Johnson School, at Hiatt and Lamont places northwest, played about the unsheltered temporary heating plant which was erected outside the building, because the necessary new permanent plant will not be ready until some time in October. The temporary heating plant is without shelter or protection of any kind.

The new heating plant for the school was made necessary because of an addition to the Powell Junior High School, across the street. This school's plant formerly also heated the Johnson School. The need for a new heating plant at the Johnson School was known to school and District officials months ago, when engineers decided that the addition to the Powell School would make it impossible for its heating plant to warm the Johnson School also.

Pleased With Progress.

"District authorities," Maj. Holland L. Robb, assistant engineer commissioner in charge of District construction projects, said, "feel that the District has made very considerable progress in making available to the Board of Education such a large volume of school buildings as it has been able to turn over in recent months.

"These include six elementary schools, one athletic field, four junior high school projects and two more elementary schools which will be completed in the next two or three weeks.

"Under instructions from the Engineer Commissioner, Maj. Gotwalls, that every effort be made to have all schools available as soon as possible, the municipal architect's office expanded its force and rushed the designs on all projects included in the 1931 appropriation act.

Speed and Efficiency.

By March 1, 1931, all school buildings appropriated for in the 1931 act had been placed on the market. In order to further hasten completion of buildings, contract specifications were prepared so as to provide for a shorter construction time than usual. This placed additional burdens on contractors which proved to be more than they could take care of in some cases.

"It is believed, however, that contractors have, in general, executed their work with speed and efficiency. The public should realize that in building operations of the type carried on by the District there are a number of very intricate processes, many of which require an irreducible minimum of time. Furthermore the supply of materials must be arranged for and these must be delivered to the job. These materials must be of the quality called for in the specifications and they are always promptly rejected when they do not meet the specifications. This occasionally results in delay.

The same is the case when work is rejected, which sometimes happens, even when it is done with the best of intentions by competent workmen. All of these things, as well as other factors, enter into the situation and, when contractors are working under short time limits as they have been occasionally, sometimes result in delay in completion of work beyond the date specified in the contract.

Ahead of Usual Program.

"Immediately the 1932 school construction appropriatio s were made available by special authorization of Congress, we began, on March 1, to work on those projects. We have already put eleven projects under contract and two more have been practically completed and will soon be ready to put on the market.

"We are about six months ahead of the usual construction program. This has been made possible by employment of additional personnel in the municipal architect's office. The results speak for themselves. In the two-year period we will have completed or have under contract school building projects amounting to approximately $6,000,000."

School buildings which have been completed for this school term were listed by Maj. Robb as including the following elementary school buildings: Congress Heights, eight rooms; Crosby Noyes and Deanwood, four rooms and assembly hall each, and Horace Mann, Lafayette and Whittier, eight rooms each. Other work included the Dunbar athletic field and the following junior high schools: Elliott and Alice Deal, 22 rooms each; additions to Gordon and Stuart of 10 rooms and gymnasium each. This makes a total of 104 new classrooms. The new buildings cost about $1,820,000, Maj. Robb said.

Some Delay Seen.

The Horace Mann School, the furniture for which still is missing, with various explanations advanced by Mr. Crane, was completed on July 30.

The A. Bowen School project of twelve rooms, at Second and M streets southwest, which was to have been completed by September 1, probably will not be entirely finished before October 1, Maj. Robb said. Meanwhile the contractor is paying a penalty of $40 a day for failure to complete the building on time.

The Young Platoon School, which also was to have been completed September 1, probably will be completed by October 1. It is at Twenty-sixth street and Benning road northeast.

Portables Still Used.

Despite these additional facilities, however, school authorities yesterday said there were 28 portable schools in use. This represents a decrease of 38 in comparison with last year.

Enrollment at the end of the school day yesterday was 74,980. Enrollment on opening day was 68,935. Monday was Yom Kippur, Jewish Day of Atonement, and Jewish children did not attend the first day.

Of the total enrolled 47,405 were in the elementary schools; 12,783 were in junior high schools; 13,315 in the high schools; 662 in the Teachers' College and 815 in vocational schools.

Part time classes were established in three schools, due to oversize classes. The Orr, Key and Adam schools each had two such classes.

Teachers and pupils of Central High School have recently complained about the conditions of drinking fountains in the high school. It is reported that the pressure is kept at such a low point that it is insanitary to drink out of the fountains and that the water is not cooled, making it so warm at this time of the year that it is not fit to drink.

THIRD DEGRE JURY WILL REPORT TODAY

that former Policeman Orville Staples was railroaded from the police force on manufactured testimony. The report recommended Hunt's dismissal and rebuked higher-ups who were in any way connected with the case.

The committee of five lawyers appointed by the Commissioners to look into the report, was busy yesterday going over a transcript of the Staples trial board hearing.

District's Legionnaires Voice Faith in Its Police

Voicing faith in the "vast majority" of Washington policemen, the District of Columbia Department of the American Legion, in a resolution adopted by its executive committee, urged the citizens of Washington to uphold the Police Department in the use of all force necessary to "capture, convict and punish criminals."

Headed by F. G. Fraser, department commander, the organization asked that local newspapers handle the news of the present police investigation so that every policeman, in the eyes of the public, may be considered innocent of any crime until proven guilty.

The Legion, while opposed to brutality on the part of any official of the District, declared that the apprehension and punishment of criminals was one of the most vital needs of the Nation. The present investigation of "third degree" methods in the Metropolitan Police Department, the resolution declared, has been so overemphasized that it casts distruts on the entire personnel of the force.

Commissioners Thanked For Lewis Appointment

Commissioners of the District of Columbia were given thanks last night for the appointment of William H. Lewis as a member of the civilian trial board in the Orville Staples case, by the Public Interest Association which met in the parish hall of Calvary Episcopal Church, Dr. George H. Richardson presiding. Appreciation was also expressed for the action in naming a civilian board, the Federation of Civic Associations having made specific requests for such appointment more than a year ago.

BRITISH GOLD CRISIS AFFECTS U. S. LITTLE

the Government only can advise, and that decisions must be made by each corporation on the facts it individually is facing.

The President spent a busy time with his Cabinet in the morning. Two of those present at the White House dinner on Friday, occasioned by the impending British step of Sunday, were with him longest yesterday. Significantly enough, they were Secretaries Stimson and Lamont—who have so much to do with the country's foreign and commercial relations.

So occupied was the Cabinet session that, although it met at 10:30, it had not been concluded by noon, the time for the regular Tuesday press conference. The President hurried to meet briefly with the newsmen, then back he went to the Cabinet room.

One reason for the relieved feeling apparent in official quarters was that the British action on gold had so little reaction on American and world markets.

It was held that the decrease in the gold value of the pound was temporary, even so far as Great Britain was concerned, and that world trade would continue to be based on gold values, whether in pounds, dollars, or francs.

The Commerce Department heard from its London office that the English situation was quiet, with the government ready to act at once against any profiteering. Business men there were hesitating to make new commitments, due to uncertainty over the sterling and possibility of an early tariff.

King Again Urges Silver.

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, again demanded an international meeting to rehabilitate silver as money. In a statement, he said the England and German financial crises made such action imperative. He wants some government to issue the call.

The first and probably the most important result of the gold demonetization was set as a rise in commodity prices in England, a rise reflected throughout the world. This would have the effect of lowering the standard of living in England, but undoubtedly would act as a stimulant to English exports.

Raw Material Exports.

Any consequent decrease in imports of luxury goods into England is not to be regarded as detrimental to United States trade, as most of the exports of the United States to England are in the form of raw materials.

The lower standard of living, which American officials believe will be a temporary result of the change in the pound value, would make for lower production costs and a consequent ability to sell abroad with greater ease.

This increase in exports is not regarded as dangerous to the United States trade, as surveys made recently by Government departments in certain countries show that only about 10 per cent of American exports are in keen competition with British goods.

There will of necessity be a large amount of readjustment in England and temporary dislocations in the international world.

Increase U. S. Responsibilities.

One of the first indications of the additional responsibilities brought to New York as a world money market through the disturbance in London appeared with the announcement that Brazil would turn from sterling to dollars as her principal medium of exchange transactions. International bankers said several other countries that have been looking to London as their bankers are preparing to turn to New York. It was said in banking circles that the Scandinavian countries, among others, might do so.

Some bankers and economists hold that the extreme depression of silver is one of the serious obstacles to business recovery, and there has been considerable hope that a result of the present crisis would be complete stoppage of sale of silver by India, which has been disposing of that metal in preference to gold.

At any rate, silver currencies quoted yesterday, as the foreign exchange market was a little less demoralized, were higher. The Mexican dollar rose 1¼ cents to 35 cents. A sustained rise in the Mexican dollar and the Far Eastern silver currencies, it is pointed out, would greatly improve the purchasing power of much of the world's population.

CHARGES ARE FILED IN WIMBLEY CASE

Canal near the Dalecarlia Reservoir, where the double drownings occurred. Wimbley is supposed to have said, "You know what you're here for? You're here to upset that canoe."

After all the testimony of the police officers had been heard Wimbley demanded that he be allowed to take the stand in his own defense. When the time came, however, he said, "Since I have seen the attitude of these officers——"

"That's enough," interposed Deputy Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald, "do you want to testify? Answer yes or no."

"No," said Wimbley.

Refers to Crowder.

On the way to the Morgue Patrolman Cleir Culvert testified, Wimbley said, in referring to Crowder, "I'll get that ——— and make him burn." It was Crowder who told detectives that Wimbley had told him there would be "enough insurance to take care of both of them" when their plot against the Tench family was told.

Wimbley interrupted the policeman's testimony to say, "Why don't you tell the whole story. What are you making partial statements for? Why don't you tell them about the murder?" The policeman recalled no reference to any murder.

Wimbley gazed fixedly at Springman, as the head of the homicide squad narrated in detail, the corroboration which was made of the death plot.

When Crowder and Wimbley were brought together at headquarters, Crowder pointed at Wimbley and repeated Wimbley's alleged remark, "Why the hell didn't you tip the canoe over?" At the morgue the two men purposely avoided the eyes of each other.

$109,100,000 in Gold Set Aside for Export

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The United States monetary gold stock has taken a sudden drop of $109,100,000, it was revealed by the Federal Reserve Bank today, which announced that this amount of metal had been set aside for foreign account, although not actually exported as yet.

This loss in monetary gold comes just after American stocks have crossed the $5,000,000,000 mark for the first time. While no information as to the takers of this metal was available, it was felt in banking circles that it was probably taken by France or Holland or both. It was pointed out that continental central banks may have wished to increase the amount of metal available in case of unforeseen repercussions from the London crisis.

is temporary helmsman of the national government because Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today went to the country for a rest necessitated by the overstrain of recent weeks.

The prime minister attended a cabinet meeting at 10 Downing street this morning, and no alarm was felt about his physical condition. A few days of golf and relaxation were expected to aid recovery of his ordinarily buoyant spirits. He will remain away from London until Monday, but will be in close touch by telephone.

Other moves by the government today included a ban on the purchase of foreign exchange except for normal business transactions and for reasonable traveling or personal expenses. Thousands of British tourists on the continent are hurrying home, and numerous British winter colonies along the Mediterranean shores will be affected by the drop in the value of sterling.

The government is taking early precautions against an undue rise in food prices and announced that drastic regulations under the emergency powers act, called into force during the general strike of 1926, again will be employed if necessary to prevent speculation.

As for the effect abroad of Great Britain's six-month suspension of the gold standard, the anxiety and uncertainty of yesterday had largely been replaced today by messages of reassurance for the future from many parts of the world.

JURY HOLDS MARR SLAIN BY UNKNOWN

Kinzie, jr., 8, Joe, 6, and Phillip, 5, in whose house Marr was shot. George accused his brothers of the crime, but the verdict of the jury absolved all of them.

Phillip refused to touch the gun when Sheriff W. C. Hopkins asked him to try to open it. No persuasion would induce him to touch the weapon, although Miss Agnes Duvall, the county welfare worker, was brought into the crowded courtroom to assist in the questioning.

The story first told by the children, that Rudolph Brady, a neighbor, ran from the house after the shooting Saturday, caused Brady, his wife, Mildred, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Katie Vermilion to be held for some time. Brady was not present last night, but his wife and her mother both testified that Phillip confessed firing the fatal shot.

BOLIVIA-PARAGUAYAN PACT MOVES WAITED

U. S. One of Powers Urging Nonaggression Parley on October 1.

(Associated Press.)

The Bolivian and Paraguayan Legations said yesterday they were without instructions concerning the impending negotiation of a nonaggression pact, pending discussion of the Chaco boundary dispute.

The State Department announced that the United States and the four other neutrals—Colombia, Cuba, Mexico and Uruguay—were asking the governments at Asuncion and La Paz if October 1 would be suitable for opening the nonaggression conversations in Washington. The Washington representatives of neither of the principals in the frontier disagreement have been instructed to conduct the discussions to which both countries have agreed.

Officials pointed out that if the two countries send special representatives to Washington for the negotiations, more time will be required before they can be opened. The neutrals, however, have been anxious to get the conversations under way as quickly as possible, apparently counting on the Washington representatives of Bolivia and Paraguay to participate with the neutrals.

The query to the two governments was forwarded yesterday through the ministers at the two capitals, but there was no indication last night what the replies would be. In view of the immediate date suggested, however, officials expected replies promptly.

Particular attention has been directed to the time which would be required for Paraguay to send a special representative here from Asuncion if Charge d'Affaires Ynsfran is not designated, although the possibility was seen of sending a minister from a nearby country. Ynsfran is a delegate to the Pan-American Commercial Conference in October.

Bolivia has in Washington her new minister, Luis Abelli, and the former minister, Eduardo Diez de Medina, who canceled his sailing to await instructions from his government.

There was no indication, however, that the Bolivian government has designated its representative.

Girl Loses Temper; Sent to Gallinger

An attractive 19-year-old girl was booked for mental observation and sent to Gallinger Hospital shortly before last midnight because she lost control of her temper at Emergency Hospital, where she had been taken for treatment after being found lying unconscious in Thirteenth street near Edgevale terrace northwest.

A police car came upon the girl, who later identified herself as Billie Ledbetter, 1337 Childress street northeast, and took her to the hospital, where, after being revived, she screamed that she had to go home and tossed a telephone at an interne to emphasize her demand.

She was subdued by the concerted efforts of internes, orderlies and policemen and transferred to Gallinger.

Wall Street Is Cheered As Shocks Shake World

By JOHN J. DALY

THE shock that went round the world, the reverberation of the pound sterling's plunge, closed bourses in many countries, but it failed to shake the New York Stock Exchange.

Instead, the stock exchange did a rushing business. Stocks went up instead of down, and prognosticators now claim the end of all trouble is in sight. Tomorrow, of course, is another day.

If the outlook is dubious, if the English pound and the French franc, the Canadian dollar and the Italian lira, accompanied by the Hollandish guilder, all take nose dives, the New York Stock Exchange perks up and marks up its bargains.

• • • •

IF all the world is happy, the British navy supreme on the high seas, the French celebrating the fall of the Bastille, the Canadians opening new clubs along the border, and the Italians staging an old-fashioned Roman holiday, the New York Stock Exchange turns blue and seeks the storm cellar. So much external joy is bound to hide heavy hearts. Wall street financiers figure. Where there is dancing, there is usually a fiddler's bill to be paid. The morning after the night before brings a headache. So the stock exchange anticipates.

WHEN the Department of Commerce releases favorable trade reports, showing that Uncle Sam's export and import business is way above par, the bourseocrats of the street throw golden securities right and left on the market, getting rid of them as fast as they can—like so much poison.

When the Secretary of the Treasury issues a warning, saying that the national finances are running low, and that tax returns have not returned, Wall street puts reverse English on it and send stocks sky-rocketing.

The man in the street never knows what the gentlemen in the Street are going to do.

That, naturally, is part of the game. The idea is to catch the poor old public, the purchasing public, off guard. All rules were backward. When it is time to sell it is really time to buy. When it is time to buy, sell—and be mighty quick about it.

• • • •

IT'S like the old Army game—the little pea under the shell. Now you see it, now you don't!

The proud pound sterling having dropped in value, all may not be well with once Merry England; but everything is hotsy totsy in America, the child country, and especially on the stock exchange.

There is also a change in England's tune: Whereas the Britishers once sang as their national anthem "God Save the King," they are now humming, to the accompaniment of the bosses of the bourse, "Silver Treads Among the Gold."

IOWA VETERINARIANS GUARDED BY TROOPS

Tipton, Iowa, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—National guardsmen tonight were quartered here to protect veterinarians while they test cattle for tuberculosis. Acting under orders of Gov. Dan Turner, about 125 officers and 1,550 enlisted men arrived from all sections of Iowa during the day. As they detrained, large crowds were at the station, varying in mood from attitudes of sullenness to relief and care-free gayety.

How long the guardsmen will stay was a matter of conjecture, although since 72 hours are required for making and reading a test, it was expected they would be here three days more at least.

This little town, just 18 miles from West Branch, where President Hoover was born, during the past seven months has been the storm center of opposition to the State law requiring that all breeding and dairy cattle be subjected to the tuberculin test.

Referring to yesterday's defiance by 200 Cedar County farmers of 65 sheriff's deputies, who sought to protect two veterinarians while carrying out the test, Gov. Turner's office today issued a proclamation saying that the situation daily is growing more tense, and that unlawful interference with State officers must cease. It made no mention of martial law.

Large crowds milled about the station, as the first train bearing seven contingents pulled in. Rumors were rife that trouble would develop, but early tonight all was quiet.

It was understood that no definite orders have yet been issued for the use of the troops. They are under the command of Brig. Gen. Park A. Findley, former Polk County sheriff.

Varying opinions of how the farmers would consider the State's show of force were given today. Attorney J. C. France, who once was retained by the farmers when they sought an injunction against continuance of the testing, said he believed the objectors would submit readily.

On the other hand, county officials say the farmers are in a bad mood and predict strong resistance to the testing. Rumors today were that many farmers were driving their cattle out of Cedar County.

Veterans Report $77 Stolen From Trousers

Two patients at Walter Reed Hospital yesterday reported that their trousers, which were hanging on a chair in their ward, had been picked and $77 stolen altogether. Thirteenth Precinct police are holding John Lawson, 42-year-old colored patient, for investigation in connection with the thefts.

William H. Walker said he lost $65 in currency, while Matthew Thompson had $12 taken from his trousers.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 53

IN June of 1885 this picture was taken of the Grant family. Reading from left to right they are: U. S. Grant, jr., second son; Mrs. U. S. Grant, Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, daughter; Miss Julia Grant, now Princess Cantacuzen; Gen. U. S. Grant, U. S. Grant 3d, Mrs. F. D. Grant, Col. Frederick Dent Grant, eldest son; Nellie Grant, Mrs. Jessie R. Grant and Jessie R. Grant, third son.

The picture is most interesting, aside from the prominence of the parties photographed, in the record it gives of the fashions of the day. The women pictured here represent in all senses of the word what the well dressed women of that time were wearing. Even the clothes of the men show that we have come some distance since that day.

Col. U. S. Grant 3d, the little boy in the foreground with the sailor "skimmer" on, is now the director of public parks and buildings.

FORGED STOCK USED IN $50,000 SWINDLE

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—A hunt was begun in several States today for a man accused of obtaining $50,000 from one of New York's large brokerage houses by the use of counterfeit stock certificates.

The man sought is Emmett Sheridan, of Philadelphia, who obtained the money from the house of P. F. Cusick, Kent & Co. by drawing against 2,760 shares of counterfeit General Motors stock which he had placed on deposit.

"The certificates were the most beautiful example of counterfeiting I ever saw," said one officer of the firm "If they were passed in to me again tomorrow I probably would accept them, for it would be impossible for me to tell them from bona fide stock."

As detectives of the intelligence division of the New York Stock Exchange, New York police and officers of the bonding house which insured the brokerage firm against such loss began a hunt for the man, the method he used was explained.

Sheridan had been known by officials of Cusick, Kent & Co. for several years, they said. He conducted a printing and advertising agency in Philadelphia.

Frequently he came to New York and sought advice on the stock market from his friends in the brokerage firm. Three weeks ago he announced that new business connections would keep him in New York several days a week and said he was contemplating opening a stock account.

Last Wednesday he appeared with the 2,760 shares of stock and asked that they be kept for him in the company's safe.

"On Friday," said a statement issued by the company, "Mr. Sheridan appeared at our office and requested a check for $50,000, drawn against the stock. There was nothing unusual in the transaction, as the shares at that time were worth approximately $82,000.

"After turning the $50,000 over to Mr. Sheridan, we delivered the shares to the stock clearing corporation with the request that they be transferred to the name of Cusick, Kent & Co.

"The stock was received by the corporation too late Friday for transfer and as transfers are not made on Saturday, it was not until Monday that we were notified that General Motors had found the certificates to be counterfeits.

"Accordingly, the Stock Clearing Corporation withdrew its receipt for the transfer from Cusick, Kent & Co., whose officers immediately notified the bonding company by whom they are insured against such losses."

The matter was reported to the stock exchange and a general examination of all General Motors stock was started in a number of brokerage houses to ascertain if counterfeit certificates had been sold to any other firms.

DR. SHELTON'S SECRET TRIAL ON WOMAN'S CHARGES OPENS

ter," defense attorneys have expressed the opinion that Dr. W. E. Lambeth, who preceded Dr. Shelton as pastor of the Mount Vernon Church for a period of seven years, "certainly would be drawn into the trial."

Andrew Wilson, head of the District of Columbia Antisaloon League, who is assisting Dr. Regester in the prosecution, said that reports that Miss Williams brought about the trial "were all wrong." "A church committee brought the charges on," Mr. Wilson explained.

One of Dr. Shelton's friends remarked that "the bombshell has failed to explode," when advised of the substance of Miss Williams' testimony yesterday.

Dr. Shelton was one of a church committee which tried Bishop James Cannon, jr., two years ago in Dallas, Tex.

Among the group of prosecution witnesses are Miss Ada Lee Powell, for many years a chum of Miss Williams; Alberta Williams, Miss Williams' sister, together with several members of the Mount Vernon Church. Dr. Lambeth, the former pastor, said he "might" testify.

Dr. Hammond, of Martinsburg, W. Va., who is presiding, said that the trial would probably last several days and that when it was completed "an announcement would be made." "The bishop has given strict orders," Dr. Hammond said, "that no information is to be given until then."

Case Only Just Begun.

Dr. Regester was asked the direct question as to whether the prosecution and defense had each presented its case, and his reply was "we do not conduct a trial that way." He stated the case had practically only started, and that in his opinion it would not be completed in one day, even if a night session was held, which he considered doubtful.

Dr. Shelton, accompanied by Mrs. Shelton, their daughter, Mrs. Mildred Stokes, and their two sons, Fred and Hadley Shelton, arrived in Alexandria at 10 o'clock, and shortly thereafter were joined by the Rev. H. S. Deal, assistant pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Church; Mrs. Deal, Miss Roberta Taylor, Dr. Shelton's present secretary; Miss Fay Logan and Miss Estelle Dozier, of Atlanta, both former secretaries; the Rev. Dr. W. J. Young, head of the missions department of Emory University, Atlanta; the Rev. Dr. F. M. Parker, dean of the Candler School of Theology, of Atlanta; the Rev. Dr. R. L. Russell, pastor of the Druid Hill Methodist Church of Atlanta; the Rev. Dr. John Pierson, of Clarendon, Va., and several other friends and supporters.

Accuser and Party Arrive.

The members of the trial board, Miss Williams, who was accompanied by the Rev. Dr. W. A. Lambeth, of Durham, N. C., former pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Church; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stacy, Miss Ada Lee Powell, and Miss Williams' brother, Dr. C. C. Williams, a dentist, of Washington, arrived shortly after the Shelton party, and were admitted to the church. With the exception of Dr. Shelton himself, the members of the party stood in front of the Young People's Building, adjoining the church, for some time, and then Mrs. D. L. Snyder, wife of the pastor of the Alexandria Methodist Church, opened the side door of the parsonage and invited them in. They spent the greater part of the day on the front porch of the parsonage.

The members of Miss Williams' party, while going from their cars across the sidewalk to the church, and later going across the street to the hotel, where they lunched, indicated great aversion to being photographed, hiding their faces behind newspapers, their hats and hands.

Mrs. Shelton, although she told a member of the board that she believed she should be allowed to attend the trial, and wished to testify as a character witness for her husband, was refused admittance to the trial yesterday, and was given no assurance that she would be called or permitted to hear any of the proceedings.

Wife Champions Husband.

Friday of this week, she said, will be the thirtieth anniversary of her marriage, and she is convinced that her husband has never in all his life harbored an impure thought. "The charges," she said, "would be ridiculous if they were not so serious."

When Dr. Shelton, on adjournment for luncheon, started across the street, one of his party affectionately placed his arm around the minister and assisted him. The large number of his friends who are understood to have come from Atlanta of their own volition and at their own expense, to testify, appear to be intensely loyal to him.

Yesterday, when a press photographer asked Mrs. Shelton to allow a photograph to be made of her, one of the party exclaimed: "I wish you could show how sweet she is."

TRANSAMERICA CORPORATION VOTES TO ADOPT NEW POLICY

America National Association, operating 32 branches in New York City, and having resources of some $400,000,000, in addition to other banking and financial organizations.

Under the new policy Transamerica will continue as an investor in the banking field, but it will "confine itself to minority holdings," a letter to the stockholders points out.

This control of large commercial banks at opposite ends of the country "in the light of important changes" since 1928, particularly as there is "no apparent likelihood that Nation-wide branch banking will be authorized in the near future," has caused the directors to change the policy of the company, the letter to the stockholders explains.

It was explained unofficially that Transamerica will not liquidate such majority holdings immediately, but will delay this action until some appropriate time.

Further, Transamerica will not confine its activities to ownership of interests in banks. The "directors believe that the development of business enterprises on a Nation-wide scale offers an ample field for profitable financial service and investment," the letter says.

The corporation issued a consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, giving effect to drastic writedowns of the value of holdings, writeoffs of good will and other intangibles, writing down to current values of properties heretofore carried at cost, which showed total tangible assets of $302,117,000.

This compares with total assets shown in the balance sheet of December 31, 1930, of $1,117,191,844. This drastic decline was explained as reflecting the writing down of everything to rockbottom by the most conservative methods of accounting. It reflects in large part the carrying of properties at present values which were heretofore carried at cost. These costs represented the high values in such years as 1928 and 1929.

Both the stocks of Transamerica Corporation and its predecessor, the Bancitaly Corporation, saw feverish speculation at swiftly rising prices during the bull market which terminated in 1929. Transamerica had remarkable success as a trading company during the boom period. Its profits for 1929 were about $67,000,000, which included $22,500,000 in unrealized profits which had accumulated during the previous year.

Transamerica stock rose to $166 a share in September, 1929, when a stock dividend of 150 per cent was declared, amounting to a 2½-for-1 split-up and considerably reducing the market value of the shares. The outstanding capital was brought by this measure to nearly 25,000,000 shares.

The stock has worked almost steadily lower during the past year. Its high price this year was $18 a share, and low price $5. The shares closed today at $5.25, unchanged from yesterday.

San Francisco, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—A. P. Giannini, founder of the Transamerica Corporation, announced tonight that he would fight the decision reached at a meeting of the corporation board in New York to relinquish control of its banking affiliates.

LAVAL TO BE HOOVER VISITOR NEXT MONTH

Will Seek Solution to Arms Problem; Edge Likely to Sail Also.

Paris, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval will visit President Hoover in Washington next month in a determined effort to prepare for solution of the world's difficult problems of disarmament and reparations.

The premier expressed strong hope of a better understanding with the United States today. He will depart October 12 or 14, accompanied by his daughter, who will act as interpreter, and a small group of financial and diplomatic experts. American Ambassador Walter E. Edge probably will return to Washington at the same time.

To Air Position of France.

Unless the cabinet should impose unexpected objections, Laval plans to make the visit to President Hoover an occasion for a detailed presentation to America of the position of France in Europe. He will stress that the French viewpoint (demanding political guarantees before disarmament) is not without the possibility of compromise and he will point out that France has no ambition to "domineer" Europe.

France must be a "pillar in Europe" to protect the temporarily weaker powers against the dangers of Communism, the French premier believes. He wants Mr. Hoover to understand the French position so that there will not be any recurrence of such a surprise as was involved in the Hoover debt holiday plan. The French recently have looked askance at suggestions that the debt holiday might be extended after next July, particularly in view of their protests against the possibility of ending German reparations payments.

Only a Few Aids.

Laval will be accompanied by only a few aids on the trip to America, and he desires to avoid all diplomatic flourishes to permit greater opportunity for study of the mutual positions of the United States and France.

He is confident that the willingness of France to make "reasonable" sacrifices will facilitate the conversations, but he desires that the talks hinge on economic rather than political phases of the subject. Laval is a "young" premier for France; an almost unknown politician who has risen to international prominence in the last year. He is friendly and smiles frequently, but he has dealt with international questions with a firm hand.

(Associated Press.)

State Department officials said last night definite word whether Premier Laval of France, would visit the United States is not expected before Friday.

They pointed out that the French cabinet meets then and is expected to consider the matter.

Music Broadcast By Planes Slated

Experiment Set Tomorrow by Aerial Orchestra Through WRC.

Transport planes that fly on wings of song, accompanied by the full-ranged blare of an aerial dance orchestra, were declared entirely feasible by National Broadcasting Co. engineers yesterday, following tests with a huge Condor airplane of the Eastern Transport Co.

A practical experiment will be made tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, when orchestra music from the plane will be broadcast through Station WRC. Eastern Air Transport planes already are equipped with two-way radio communication, but the equipment never has been capable of the full range of orchestra music.

Mechanical difficulties were encountered in tests made to determine feasibility of broadcasting orchestra music from an Army blimp at Langley Field yesterday, during the progress of the Washington Radio and Electric Show. Weight of men and equipment, coupled with night-flying barriers, made it advisable to postpone the exhibition until a larger ship is available.

GENERAL RAILWAY INQUIRY PROPOSED

Attorney at Rate Hearing Urges Emergency Action by I. C. C.

(Associated Press.)

A far-reaching investigation of the Nation's transportation problem was proposed to the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday during arguments in favor of the 15 per cent freight rate increase asked by the railroads.

The suggestion was made by Grenville Clark, of New York, representing savings banks and other railroad security holders. Together with Charles E. Hughes, jr., representing other security holders, he warned the commission that the situation warranted emergency action and that the investment value of railroad bonds was dependent upon the rate raise.

Mr. Clark asked the commission to name three of its members, the Secretary of the Treasury, the governor of the Federal Reserve Board, the chairmen of the interstate commerce committees of the Senate and the House and three representatives each of the railroads and shippers to conduct the transportation inquiry.

Coordination Aim of Study.

Some means of coordinating activities of the railroads, buses, trucks, pipe lines, steamship companies and aviation organizations would be the aim of the study.

Mr. Clark said he was not concerned with placing responsibility for the "critical situation" of railway credit. "The only thing I am concerned about is the remedy," he said, adding: "That remedy must be commenced by full granting of the railroads' application."

Asserting any relief now could at best be only temporary he suggested a permanent solution could be found through a more sweeping inquiry. With coordination of all means of transportation, he said, stability would result.

Early Report to Congress.

He urged adoption of the suggestion without delay so recommendations for legislation would be ready for the convening of Congress in December. He said he felt the special commission should recommend a Federal tax on interstate bus and truck operation which can not now be reached by Federal regulation. The steamship companies, he said, should be brought under the commission because "they are destroying themselves and the railroads, too," with unregulated rate reductions.

Mr. Hughes told the commission that 77 per cent of the $7,000,000,000 worth of railroad securities would be removed from legal investment lists at the end of this year. The only hope, he said, was commission action to increase railroad revenue.

Iowa Farm Problems Get Ear of President

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Turner and a party of Iowa agricultural representatives yesterday discussed with President Hoover economic conditions in the Midwest. The party came to the Capital to seek adequate finances for Iowa farmers at a low rate of interest.

Gov. Turner said "the moving of some departments of the Government are too slow and ponderous. This is an emergency proposition and should override some of the intricate machinery of government."

CHINESE ARE UNITING TO RESIST JAPANESE

Tokyo by the Rengo News Agency. The dispatch indicated that troops had been sent to Harbin, inland metropolis of the province, following appeals for protection by Japanese living there.

Japanese and Chinese diplomatic representatives outlined to the American Government yesterday the positions of their respective governments in the Manchurian situation.

Ambassador Debuchi, of Japan, conferred with Secretary Stimson for nearly an hour on latest developments in Manchuria, while Yung Kwai, Chinese charge d'affaires, discussed the same subject at length with Stanley Hornbeck, chief of the State Department's Far Eastern division.

Expresses Hope for Settlement.

While no official statement was made, Yung Kwai afterward expressed the hope that the League of Nations would settle the matter.

He added that pending action by the league he had not asked the United States to invoke either the Kellogg-Briand pact for renunciation of war or the nine-power treaty of 1922 in which Japan, among other nations, guaranteed the territorial integrity of China.

The State Department has indicated a belief that both pacts bear upon the situation.

Neither Secretary Stimson nor Ambassador Debuchi would discuss the conference.

LEGAL BEER SEEN AS TAX SOLUTION

Senator Tydings Says Nation Has No Other Means to Meet Problem.

(United Press.)

Prediction that the Government's empty pocketbook will force the 4 per cent beer issue to a head in Congress this winter, and probably bring legalized beer, was made yesterday by Senator Millard Tydings (Democrat), Md.

"Where are you going to get the money to run the Government?" is the question to which Tydings said the answer is: "$500,000,000 from a 25-cents-a-gallon tax on 4 per cent beer."

He based his estimate on a national consumption of nearly two billion gallons in the last year of beer, 1919.

"The man who opposes legalization of beer is saying to the income-tax payers in effect, 'I'm in favor of raising income taxes by 50 per cent.'" Tydings added.

Tydings is one of the leading anti-prohibitionists in the Senate, and attracted much attention last year when he attacked home wine making as a discrimination against those who liked beer.

Would Provide Work.

"Beer will make work, help the railroads, create a demand for more coal, and use 3,000,000,000 pounds of foodstuffs a year," he said.

Tydings believes the beer issue will come to a head irrespective of whether President Hoover takes a definite stand on the question.

The Maryland senator said he would favor a plan to distribute bottled beer through present retail agencies, such as grocery and drug stores, with a provision allowing beer to be served with meals in restaurants.

No Incomes to Tax.

"If we don't do this to raise revenue, with a billion-dollar deficit, then what?" he asked. "We can't tax the farmer, or the worker. Income taxes are falling to 50 per cent of their former figure, and there are no incomes from which to raise the money."

Meanwhile the prohibition forces opened a new campaign among college students, calling a meeting of field secretaries and officials of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association to meet here Friday and Saturday. A new plan of campaign by which 300 institutions and 200,000 students will be reached is to be planned.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, leading organization of its kind and an advocate of outright repeal of the dry laws, submitted to Congress a statement showing nearly half a million dollars spent so far this year. Contributions of $410,769 and expenditures of $391,858 for the first eight months were listed. The contributions came largely from rich men, with approximately one-third of the total from the du Pont family of Delaware. John J. Raskob gave $40,000, and R. T. Crane, jr., of Chicago, and Edward S. Harkness, of New York, $30,000 each.

CHAPLIN AND GANDHI MEET AT RECEPTION

dense crowds in the streets. The East End population turned out in full force to cheer Chaplin, and it was with difficulty that he forced his way through the crowd, which was 50 per cent children.

Apology From Gandhi.

Gandhi apologized for being late when he finally arrived and was introduced by Mrs. Naidu. He seated himself on a sofa and asked Chaplin to sit beside him. Chaplin quickly switched the conversation around to the machine age.

"I am diametrically opposed to abolition of machinery," the actor told Gandhi, who has promoted return to such acme industries as spinning as one solution to India's economic problems. "Inventions are the inheritance of mankind and should be allowed to relieve the burden of mankind."

"I understand the Occidental viewpoint," said Gandhi in a slow, deliberate voice, studying the face of the comedian. "But your viewpoint is not suited to application in India."

Gandhi looked at his cheap watch and discovered that it was 7 p. m. He excused himself and squatted on the floor with the Indian party, chanting hymns and praying. Chaplin remained on the sofa watching the regular evening service and later he returned to his hotel.

50,000 JOIN IN LEGION MARCH WHILE HALF MILLION WATCH

cision of a single delegate. This is a question which the American Legion must decide for itself. I believe it important enough to justify full, free and extended consideration without interference."

50,000 March in Parade.

Upward of 50,000 men, marched under a merciless sun today in what probably was the greatest patriotic spectacle the Nation has seen since those same men marched to war 14 years ago.

The long, colorful line moved past half a million or more spectators in the annual parade of the American Legion, which paused in the deliberations of its national convention to display its strength and spirit. Estimates of the number in the procession ran as high as 100,000 but official legion registration figures showed 50,000 listed to date.

Starting at 11 a. m. at Grand boulevard and Jefferson avenue, 3 miles from the City Hall reviewing stand, the parade still was moving long after dark. The spectacle which started under a midday sun was completed amid the blazing electric lights of the business section. Portions of the parade which were first in line had disbanded before the last sections formed to start their march to the reviewing stand.

Distinguished Guests Watch.

In the stand were Commander O'Neil and a large group of distinguished guests from the United States and abroad. Through the long hours these men moved weary arms in salute as colors were carried by in what seemed an endless procession and as the leaders of sections snapped to the military greeting.

The parade was a mixture of militant patriotism and good-natured fun. It was a continuous blaze of martial and popular music. From any point a spectator could hear at least four of the 200 or more bands. And for many of the spectators the band music was all of the parade. The entire line of march was a solid mass of humanity held back from the center of the streets by police lines.

A constant surge from the rear kept police reserves busy for hours. Rope after rope was broken by the weight of the crowd, and it was only by use of the mounted squad, which rode the edge of the line, that police were able to keep clear a path for the paraders. Late in the afternoon National Guard Cavalrymen reinforced the police. Many women fainted and were removed with difficulty.

Legionnaires from the far corners of the world marched in the big pageant. There were little groups from Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines. There was a kilted band from Canada and a representation from those who made their homes in France, Italy and Belgium after the war.

The display was more than a parade—it was a long series of parades. There were States such as Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Idaho, Pennsylvania, New York and Wisconsin which contributed a mile of marching men.

Portland, Oreg., apparently was assured the 1932 convention of the American Legion with announcement by the time and place committee today that it had voted to recommend that city as the meeting place for next year. The choice was without opposition in the committee.

More Than 1,800 Treated For Heat and Injuries

Detroit, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Emergency hospitals and first-aid stations along the line of march of the American Legion parade were taxed today. Between 1,800 and 2,000 persons were treated for heat prostration and injuries suffered as the thousands of spectators rushed police lines to witness the procession. The majority of the injuries were minor.

Six persons received serious injuries in falls from lofty places where they were watching the parade.

Memphis Appeal Stock to Be Sold

Court Orders Newspaper Sale on Default of Bond Interest.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Chancellor James B. Newman signed a decree today, ordering the sale of the capital stock of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, Inc., publisher of the Commercial Appeal and Memphis Evening Appeal at Memphis, October 26.

The decree was entered at the instance of the Nashville Trust Co., as trustee for the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Co., which holds $1,500,000 worth of bonds of the Southern Publishers, Inc., secured by the capital stock of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, Inc. Sale of the stock was asked on the ground that interest on the bonds was in default.

Under Chancellor Newman's decree, the stock is to be sold to the highest bidder at the office of the Nashville Trust Co. here.

LEGISLATURE CALL ISSUED OVER YATES

New Jersey Governor Moves After Shooting Involving State Senator.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 22 (U.P.).—Because one of its members indulged in the luxury of a blonde mistress across the river in a Manhattan apartment, the honorable Legislature of the State of New Jersey will convene in special session next Monday night.

Lawmakers have met in extraordinary session to cope with numerous emergencies in recent months, but rarely if ever, have senators and State representatives been brought together to consider a problem like the one presented by the young and once dashing senator, Roy T. Yates, of Paterson.

Infatuation, gin parties and finally a revolver shot that punctured the senator's abdomen lie behind the special legislative session which was called today by Gov. Morgan F. Larson.

Gov. Larson gave Senator Yates until 4 p. m. to submit his resignation. Then he signed the order for the legislative session to take action against Yates. The whereabouts of the senator since he left a New York hospital a few days ago, have not been known. His wounds threatening at first to prove fatal, healed slowly and he left the hospital in an ambulance.

Radio Tube Strife Is Settled at Last

Sarnoff Reports Amicable Ending of Many Long Litigations.

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Threatening clouds of long drawn-out litigation over the heart of the radio receiver, the vacuum tube, were cleared away today.

Suits brought by 21 tube manufacturers and said to invoke damages totaling $47,500,000 were nailed together with suits and counter suits covering radio tube patents.

Announcement of the agreement was made in a statement by David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, which said: "An amicable understanding has been reached for the adjustment of the clause nine litigation pending between RCA and a number of manufacturing companies in the radio tube field and the cases will be discontinued."

Man Dies, 2 Buried Alive As Building Collapses

Philadelphia, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—One man was crushed to death, another man and woman buried alive and several other persons injured early today when a two-story twin apartment structure collapsed at 4309-11 Walnut street.

The dead man is George Mitchell, cafe proprietor, who planned to sail for Ithaca, Greece, next week to bring his wife and baby to this city. Six hours after the buildings crashed into ruins, rescuers reached the man and woman buried beneath tons of debris. Both were still alive.

WIDOW IS CLEARED IN YACHT SLAYING

Police Now Seek Maniac, Total Stranger, as Collings' Killer.

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—District Attorney Alexander Blue, who at first expressed skepticism at the story told by Mrs. Benjamin P. Collings about what happened the night her husband was slain in Long Island Sound tonight said he believed her "relieved of all culpability."

She will be the first witness he added when the inquest into what happened aboard the Collings yacht Penguin is resumed on Friday.

Blue's apparent dismissal of any suspicion with respect to Mrs. Collings followed a study of the results of a two-day questioning of the young widow by Felix de Martini, private detective retained by authorities investigating the case.

The prosecutor admitted De Martini's interview had brought the case no nearer solution but he added that it had developed an angle "which looks very promising."

He said his investigators were searching for a maniac who was a "total stranger to the Collingses."

In this connection De Martini said:

Charles Curran, of Florida, Is Beaten to Death in Georgia.

Fairburn, Ga., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Charles M. Curran, an accountant, of Jacksonville, Fla., was beaten to death on a lonely country road near here last night, and his wife, Mrs. Romie Curran was found bound and gagged near his body this morning. She told authorities two Negroes killed Curran after robbing them, and then tied her fast and left her in the forest.

Although exhausted from prolonged exposure, Mrs. Curran gave the sheriff a vivid account of the attack. She said she and her husband left Atlanta late yesterday to search for her child by a former marriage, who she believed was living with her former husband in the Fairburn district.

Officers throughout the Fairburn section were searching today for Negroes fitting the description she gave. Curran was 35 year old. His wife is 30.

RESCUED AVIATORS BOUND TO NEW YORK

Three From Wrecked Plane Are Transferred From Motorship.

S. S. Stavangerfjord, at sea (By Radio), Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Willy Rody, Christian Johannsen and Fernando Da Costa Viega, transatlantic airmen, were transferred to this vessel today from the motorship Belmoira which picked them up off the Newfoundland coast after they had clung to the wreckage of their plane for seven days. The vessel will arrive in New York Friday.

Rudy and Johannsen were in excellent condition, but Da Costa Viega was in the ship's hospital tonight with a slightly injured knee. Capt. Irgens said their condition was remarkable considering the length of time they drifted in the wreckage of a land plane.

The transfer to the Stavangerfjord took only 20 minutes. It was made in the ship's lifeboat, less than 200 miles off Cape Race, Newfoundland. The plane was a complete wreck.

Delta Phi Sigma Meets And Plans Fall Events

The Iota Chapter of the Delta Phi Sigma Sorority met last night at the Hay-Adams House. Plans for the fall and winter were outlined at this meeting, also new plans for the pledging and initiating of new members.

An eminent scientist writes the head chemist in our Research Department:

"Chesterfield Cigarettes are just as pure as the water you drink"

THE WATER YOU DRINK is tested from time to time by expert chemists to make sure that it is free from all injurious substances—that it is pure.

So it is in the manufacture of CHESTERFIELD cigarettes. Expert chemists test all the materials that are used in any way in CHESTERFIELD'S manufacture, to make sure that everything that goes into CHESTERFIELD is just right.

THE LEAF TOBACCO IS PURE. Long steel ovens—drying machines of the most modern type—scientifically "dry" and clean and purify the natural tobacco leaves by exact high-temperature treatment.

Then the shreds of cut tobacco, as you see them in your CHESTERFIELD, are again heated, cleaned and purified. From these pure tobaccos the cigarettes are made, and only the purest paper—the best that can be made—is used for CHESTERFIELD.

Cigarettes used to be made in an old-fashioned way, by hand. Now, no hand but yours touches CHESTERFIELD—another purity safeguard.

CHESTERFIELDS are made and packed in clean, sanitary factories where even the air is changed every four and one-half minutes—purity again.

ALL THIS CARE is taken to give you CHESTERFIELDS as nearly perfect as cigarettes can be made. Delivered in a moisture-proof, sealed package, they reach you just as good, just as pure as when they leave the factory. Good... they've got to be good—they're just as pure as the water you drink!

SHAM FIGHT MARKS BUTLER'S FAREWELL

2,000 Marines Hear General Say Good-By; Will Leave on October 1.

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., Sept. 22.—In an atmosphere of battle—familiar to him for 33 years of service as a Marine—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler stood before his command of 2,000 Marines this afternoon and said good-by like a soldier, though rising emotion threatened at times to cut short his brief farewell address to the corps which he has helped make famous.

The swan song of the picturesque Marine leader, whose active service ends October 1, came at the end of a day replete with warlike maneuvers staged in his honor. The rattle of machine gun fire and the heavier reverberations of artillery were heard throughout the day at this Marine post. A round of luncheons and receptions also marked the occasion.

Joined as Boy.

Butler, who joined the "First to Fight" forces when a lad in his teens, had as his guests for the dress parade, which capped the day's military activities, Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, the Marine officer's native State, and Mayor Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia. At one time Gen. Butler headed the police department of the Pennsylvania metropolis—doing so while on furlough from the Marines.

In his address of farewell, when the dress parade ended in a formation before the reviewing stand, Gen. Butler said:

"You have given me something to remember the rest of my life."

A moment later his voice began to break with emotion, and with typical Leatherneck savoir faire he swung into a lighter vein and remarked, "It's hot as hell, but we must go on, boys."

Is Silent on Plans.

Tomorrow Gen. Butler will lead his Quantico command in a stirring simulated attack on the base. Machine-gun barrages, light artillery fire, smoke screens, and a squadron of Marine planes "putting on" a strafing assault on ground troops will be included in the mock warfare maneuver.

Questioned as to his plans for the future, Gen. Butler said that beyond a speaking tour of several months, beginning mid-October, he had made no definite decision. His only answer to queries as to his reported intention to seek election to Congress was that "It's better to keep them guessing for a while." He will make his home at Newton Square, Pa.

That Gen. Butler will not retire from the public eye was indicated in a remark by his friend Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania at a smoker held in the retiring officer's honor later in the evening. Lauding Gen. Butler, the Pennsylvania governor said "We are all going to hear more from Gen. Butler soon."

"Gen. Butler is the greatest leader and builder of morale in the United States today," said Gov. Pinchot. "He has had an important part in making the Marine Corps what it is today—the greatest body of fighting men in the world." Mayor Mackey and Director of Public Safety Schofield spoke glowingly of the accomplishments of Gen. Butler during his term as head of Philadelphia's police activities.

Board Offers New U. S. Lines Contact

(Associated Press.)

The Shipping Board yesterday completed drafting a new contract for reorganization of the United States Lines. The contract represents the board's ideas on how best the lines can be reorganized and will be presented to the Chapman-Dawson-Dollar interests for acceptance.

If it proves unsatisfactory to Kenneth R. Dawson and R. Stanley Dollar, Pacific Coast shipping men, and P. W. Chapman, present titular owner, the contract will be returned and one of three alternatives adopted by the board.

The board either could seek authorization from Chapman for power to negotiate through general bidding for a new combination willing to accept the contract; request Chapman to name another party to undertake operation with him, or foreclose on mortgages and repossess the lines and advertise for bids.

HOOVER BODY PLANS CHICAGO JOB SURVEY

Hearings There Will Start Monday to Consider Many Proposals.

(Associated Press.)

Plans for creating new employment and spreading work now available will be considered Monday in Chicago by a committee of President Hoover's unemployment relief organization.

The committee was appointed with Harry A. Wheeler, of Chicago, as chairman, to consider hundreds of plans which have been suggested to the relief organization for providing employment.

Among the plans which probably will come before the committee are many that have been publically advocated recently, including proposals for extending operation of the five-day week and guaranteeing employment.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who is a member of the group, is expected to propose dividing the unemployment among industries for absorption on a proportional basis.

The committee on administration of relief, headed by Fred C. Croxton, assistant relief director, will meet here October 5 to consider, among other plans, the suggestion of Samuel R. McKelvie, former member of the Farm Board, for distribution of surplus wheat to the unemployed.

Jury Indicts Preacher For Murder of His Son

Augusta, Ga., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The Rev. J. M. Williams, former pastor of a Methodist church at Rochelle, Ga., was indicted by the Richmond County grand jury here today on charges of murdering his son, Raiford Williams, a sailor in the Navy.

The youth's body was found beside a highway soon after he came home on a furlough and officials at first presumed he was slain by robbers. Later, however, authorities suspected the minister and arrested him. They said they learned he advised his son his sister was seriously ill and arranged for him to secure a furlough to visit her, although it developod her illness was of a minor nature.

BEER—NOTHING DOING.

Many beer champions have indulged in the happy dream of a restoration of the intoxicating liquor traffic by furtive means, with the complicity of President Hoover. They have convinced themselves that if the President of the United States would simply close his eyes the violation of the eighteenth amendment could be accomplished by an amendment to the Volstead act providing that 3 per cent of alcohol in beer would not be intoxicating. All that is needed is a fiat from the Government declaring that intoxicating liquor is not intoxicating.

Among the advocates of this plan are many well-intentioned individuals who honestly believe that the intoxicating liquor traffic should be relegalized, on the theory that illegal traffic can never be suppressed, and that the Government might as well abandon the attempt to enforce the fundamental law which the people have enacted. They suggest that legalized liquor will yield a revenue to the Government, whereas illegal traffic builds up enormous profits which are used by criminals to defy the laws. It is also contended that the restoration of lawful beer trade would give employment to millions, thereby putting an end to hard times.

The arguments employed in behalf of the restoration of the beer industry have deceived many citizens who have not taken the trouble to analyze the situation for themselves. They would scorn the bare suggestion that Congress, the President and the Supreme Court should violate their oath of office and betray the Constitution and the laws, but that is what must be done if the trade in intoxicating beer is to be reestablished. Doubtless it will be denied that a demand is made for the legalization of "intoxicating" beer, but it is quite evident that this agitation would never have arisen if intoxicating beer were not desired.

Trade in intoxicants can not be tolerated by law. The Constitution forbids the making of such a law. Congress and the President can not nullify the eighteenth amendment. The Supreme Court would have to be a party to any governmental conspiracy to nullify the Constitution.

A respectable proportion of the American people denies that prosperity would be restored by legalizing the traffic in intoxicating liquor. But assuming that this element of the population is in the minority, and that it is mistaken, and assuming further that legalized liquor traffic would divert revenue from bootleggers to the Treasury, an immovable obstacle still blocks the way. This obstacle is the fundamental fact that the people of the United States have commanded the abolition of trade in alcoholic beverages. This command emanates from the greatest human authority, and it must be obeyed by Congress, the President and the Supreme Court.

Until the people cancel or amend their command, it must be expected that all branches of the Government will, in common honesty and loyalty, obey the command.

A conspiracy of the several branches of the Government to nullify the Constitution, in order to meet the wishes of a large proportion of the people, would be a crime more damaging to the United States than all the crimes committed by bootleggers and racketeers. It would be a murderous attack upon the integrity of the republic, committed by guardians and trustees. What would the Supreme Court be worth if it should once participate in a conspiracy to violate the highest law? What citizen would feel safe, in life or property, knowing that the nation's highest court was corrupt?

The integrity of the United States depends upon universal obedience to the command of the people. Whenever the people abandon the system whereby their will is binding upon the Government they may expect all evils that can flow from anarchy. Their problem then will be to form another union out of the wreckage of the Union they have destroyed.

NO FEDERAL WAGE CUTS.

Will R. Wood, chairman of the appropriations committee of the House, has proposed that the Government economy program include a reduction of salaries of Federal employes. It is a suggestion that is diametrically opposed to the administration's policy of insistence that wages be maintained.

Representative Wood does not advocate a horizontal cut of all Government employes, to be sure. He suggests that all receiving more than $2,500 a year be reduced 10 per cent. The saving would be negligible in comparison with the injury which such a precedent would cause. Following the lead of such action by the Nation, in direct negation of its reiterated appeals for contrary procedure on the part of private enterprise, a general slashing of pay checks might be expected.

It would not matter that the Government did not reduce the lower grades. Any lowering of salaries by the Government would be excuse enough for industry to inaugurate drastic cuts, and the administration could offer no protest in view of similar action itself. Thus far this depression has been weathered with a percentage of wage reductions considerably lower than the dividend cuts.

It is a most inopportune time for representatives of any branch of the Government to be suggesting that Federal authority place a warrant on wage cuts.

Many industries have so far refrained from wage cuts, although hour and day reductions in many forces have been necessary. But it is not difficult to foresee the influence Federal action would have. If, instead of being a counselor against pay reductions, the Government should actually establish the precedent, all restraint would be removed. Every consideration of justice and example must restrain the Government from inaugurating the measures it has consistently opposed.

SCHOOL INCOMPETENCY.

While mothers and fathers throughout the city interested in the education of their children got the boys and girls ready for school the school authorities failed to get the schools ready for the students. At least, on opening day there were not enough seats and desks to go round, nor quite enough books, and some of the children had, perforce, to sit on the floor or spread themselves over the lawns.

In a general scramble to place the blame for this untoward situation the superintendent of schools blames the office of the comptroller general, where a contract was held up because the buildings were not ready in time for the opening of the schools. There are two other versions: One blames the furniture manufacturers for not shipping their goods on time. Another states the railroads are to blame for slow service between the Massachusetts city, where the desks and chairs were made, and Washington, where they were so badly needed.

Whoever is to blame, the school situation is a reproach to all authorities concerned. The dearth of books and the lack of seating facilities are not the only troubles. Several new school buildings are without heating systems. The plants are lying around loose on the outside of buildings and will not be set up and functioning until late in October or November. Also, there are overcrowded portable schools, about which so much has been said and written—box-like buildings designed to fill emergencies which were supposed to have been torn down to make way for more substantial buildings.

In a time when the Nation is seeking to find every way imaginable to put men to work here are several outstanding instances where the problem might have been partly solved. During the summer men could have been at work installing desks and chairs in the schools, building new schools, tearing down portables and doing a hundred and one odd jobs that were sorely needed. What happened was that while the children enjoyed vacation, so did the authorities. Precious time has been lost in the beginning of a new school year—time that is robbed from children who are entitled to punctual and thorough provision for their educational needs.

The Commissioners, the Board of Education, the general accounting office and all others responsible for the breakdown of school efficiency deserve a sharp reprimand. They can not escape public condemnation by trying to pass the buck.

BETTER APPLES.

Four States near Washington produce approximately one-fourth of the apple crop in America. This fact was brought out last week in a conference of agricultural experts and educators from Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. These people met here with Charles S. Wilson, fruit member of the Federal Farm Board, for the purpose of encouraging further development of cooperative marketing by apple growers.

While no formal announcement was made, it is understood that steps were taken to bring about better grading and packing for the nearby growers and thus to obtain better prices. The cooperative movement, so far, has not made much progress among apple growers of this section, whose product is rated high in the general market. For instance, there are only two cooperative associations handling apples in the State of Maryland, at Cumberland and Chewsville. The next door neighbor last year produced some of the finest apples that reached the market.

It is believed by the experts that the cooperative movement, if it gains a good foothold in the four nearby States, will eventually put these Commonwealths in front of their rivals. The apple blossom festival at Winchester each year has done more than any other project to encourage the orchard owners, and it is likely that Maryland will start a fiesta of its own. Washington, one of the big apple markets, is vitally interested in the Maryland and Virginia crops.

THE SEA RESCUE.

In all the history of aviation only one case parallels the miraculous rescue at sea of the three aviators aboard the Junkers plane Esa, down 200 miles off Cape Race, Newfoundland, on the way from Lisbon to New York. The late Commander John Rodgers and his crew of four men were rescued after failure to reach Hawaii from San Francisco in 1925, but they were in a flying boat. These men, now riding to safe haven on a freighter en route to Russia, traveled in a land plane. They had floundered in the water 158 hours.

Not in the wildest dreams of imaginative writers has anything like this sea plunge ever been recorded. Modern invention surrounds the entire epic. In the olden days, not only would the men have been given up for lost but no word of their rescue would have reached any port until the ship bearing them had effected a landing. Now, a few moments after an anxious world is acquainted with the first facts by radio, the entire story, so far as it is known, is flashed on the front pages of newspapers the world over and delivered at the breakfast tables.

Time and events pass so fast that the people in New York who, ten days ago, had awaited the arrival of these fliers, were said to have forgotten all about them until word came that they were picked up at sea. This, of course, is one of the paradoxes of the day; that invention has speeded up life to such a point that events are too numerous to be easily remembered. Men start from Lisbon for New York on Monday, are sighted within hope of their destination on Tuesday, fail to arrive on Wednesday, are given up as lost on Thursday, mourned on Friday and forgotten on Saturday. Then comes the rescue, with the attendant tale of adventure, and the whirligig starts all over again.

BONUS AND THE TREASURY

By Brig. Gen. FRANK T. HINES, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, in Address to American Legion at Detroit Yesterday.

Let us not close our eyes to the changes that have taken place in the last two years nor fail to modify our program if those changes would seem to indicate the wisdom of so doing.

Today millions of our citizens are unemployed, among them to be sure many of our own buddies. The farmers in many parts of the country are carrying on without profit, if not at a loss. Commercial activities are relatively stagnant. But it is unnecessary for me to catalog further the symptoms of our present financial depression. We know times are hard. Moreover, we know that the Federal Government closed its last fiscal year with a deficit of $903,000,000.

And now for our present involvements of the Federal Treasury. The appropriations made by the last Congress for the Veterans' Administration for the present fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, were roughly $866,000,000. This, of course, is for veterans of all wars.

It is now estimated that a deficiency appropriation of about $350,000,000 will be necessary to meet the requirements of further loans on adjusted service certificates under existing legislation. A considerable deficit in money available for direct benefits is also developing.

I must remind you, too, that in addition to the $500,000,000 covered by the fiscal year ended last June for World War veterans, and this billion and a quarter needed for that ending next June, for all forms of veteran relief, roughly $800,000,000 provided by previous annual appropriations was taken from the Treasury and loaned on adjusted service certificates, making an actual withdrawal between March, 1931, and June, 1932, on our account and that of our former brothers-in-arms of approximately two billion dollars.

Let us not ignore the import of these sums. We start the present fiscal year with the Federal budget unbalanced—for the first time in many years—to the amount of $903,000,000; appropriations already made by the Congress for the Veterans' Administration of $866,000,000, must be met, with the reasonable certainty of a deficiency bill in the next session of Congress to provide roughly $350,000,000 for loans on adjusted service certificates, authorized during the last session. It is true that these loans are made at a rate of interest not unfavorable to the Federal Treasury; but it is just as true that the money loaned must find its way into the Treasury before the loan can be made. That means at once. And with the present reduced Federal revenues along all lines, there would seem to be no other recourse than to increase taxes.

These facts can not be evaded today in the consideration by the public at large and by the Congress of any legislative program looking to further benefits which may be considered and adopted at this convention.

In the face of reduced revenue the proportion of that being expended under our present laws on account of veterans is enlarging. Further liberalization and extension will increase further that ratio—and the amount of revenue which can be spent for other relief and constructive development becomes proportionately less. The rights of all citizens are equal. To my mind no group can afford to put forth a policy of seeking material advantage at the expense of another. In our present national economic emergency we must consider the plight of our citizenry at large, even at a temporary sacrifice of our own just needs. I, therefore, urge caution and extreme deliberation in considering your legislative program. Your action will be closely observed, and it will be judged in the light of the capacity of the Government to meet any new burden and in the light of other distress obtaining.

POST HASTE.

"Courage is not inconsistent with caution." Epictetus said it nearly 2,000 years ago. The President exemplified it at Detroit.

Free and unlimited coinage of debate at the legion convention is a wise decision. Some of the boys are all steamed up about the bonus. Let them blow off and then they can wind up with a ringing demand for beer.

There are now five Atlantic and Pacific fliers who ought to try their luck at Monte Carlo.

The Cenaral Labor Union is excited about Chairman Will Wood's proposal of Federal salary reductions. Federal wage-cutting would be fine backing for the administration's program of opposition to wage cuts, wouldn't it?

China is impotent to resist a modern Japanese army. She seems wise enough to know that if she calls for help some mediator may help her get Japan back within the established sphere of influence. Give Japan a good fighting excuse and China could kiss all Manchuria good-by.

Premier Laval is seriously considering a trip to the United States. Probably to see whether Sol Bloom is going to give Lafayette a fair showing in the Yorktown pageant.

The "striking" sailors contributed to the British crisis and now they'll get their pay cut even if their shillings number the same.

Boys, take note that our sartorial Prince Jimmy, returning for a look-in at the mayor's office, wore a milk-white beret and a chow dog. No, no feathers.

Stabilization of the pound at a lower level will not be an unmixed evil for England, and why not adopt a decimal system currensy while they're about it?

The United States should authorize proper funeral rites over the battered Nautilus and not require the risk of its becoming a chambered sepulcher on a transatlantic crossing.

Television seems so near at hand that preparations might as well be made to remove phones from bathrooms.

The auto within the intersection making a left turn has the right of way over through traffic coming from the right, though the auto on the right otherwise has that right. This is quite right, so get it right.

Guess who was as unaffected by the President's antibonus facts as he was by the evident logic of present conditions? Aw, who told you it was Brookhart?

We not only send Hugh Wilson to tell the League of Nations we will hew to the line with all nations on disarmament, but we believe two Hughs are better than one, so Hugh Gibson goes as our Geneva ditto.

Those That Live by the Sword Shall Perish by the Taxes

By ROBERT QUILLEN

YOU may doubt the existence of that law of compensation described by Emerson, but there is abundant proof that every deviation from the normal is followed by a reaction of equal measure.

The more cruelly men are enslaved, the more violent is their revenge; the more men in power abuse their authority, the more abuse they must endure when they are dethroned.

Every monster encourages the development of another monster to destroy it.

Consider the monster called war.

When a nation goes to war, there is an end of human liberty. Men who direct the butchery become tyrants, demanding instant obedience, and men once free become mere pawns in a horrible game.

Many young men join the game willingly, for all the land is drunk with excitement and those who remain at home are restless and unhappy without their usual companions.

But there are many others who hate war and want no part in it. These say to their masters: "Why did you drag us into this thing? What right have you to bring this horror on us against our will? We have no desire to kill anybody. Our only desire is to remain at home and do our work in peace. Why must we suffer and die because of your folly? We are free men. Let us alone."

But their pleas fall on deaf ears. Official might backed by the mob frenzy called patriotism forces them to suffer in a cause they neither understand nor approve.

Then peace comes; the truth again becomes lawful; the generals give way to politicians.

Veterans organize. A taste of power whets their appetites. They demand pensions. They require compensation. They ask more and more.

"Wait!" cry the alarmed officials. "You are making the burden too great for taxpayers to bear. You will bankrupt the Treasury. You are degrading your patriotism."

"Taxpayers!" sneer the veterans. "They are the ones who remained safely at home, profiteering while we suffered in trenches. What do we care for their suffering now? Pay us. Pay, or we shall vote you out of office. Did you consult our wishes when you had power? Now the power is ours and we shall take what we please."

As individuals the men are moderate and reasonable desiring only justice. As a power they are like all power. The pendulum has swung back. Those who once took orders now take 900 million dollars a year. The birds of war have come home to roost. Pay, and learn the price of "glory."

Mr. Legge is probably right in saying that most farmers even now are better off than many of the millions of unemployed. But that isn't the point. The farmer is a capitalist. But he doesn't stack up with the rest of the capitalists.

Filipino Independence.

Minneapolis Journal.

Vicente Villamin, Filipino economist and New York attorney, threw a flood of light on the Philippine question for his hearers at the Civic and Commerce luncheon yesterday. He illuminated its political, economic and international angles so well that they were quite prepared for his conclusion that the granting of independence to his people ought to be delayed for a period of some 20 years, so that in the meantime preparatory readjustments might be intelligently made. This conclusion, while perhaps unexpected from a Filipino source, was buttressed with fact and logic.

It may be taken for granted that the Filipinos want independence and that the American people are pledged to give them that boon, when the right time comes. It may also be conceded that the competition of duty free Filipino products, principally sugar and cocoanut oil, with American products has generated a new and lively desire in this country for immediate Filipino independence, followed by protective tariff against these products.

Financing the Campaigns.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Approach of the 1932 presidential campaign is stern reminder to party chieftains that it takes money to make the mare go, and getting money is one of the least easy things that any one is doing these days. Despite all the agitation against lavish expenditures in political campaigns, and the operation of the law prohibiting corrrupt practices, enormous sums are expended in each national campaign. In the very nature of the case, large sums are required. This is a big country, and to reach 123,00,000 people with a political appeal is essentially a costly operation.

The Democratic organization is reported to be preparing to solicit $1,000,000 to retire the Raskob loans and other obligations, and to start the campaign with a clean slate. The Democrats have the advantage of being extremely hopeful of victory. Contributors have the assurance that what they give will bear fruit. They lack the sources for big gifts the Republicans hitherto have had, but widespread popular demand for returning the government to Democratic hands should serve to stimulate giving to the Democratic war chest.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Veterans Loan Yields the Government Profit of $30,000,000 a Year, Says Veteran.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial, "Politics and Bonus," is misleading in that it gives the impression that the last Congress made a gift to the soldiers of the World War. Such is not the case. Congress simply made provision that the soldier might borrow money on his adjusted compensation certificate to one-half of its face value at 4½ per cent interest, which money the Government borrowed at about 2 per cent, thus making a profit at the expense of the soldier of between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000 yearly. The bill passed by the last Congress making this provision did not cost the Government a cent, nor the taxpayer a cent, but it was made at the expense of the borrower—the soldier. It means that the soldier who borrowed money on his adjusted compensation certificate will lose about one-third of the value of the certificate, due to the interest charge.

If the soldier was entitled to adjusted pay for services rendered the Government during the World War it is money that is long past due and should be paid now.

I resent the attitude of Gen. Harbord or any other person as trying to represent the soldier as holding a tin cup in asking for money that was due when the services were rendered.

If you are going to tell the public anything editorially, tell the truth. You know that Congress has not paid any part of the bonus as yet. You know that the bill passed by the last Congress cost the Government nothing, but, in fact, will bring into the United States Treasury over $30,000,000 a year for the next ten years.

Dangerous Traffic Conditions at Fourteenth and Kennedy Streets and Colorado Avenue.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish, through your paper, to call to the attention of the traffic director the condition that exists at the intersection of Fourteenth street, Colorado avenue and Kennedy street.

Traffic approaches this intersection from six directions, and the situation is further complicated by the location of the Fourteenth street and Colorado avenue traction terminal at this point.

The traffic here is exceedingly heavy due to two facts: (1) Colorado avenue runs diagonally between Sixteenth street and Georgia avenue and is used by motorists as a short cut between these two boulevards; (2) Kennedy street terminates at Sixteenth street and connects with the Morrow drive entrance to Rock Creek Park; consequently there is always a great deal of traffic traversing this street.

There are no traffic lights at this intersection. There is a "stop" sign on the east side of Kennedy street and a "slow" sign on the west side. Occasionally, during the evening rush hour, there is a policeman to direct the flow of traffic, but that only happens occasionally.

There are no pedestrian lanes marked off and the walking man has difficulty trying to watch six streams of traffic and keep out of danger at the same time.

United States Should Buy Up Silver and Boost Its Price, Says Mr. O'Connor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I've been studying the cause of the present depression, and I have come to the conclusion that the debasement of silver is at the bottom of it all. Silver should be brought back to the 20 to 1 ratio in prewar days, and it would be better to stabilize silver than trying to stabilize wheat and cotton. It would be easy for this country to take the surplus silver off the market and when silver rises in value—dispose of it to the silver-using countries at an enhanced price, either in coinage or otherwise. Countries like China and India can not purchase from this country when silver won't be accepted in payment. Half the gold of the world being held here, and France having a quarter, which leaves only a quarter divided amongst the rest of the world, you can easily see where the trouble lies, as everything is based on the gold standard. The bringing back the export trade to what it was can only be done by accepting silver at the 20 to 1 ratio, in exchange for the products of the country. The export trade kept 10 per cent of the people employed here and that explains why nearly that amount of people are out of employment today.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE CARDINAL.

A cardinal upon a tree
Carols a joyous song to me.

I pause upon my lonely way
To hear his golden roundelay.

I tell myself, he sings as though
My need for comfort he must know;

As if from his high place he sees
Man's weary spirit ill at ease,

And seeks with his melodious song
To cheer the wanderer along.

Thinking his music meant for me,
I closer move unto the tree.

But seeing me, to my dismay,
He stops his song and flies away,

Hoping to find, before too late,
A safer place to woo his mate.

Blessings to mortals often fall
That are not meant for them at all.

3 CHURCHES REPORT INCREASED HARMONY

Organic Unity of Methodists, Presbyterians and Episcopalians Held Possible.

Denver, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Increasing harmony between the Protestant Episcopal Church, entering the second week of its general convention here, and the Presbyterian and Methodist denominations was voted in a report today to the House of Deputies.

Seven members of the conference commission headed by the chairman, the Right Rev. Edward L. Parsons, Bishop of California, indicated in their majority report that organic unity of the three is not deemed impossible of attainment. A minority report, written by the late George F. Henry, Iowa lay delegate, and concurred in by Bishop Charles Fiske, of central New York, diametrically opposed every point in the majority report.

The majority report is accompanied by a resolution asking that the commission be discharged. The report was referred to committee.

Make Fiscal Plans.

The House of Bishops and the House of Deputies devoted much of their sessions today to rounding out details of financial plans for the next triennium.

Pressing world problems will be considered by the committee of 21, composed of 7 bishops, 7 priests and 7 laymen, under the leadership of Bishop James H. Freeman, Washington, D. C., chairman. The committee will hold public hearings throughout the convention on unemployment, industrial relations, world peace and prohibition.

Consideration of another social question involving the sterilization of criminals and insane persons, requested in a resolution introduced yesterday, was sidetracked, when the deputies voted to table the resolution. Opposition to the sterilization resolution was led by George W. Wickersham, lay delegate from New York, and chairman of the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission.

71 Dioceses Represented.

Seventy-one dioceses are represented in the 5,000 names attached to memorials introduced in the house of deputies today, opposing the use of the American Missal, mass book. The question of use of the missal is expected to come to a definite vote within a few days.

Wickersham and others are leading a movement to have the Book of Common Prayer designated as the only authorized book of worship of the church.

A resolution introduced by the Rev. J. Howard Melish, Brooklyn, requested the church to call upon Congress to enact unemployment legislation, including unemployment insurance. The resolution, with several others of a similar nature, will be considered by the committee of 21.

The date of adjournment of the convention was set at Wednsday, September 30, by the house of deputies today. The house of bishops is expected to concur.

Child, 3, Injured by Truck.

A truck struck and slightly injured 3-year-old Viola Spigler as she was playing in front of her home at 3 K street northeast yesterday. George Robinson, the driver, took her to Sibley Hospital to be treated for cuts on the forehead and hand. Robinson, who lives at 491 E street southwest, was exonerated after a brake test.

Cotton Curb Law Is Signed in Texas

Production Is Limited to 30 Per Cent of Land in Cultivation.

Austin, Texas, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Texas led the way for the South tonight in cotton curtailment with a new acreage reduction law designed to bring farmers relief from overproduction and low prices.

Gov. Ross S. Sterling placed his signature on the measure restricting cotton planting in 1932 and 1933 to 30 per cent of the Texas land now in cultivation and forbidding the planting of cotton thereafter on the same land in successive years.

What other cotton growing States would do remained in doubt tonight. The South Carolina Assembly ratified the bill prohibiting cotton planting in that State next year and sent it to Gov. I. C. Blackwood for his signature.

4 LARGE INDUSTRIES ANNOUNCE PAY CUTS

the rate per hour," President Farrell said.

Chicago, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Executives of leading steel companies here today indicated no action would be taken at this time toward reducing wages. Officials of Inland Steel, American Steel Foundries, Acme Steel and Wisconsin Steel said no such step was under consideration "at present."

(United Press.)

President Hoover and American Federation of Labor officials received their first word of the 10 per cent wage cuts in the steel industry yesterday from the press.

Both have campaigned vigorously for maintenance of wage levels.

No immediate comment was forthcoming. American Federation of Labor officials at first refused to believe the announcement. "There's nothing to those reports," an official said. Finally convinced, he had nothing to say. President William Green was "in conference," and it was said he would not comment.

White House officials indicated the United States Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube companies did not inform the President of their intention to slash wages.

The action is expected to bring up again the so-called pledge made by steel and other industrial executives to President Hoover in the November, 1929, White House conference. James A. Farrell and Myron S. Taylor, executives of U. S. Steel, attended that conference.

Secretary of Commerce R. P. Lamont said in a letter several weeks ago that no pledge was made, but Mr. Hoover and his spokesmen, and organized labor leaders have accepted it as a pledge.

Organized labor has little strength in the steel industry, and it is not believed that labor troubles will follow unless other industries follow suit.

Secretary of Labor W. N. Doak refused to comment.

FERNS IN THE HOUSE.

SO many people write to me, asking how to care for ferns, usually inclosing a half-dead frond. These leaves all tell the same tale—either the plant is not being kept clean or the owner is attempting the impossible and trying to keep in a modern living room a variety of fern that is only fitted for greenhouse culture.

For example, take the maidenhair fern. It is as sensitive as a violin, and in a greenhouse, where temperature, moisture and ventilation can be regulated to suit its very definite requirements, it is a real joy. But in any other situation it shows its resentment and "Nuf said!" Indifferent, half-dead plants are always unsightly.

Now there are four varieties of ferns with good constitutions which will withstand the environment of the average house. These are the Scotti, Teddy, jr., Polypodium and Boston. In the past the life of the average house fern was a tragedy, and anything so beautiful as a fern deserves a better fate. You can not blame the plant for your failures. In nine cases out of ten, when your fern begins to turn brown on the ends of the shoots and the new fronds cease to unfold, the fault is yours. You either selected a variety with too delicate a constitution or you are guilty of absolute neglect.

The constitution of any of the varieties I have just mentioned is sturdy, and if ten minutes a day are regularly devoted to their care they will remain beautiful. I hope that you do not skip the "regularly"—for with that word omitted, you will accomplish little, even with one of the hardy varieties.

Each morning carry your fern to some convenient place, such as a laundry tub, and there sprinkle its foliage thoroughly, being careful that the water reaches the under side of each and every frond, the favorite hiding place of most insect enemies. Then it will take only a minute to remove any scale which may have attached itself to the midrib of the fronds. Scale, you know, is a hard-shelled brown insect that is the foremost enemy of ferns. These can be removed easily when there are only one or two on a plant, but if you permit them to collect you will have to cut the plant back to its roots to eradicate these pests.

After the plant is clean, fill the tub with water until it floods the pot, and leave the pot there for five minutes. This you need to do only every other day, as the water from the showering will be sufficient for the in-between days. If in combination with this treatment you change the air in the rooms every day, there is every reason why, when May comes, you will have larger, finer ferns than you had in October.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11:10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 8:10 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 11:45 a. m. to 1:50 p. m., and from 6:10 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The planetary aspects of September 23 are excellent for all business purposes, except buying property, handling leases, &c. The signs favor the young more than the middle-aged, and the former will derive inspiration from the prevailing influences. Travel, perhaps abroad, is also indicated. Any such trip will be beneficial in results.

Children born on this September 23 will have restless temperaments and skeptical natures. They will putter at several things before discovering the niche in which they fit. Once, however, this is accomplished, their work will become an obsession, and they will successfully forge ahead. Not very affectionate, but intensely loyal.

You, if born on September 23, have a very versatile mind, and are, without a doubt, interested in many subjects. You, however, never express a definite opinion on any matter until you have mastered it. You never voice half-baked ideas. You do not devote much time to outdoor amusements—not as much as you should in the interest of your health. You are very studious, a great reader and a deep thinker.

Your attitude to life is a serious one, and, lacking a sense of humor, you can often see only grayness and drabness, when others find some small factor capable of brightening, even somber hues. You are energetic, and often overtax yourself, to the detriment of your physical condition. In matters pertaining to business you are ultraprudent and slow. You rarely, however, make a mistake. You are careful about details and like to do everything yourself. As an executive you do not shine. In a position, however, where study, research and analysis are required, you excel.

You are susceptible, and your heart is responsive. Often a victim of infatuation, you must avoid marriage founded on any such basis. You must not commit yourself irrevocably just because you think you are in love. You must know you are in love before taking the definite step. Otherwise, unhappiness and misery will ensue.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Black lace tiers and a silver lame (lah-may) capelet give gracious expression to the evening mode. (Sketched in a New York shop).

New York, Sept. 22.

WOMEN like the new styles. I mean all women, fat and thin! Right in the very same collections in Paris were clothes that would flatter both types, and these clothes were very beautiful and very smart for either type of figure.

Mme. L'Elephant.

One of the chief reasons for the fat woman's rejoicing is the return of the coat-dress. This, with its slenderizing and becoming surplice line, has been a favorite in past seasons, and now, because of being interpreted in terms of darker colors and duller fabrics, it's even more becoming than before. But, with tucks and pleats giving charm and working magic on all our daytime frocks, the coat-dress isn't the larger-than-average woman's only salvation. One black satin afternoon frock from Ardanse is cut with the bodice, sleeves and skirt in one piece. The only seams, therefore, are the one running the length of the dress, giving the much-desired long, tall appearance and the skirt fullness is confined at the sides in inverted pleats. A navy blue wool crepe frock for larger women had a fitted bodice with unusual cross-over incrustations, and the skirt was pleated finely at both sides, leaving a long, plain front and back panel effect.

Mme. La Giraffe.

Round necks, capes and horizontal tucks all work their magic in creating an illusion of curved softness where angles protruded before. A black crepe marocain frock from Premet has a rounded neckline with a white lace collar, and five groups of tiny, horizontal tucks on the bodice, and another group of tucks 6 inches above the hem. Another frock from this same house has cape-topped sleeves and three narrow peplums.

So, you see, whatever you are, you're well taken care of by Dame Fashion in this autumn of 1931!

Lace and a bell skirt is a romantic and glamorous combination for evening wear in early autumn—especially if it's delicate black lace like the gown I have sketched today, and with the bell skirt made in graduated tiers that break the horizontal and not-too-becoming line by going up in a little point right in the center of the front! 'N' this dress is worn over a stiffened silver lame (lah-may) petticoat, my deahs, with three rows of silver net at the bottom! Silver lame (lah-may) is used, too, for the little cape of two flounces, and for the flower at the neck of the decolletage!

And if you change the silver cape for the black velvet, waist-length jacket, with its puffed sleeves, wide silver lame (lah-may) lapels and silver lame (lah-may) buttons, you have an entirely different and equally lovely evening ensemble!

• • • •

This little jacket arrangement is a very smart and practical way of making one evening gown blossom in numerous versions, at very little expense.

• • • •

Too loose a corset or corselette isn't any help to your figure, and too tight a one distorts it almost as badly! 'N' if you know how much a really good, flattering one costs, you'll be delighted to know that your own Dah-ray has this week made a leaflet for you, telling just how her very own milyun-franc corsets are made! All you have to do to get this leaflet is to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Post, and the sooner the better for your graceful silhouette!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SOMETHING FOR FAT FOLKS.

THE minutes of a meeting of physicians, where obesity was being discussed, is the source of the following quotations:

Dr. J. C. Elsom said obesity is altogether an undesirable condition. It is the consistent confederate of all the deadly diseases. An obese person is more liable to have trouble with the heart and kidneys, the liver, and the digestive apparatus. He is especially prone to diabetes. In fact, every organ may be affected by obesity. He agreed with Dr. V. E. Levine that we should not grow heavier as we grow older. The normal weight is reached by a normal person at or out age 30, and any increase after that is abnormal. It may indicate that eating and nutrition on the one side, and work and exercise on the other, are getting out of relation; or it may mean that some disorder is developing in a ductless gland such as the pituitary, the thyroid, and gonads, or the pancreas.

Drs. Kern and Levine spoke especially of those conditions in which one part of the body tended to put on fat, with no great increase in fat generally. They referred to unduly fat legs; heavy, fat mammary glands; fold of fat around the abdome and hips. Lack of use of the part in which the fat is deposited is a factor, but a more important cause is a disturbance of some ductless gland. A portion of the pituitary is generally at fault.

Dr. J. H. Hutton spoke of obesity in locomotive engineers. Engineers are promoted firemen. A fireman will work hard and eat heavily for many years, and until his eating habits are fixed. He then becomes an engineer, and as such he has great responsibility and very little work. The combination of a fireman's appetite and an engineer's work generally results in obesity.

Dr. Levine did not think much could be accomplished in reducing by exercising. An ordinary man burns up only about 500 calories in a walk of 6 or 7 miles. Since a person's diet carries several thousand calories, he would have to walk 30 miles a day or more in order to burn up his intake of calories.

The opinion of Dr. Kern and, in fact, of most of those who took part in the discussion, was that regulation of eating was not an efficient method in reducing. Even though it was an effective method, few people had intelligence enough, or persistence and determination enough to carry it out. Many are willing to start, but few have the stick-to-itiveness necessary to carry out the plan. Dr. Elsom thought more highly of dieting than did his conferees.

There was a general agreement that every obese person was, within broad limits, a sick person. He should be thoroughly studied. The method of treatment that could be expected to cure one would be ineffective with another. If a person was not willing to go through with a thorough examination and treatment based on such, he was not likely to go through with any plan of reducing. To start any treatment with a weak willed person was generally a waste of the time of all parties concerned.

THYROID PILLS.

J. L. R. writes: I have been taking a thyroid pill for reducing. I have recently heard that the thyroid gland has something to do with the height? Is this true? Does it increase the height? I am 18 years of age.

REPLY.

The thyroid is a factor in growth, but taking it will not make you grow. Since you have stopped, that need not be considered.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

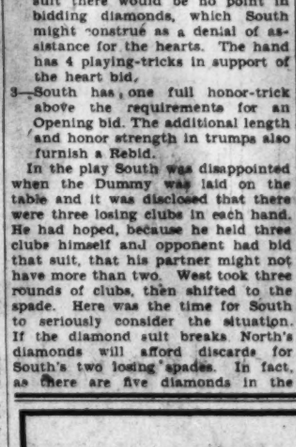
INSURING A FAVORABLE BREAK.

ONCE the bidding is ended, the Declarer is faced with the proposition of making his contract. In making that contract, the expert player leaves just as little to chance as possible.

For instance, it is foolish to assume that if six cards are outstanding in a suit, they will be divided 3-3. That is one of the possible distributions, it is true, but there are others that merit consideration as well and consideration of these other possibilities and probabilities will suggest to a good player the taking of steps to combat an adverse break of the cards.

It is a reasonably safe principle when you have the means of coping with the worst, to assume that the worst is in store for you, providing that by this assumption you have not injured your chances of making game if conditions are more favorable.

North-South vulnerable.
South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡	2♣(1)	2♡(2)	Pass
4♡(3)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—West, not vulnerable, makes this bid upon the theory of stopping a possible notrump game bid by North, which, if made, could probably be defeated with a club lead.

2—North has a close choice between bidding two diamonds and supporting the hearts. However, with adequate support for the heart suit there would be no point in bidding diamonds, which South might construe as a denial of assistance for the hearts. The hand has 4 playing-tricks in support of the heart bid.

3—South has one full honor-trick above the requirements for an Opening bid. The additional length and honor strength in trumps also furnish a Rebid.

In the play South was disappointed when the Dummy was laid on the table and it was disclosed that there were three losing clubs in each hand. He had hoped, because he held three clubs himself and opponent had bid that suit, that his partner might not have more than two. West took three rounds of clubs, then shifted to the spade. Here was the time for South to seriously consider the situation. If the diamond suit breaks North's diamonds will afford discards for South's two losing spades. In fact, as there are five diamonds in the Dummy, one of them is not needed in order to assure game. The "normal" break would be to assume that West had three diamonds and that East also had three. If this were so then all that is necessary is to draw three rounds of trumps and discard the losing spades on the established diamonds. However, South need not leave this matter to luck. He can and should first take two rounds of hearts to test out the heart situation and if he finds that the hearts are divided 3-2 in the adverse hands, then he can take out an insurance policy against possible loss by testing out the diamond situation.

The way South successfully played this hand was as above outlined, but instead of taking the third round of trumps he now led two rounds of diamonds, winning the second round in the Dummy hand. Both opponents followed on both leads of diamonds but South assumed that he did not know whether both would follow on the third lead, and to assure himself against any danger of the adverse break, he led a small diamond from the Dummy and trumped it with an honor. True enough, West had had but two diamonds but South was out of the woods. A small trump now put Dummy in the lead and South discarded his two losing spades on the now established diamonds.

Careless play would have resulted in the defeat of the contract by 1 trick as the only entry for the diamond suit was in the trumps, assuming an unfavorable break in that suit. It is, of course, apparent that with five diamonds in either East's or West's hand, the contract could not possibly be made, regardless of how South played. He had done all that could be expected of him when he used every precaution to make his contract safe.

THE INFLAMMATORY DOUBLE.

One finds, as a result of bitter experience and more pleasant experiment, that the doubling of a high contract, on the non-vulnerable side, doesn't pay.

First, you are giving away odds of possibly four or five to one, often on even chances of winning. Thus, if you set the opponents one, you score an extra 50, plus what you would have scored anyway. But, if they make the six spade contract doubled, they get an extra 180, plus 50 for making contract; summation: 50 to 230. And when your opponents have logically bid high, it isn't often that you set them more than one, even with your fist full of trumps or your singleton.

In the second place, how often it happens that even when you hold the cards for what looks like a good set, freakish distribution will enable an expert Declarer to make his bid anyway. Meanwhile, for the sake of a one to five bet, you have located for him the trump holdings and that Ace-Queen he was worried about.

Lastly, there is the danger of a Redouble. And oh! that sinking feeling in the diaphragm and that quailing from the burning glare of an infuriated partner as opponents gather in contract and a trick or two over—that your sure trick on the King-Queen may find a singleton Ace of that suit in Dummy; your sure Ace may be in the suit in which Declarer redoubled. You see, it may happen was void; your four trumps to the Queen may get pounded between the elephant's head of the Declarer's hand and the good mother earth of Dummy.

So, to sum up, don't double high bids of the nonvulnerable side unless you are sure they are away out on a limb, or unless you are loaded with dynamite.

TODAY'S POINTER.

A precise curve can be drawn on a chart to show the rhythm of a Contract patient. This rhythm will largely depend upon his natural temperament of character. Some players are naturally expensive, optimistic or aggressive; others are overcautious, conservative or timid. The practical method to follow with these two types is:

Be conservative (but not too conservative) with the conservative partner.

This procedure is psychologically quite sound, although it is exactly opposite to the usual practice and appears paradoxical. In matters of being aggressive or conservative it is not your opinion of partner but his opinion of you which counts. If partner rates you as an aggressive type and is, himself, conservative, he will then become even more conservative and the more aggressive you become to make up for his ultra-conservatism the more will he shrink until there is a gulf.

Similarly, if your partner, who happens to be an agressive type, rates you as conservative, you are equally at a disadvantage, for he will now become even more aggressive and the more you are conservative the more he will be aggressive until there is another gulf. The only way to make the two blades of the scissors meet is to have your aggressive partner form an opinion that you are aggressive. That will make him less aggressive; and to have your conservative partner form an opinion that you are also conservative, will make him less conservative.

BOND ISSUE BRINGS PREMIUM OF $2,980

Montgomery County Commission Elated at Attitude of Bankers.

Four issues of Montgomery County bonds, totaling $375,000, were sold yesterday at a premium of $2,980 at a meeting of the county commissioners in Rockville, Md. The price received for the bonds was a distinct cause for rejoicing to the county officials in view of existing money market conditions. They declared that it indicated the confidence of investment bankers in the stability of the Montgomery County government.

The $175,000 courthouse bond issue was sold to H. M. Byllesby & Co. of Philadelphia at a price of $101.73. The other three issues, $100,000 suburban district road bonds, $70,000; refunding police bonds and $50,000 suburban county buildings refunding bonds were sold to the Chase, Harris, Forbes Corporation, of New York, and Y. E. Booker Company, of Washington, at par and accrued interest.

The commissioners referred to the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission an application filed by Mrs. Isabella Seek, asking for change in classification from residential "A" to residential "C" of land owned by her on Sligo avenue, in Silver Spring.

The commissioners tentatively approved amendments to the building regulations of Chevy Chase View submitted by the citizens committee of that section. The contract and bond of Daniel Marine for the construction of storm sewers on Second avenue in Woodside was approved.

Theft Inquiry Reveals Prior Robbery in June

In clearing up the robbery of the store of Rubin Hill, Lincoln Park, a suburb of Rockville, Md., yesterday, two Montgomery County policemen also cleared up an earlier robbery which had been unsolved since last June. Charles Warren, colored, of Rockville, was arrested and charged with two counts of housebreaking and robbery. He was released on bond of $1,000 for preliminary hearing in police court.

Policemen Paul Watkins and E. R. Jones, of Montgomery County police headquarters at Rockville, came across clews which implicated Warren in the Hill robbery and brought back to their memory that a quantity of property stolen last June from the Looper Bros. garage in Rockville had been recovered some time ago in a house where Warren had been employed as a plasterer. Running out their clews they found that Warren had given a radio set to a girl friend which was part of the loot. Most of the loot from both stores was recovered by the two policemen.

Henderson and Ralph P. Huff, alternates. Emerson Snyder was elected delegate to the Wisconsin Avenue Suburban Commission. Ralph P. Huff was appointed to urge the county commissioners to hasten the improvement of Wisconsin avenue.

Rockville Legion Post Elects Leslie Ward

The bags, according to Mrs. Bertha Kelly, each will contain writing paper, handkerchiefs, playing cards, pencils, needles, cotton, and a key ring. Mrs. Kelly announces that the headquarters will be open each Tuesday during fall and winter months.

Zoning Brief Submitted.

City Attorney Carl Budwesky, of Alexandria, yesterday sent to Judge Luther B. Way, at Norfolk, Va., judge of the United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, his brief in the suit of Robert F. Downham against the city council of Alexandria. Mr. Downham seeks to establish a gasoline filling station at the corner of King street and Russell road, and the city zoning ordinance forbids the issuance of a permit by the city council.

District Urged to Act For North Portal Land

Early acquisition of the necessary land for development of the Wisconsin avenue portal at the District line is urged upon the District Commissioners in a resolution adopted by the coordinating committee of the District. The resolution asks that steps be taken at once to acquire the land needed for the District side of the development.

District officials said yesterday that a survey of the land will be started at once so that the District government will be in position to start condemnation proceedings at an early date. About two-thirds of the land involved is in the District, while one-third is in Maryland.

The Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission is cooperating with District authorities in carrying out the project and has agreed to attend to the Maryland side of the work when the District completes its section. The Maryland Planning Commission has forwarded plans for the portal entrance to the Maryland State roads commission for study.

Alexandria Child Injured by Auto

Two Women Also Hurt in Accidents In and Near City.

Cassie Bryant, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Bryant, of 507 Duke street, Alexandria, was struck by an auto driven by Frank A. Vilarell, of 1203 Mount Vernon avenue, yesterday. The child received a compound fracture of the right knee and numerous cuts and bruises. The matter was settled without police court action, and Vilarell was not held.

Mrs. Ernest Marbaker, of Dumfries, Va., suffered cuts and bruises as the result of the auto in which she was a passenger running into a truck on the Richmond highway, south of Alexandria.

Mrs. Marbaker was en route to the hospital to visit her husband, who has been a patient in that institution for several weeks.

Mrs. Charles Howard, 409 North Columbus street, was struck by a truck yesterday morning at the intersection of Queen and Columbus streets, and taken to the Alexandria Hospital, where she had to have 20 stitches taken in her right foot. The truck was driven by John Marriman, of 513 Queen street.

GUIDANCE CLASSES ARE DAILY FEATURE

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST
Tel. Clar. 509 Clarendon, Va.

With Arlington leading the 100 counties in Virginia in education, and with the view of still raising that standard, S. P. Vanderslice, principal of the Washington-Lee High School, announced yesterday that classes in vocational education guidance are being conducted daily under direction of Miss Sally Loving.

As explained by Mr. Vanderslice the object of these classes is to aid the pupils of the ninth grade in selecting and planning high school and college courses.

Mr. Vanderslice says a majority of boys and girls appear most interested in enrolling in commercial and vocational classes.

Washington-Lee High School graduates and the colleges they have entered follows: Randolph Follin, George Tabor, Paul Hines, University of Virginia; Edward Davidson and Harold Harbaugh, American University, Washington, D. C.; Griffith Barry and Eleanor King, George Washington University; Dorothy Leighty, University of Richmond, and Nancy DeLashmutt, William and Mary College.

Robert H. Forman, of Glebewood, and William E. Wolff, of Clarendon, independent candidates for membership on the county board of five announce they have advised the Better Government League that they do not wish its indorsement when the league proceeds on October 2 to select the five candidates it will support.

It is understood that the league will hold a meeting early next week, at which time all of the 51 candidates will be invited to speak.

W. R. Rose, one of the five Republican nominees for the county board of five, last night denied reports he had withdrawn from the race.

"It is true," said Mr. Rose, "that I resigned as a member of the Arlington County electoral board, but I felt it only my duty since becoming a candidate for public office."

Mail Carrier Sought For Landover Route

Application for the position of rural mail carrier on Route No. 1, at Landover, Md., will be received at the Civil Service Commission up to October 9, the commission announced yesterday.

Although the vacancy now is at Landover, the route will be transferred to Benning, D. C., beginning the first of the month, it was stated. District residents, and those living within reach of Route 1, are eligible for the job, which pays $1,800 a year.

2 Women Board Candidates Talk

Arlington and Clarendon Aspirants Declare for County Reform.

Opening their campaign for membership on the county board of five, which after January 1, 1932, replaces the present three members of the county board of supervisors, Mrs. Florence E. Cannon, of Arlington, and Mrs. Elizabeth Magruder, of Clarendon, were the principal speakers at the monthly meeting of the Ashton Heights Woman's Club last night.

Mrs. Cannon, the first to speak, declared that she advocated a closer cooperation with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission in its program for its development of the Virginia shores of the Potomac River.

Mrs. Magruder declared the time is now at hand for the abolishment of our old form of government, and a new era for Arlington County is at hand. There should be a woman on the board, she declared.

County Heads Balk At $80 Nursery Bill

Prince Georges Officials Hold Expense Unauthorized.

Holding that it would establish a dangerous precedent because the expenditure had not been authorized, the Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday refused to pay a bill for $80 presented by the Brentwood Nursery.

The bill covered charges for boarding a number of children sent to the nursery by the town council of Mount Rainier. Ordinarily, the commissioners pay for indigent children sent to various homes, but the children are ordered committed by the board. If the county will pay for children sent in by the towns, one of the commissioners said, they would be overwhelmed with bills in cases where commitment to an institution might not be necessary.

The commissioners also appointed two constables at their regular weekly meeting yesterday. The new officers are Herbert Hodges, in Laurel, and William T. Hendley, in Oxon Hill.

Night School to Start

Continuing the policy inaugurated last year, night classes will begin at the Washington Lee High School, Wednesday, September 30. The hours will be from 7 to 9 o'clock, with classes Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. There will be classes in all studies now being carried on in day classes, S. P. Vanderslice, principal, announced.

Hyattsville Judge Sued; False Arrest Is Charged

Alleging that Justice of the Peace Reeta Morris, of Hyattsville, acted outside her jurisdiction, and charging that she had him arrested falsely, Robert Carroll Morris filed suit yesterday in Marlboro for $10,000.

Morris, who is not related to the judge, stated in his bill that the woman justice had his three children removed from his home and placed in two institutions, one of which is in Washington and the other in Prince Georges County. When he attempted to see them at the home to which they were sent, he said, he found that Judge Morris had ordered that he should not be admitted.

In his petition, which was filed through Attorney J. Frank Lillard, he also says that Judge Morris had him arrested in Hyattsville, although no charges were ever placed against him. He asks that Judge Morris be ordered to pay damages of $10,000.

Boy at Gaithersburg Wins Holstein Heifer

James L. Howes, son of Mr. and Lenon Howes, of Gaithersburg, a member of the Laytonsville 4-H Club, has been awarded the Holstein heifer offered by Thomas B. Kelley, operator of Pleasant Hills Farms near Darnestown, to encourage Holstein breeding in Montgomery County.

The prize was offered to a boy or girl member of a 4-H club who had a purebred Holstein calf as a project for one year and submitted a record of the year's work. The heifer to be awarded young Howes is from one of Mr. Kelley's best cows, Mont Mary Pontiac Raymondale, which has a record of 10,000 pounds of milk her first lactation period. The sire is Berrywood Prince Aggie Meade, which won the first prize aged bull and senior champion at the recent Maryland State Fair.

Mayor of Hyattsville And Council Are Sued

Alleging that their property in Hyattsville was damaged when Block street was improved, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Dorr yesterday filed suit in Marlboro for $5,000 against the mayor and council of Hyattsville, the Consolidated Concrete and Terazzo Corporation, and the Potomac Electric Power Co.

No bill was filed with the suit, but J. Frank Lillard, attorney for the Dorrs, said that trees, a fence, and a sidewalk were damaged when the street was widened. The concrete firm laid the new paving on the street, and it is understood that the trees were trimmed by the electric company when the poles were moved back to allow the street to be widened.

Painter's Death Is Held Accident

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 22.—Accident, due to his own negligence, was responsible for the death of J. Arthur Cranford, 22, Annapolis sign painter, said a report filed today by State's Attorney A. Theodore Brady, following an exhaustive investigation covering more than two weeks. A coroner's jury previously had reported inability to determine the cause of death and suggested an investigation by the State.

Sheriff R. Glenn Prout and city police officials, working under direction of Acting State's Attorney A. J. Goodman, in the absence of Mr. Brady, who was on vacation, conducted the inquiry. Upon return of Mr. Brady, two Baltimore city detectives were called into the case to satisfy requests of Cranford's family and friends.

Cranford's body was crushed under an early morning train on the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad last August 12. His parents and friends at once advanced the theory that he had probably been a victim of foul play and that his body was placed on the tracks to cover up a crime, in view of the fact that money and other personal belongings were missing from his clothing when the body was picked up, coupled with alleged conflicting statements concerning his movements on the night before his death.

Thank YOU!

So far this year this company's sales in gas appliances have exceeded those of the corresponding 1930 period by 52%, and have set an all-time record for Washington.

We want you to know that we appreciate this business—this expression of your confidence in your Gas Company—and we intend to do everything in our power to show our appreciation.

Naturally these added appliances mean added use of gas, and we have been busy for months, modernizing our entire distribution system to meet it. $150,000 has been spent on new transmission lines, $300,000 on extending mains to new customers, and another $200,000 on district governors—modern mechanical marvels which give you good service at all times, regardless of demand or season.

This work is now practically completed, so that Washington will enter the winter season with a modernized gas system, and one ample to take care of any and every demand you can put upon it.

GOVERNMENT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
OFFICE OF THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Mr. Gardner Johnson
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Johnson:

I am in receipt of your letter of the 3d inst., in which you ask me to frankly state whether, in my judgment, the work done by the Chestnut Farms Dairy in this District has been along such practical lines as to tie in with the efforts of the Health Department, to provide for the citizens of this District an adequate supply of milk and cream of a high standard quality.

In reply I have to say that the dairy referred to was established here many years ago and at a time when the quality of milk sold in this District was much inferior to that sold at the present time. So far as I have been able to observe, it has been the policy of that dairy to conduct its business along such practical and general lines, as to be of real benefit to the entire community. I cannot but feel that the example and pioneer work of the establishment has aided greatly in raising the general standard of the local dairy industry.

The Health Department appreciates the good work that has been done by this dairy.

Very sincerely
W. C. FOWLER, M. D.
Health Officer

WCF/nb

WASHINGTON today is fortunate in having milk of superior quality . . . a great public benefit very largely due to the untiring efforts of Dr. William C. Fowler, our Public Health Officer. He has worked continuously to bring about the best possible conditions under which milk shall be produced. Actuated by the same ideal, Chestnut Farms Dairy has considered it a pleasure to give him every possible co-operation. That our efforts in this respect are appreciated is shown by the letter from Dr. Fowler reproduced herewith.

We wish to call your especial attention to the paragraph in which Dr. Fowler states that the work done by the Chestnut Farms Dairy has been of real benefit to the entire community —not only in furnishing its patrons with milk and cream of a high standard of quality—but the fine example set by this dairy HAS AIDED GREATLY IN RAISING THE GENERAL STANDARD OF THE LOCAL DAIRY INDUSTRY.

In selecting a dairy to serve YOUR HOME . . . to provide milk for YOUR CHILDREN . . . you would hardly ask for a better recommendation. Phone your order in to us now . . . at POtomac 4000.

3,000,000th Hoover Cleaner Produced

Just as Washingtonians are being given the privilege of witnessing one of the most elaborate displays of electric appliances and radio sets ever seen here at the Electric League show, now being held in the Washington Auditorium, the Hoover Co. announces the production of its 3,000,000th electric vacuum cleaner.

A fitting celebration was held in the Hoover factory at Canton, Ohio, when all the home office executives gathered in the final assembly department to watch the 3,000,000th completed unit lifted from the work benches. This is said to be an all-time sales record for electric cleaners.

This event caused H. W. Hoover, president of the company, to compute that the 1,875,000 square yards of bag cloth used would be sufficient to cover 55 airships like the new dirigible Akron. About 500,000 miles of copper wire have been used in cleaner motors. And the 112,544 cubic feet of aluminum used would make a solid shaft 9 by 10 feet square and 1,250 feet high—two feet higher than the Empire State Building. The "3,000,000th Hoover Week" is being devoted to the introduction of a new model named the "Gold Chevron."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

DISTURBED by repeated reports that "The Struggle," his latest picture, deals with the five-year plan of the Russian Soviets, David Wark Griffith a day or two ago broke the silence he has consistently maintained for many weeks to announce that his new United Artists release is thoroughly American and espouses no "cause," foreign or domestic.

"I cannot imagine," declared the veteran director, "where these stories started. Perhaps they were caused by the title of the film, for certainly Stalin and his Russian cohorts are having their struggle. My picture has nothing whatever to do with any government, nor with politics or political programs of any kind. And, what is most important, it is not propaganda.

"'The Struggle' is the story of a little group of human beings, such as we meet every day of our lives. They are American, and of the present day. Their story is certain to strike home to every American. But, for once in my life, I am going to adhere rigidly to my resolve not to divulge the nature of that story until I flash it upon the screen."

Arch Selwyn, producer, in conjunction with Erlanger Productions, Inc., of "Cherries Are Ripe," current at the National, left for New York immediately after the highly successful season's opening of the John Emerson-Anita Loos comedy Monday night, accompanied by Mr. Emerson. He will return to the Capital on Friday to catch another week-end glimpse of the play in which Rod La Rocque and Vilma Banky toured the provinces last season.

Prominent among the distinguished first nighters flittering about the National lobby Monday night in search of a breath of nonexistent fresh air, by the way, was Anita Loos, coauthor with her husband of "Cherries Are Ripe," and also the individual author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," one of the most amusing and most provocative tomes of recent vintage.

Miss Loos professed to be just a little concerned over the first performance of her play because it was not moving at a little livelier gait, but still—even with those taut nerves, the worry and all—looked like a 16-year-old schoolgirl.

Miss Loos, you must know, is a tiny little mite—which has no bearing whatever upon her productivity as an author. It will be remembered that in collaboration with Mr. Emerson she was responsible for a majority of the early screen plays in which Constance Talmadge rode to fame and fortune.

Arch Selwyn, Mason Peters—an old showman on his own account, although now serving as an associate of Secretary Lamont in the Department of Commerce—Anita Loos, Freddie McKay and all the other experts with whom I discussed it at the opening, were unanimous in their verdict that Gavin Muir, in the role of Janos, secretary to Baron Peter Stereny and possibly just a little more to Sybil, his wife, was doing a swell job of comedying in a suave and quiet way.

As sleek and ingratiating a performance as you will see this season.

Incidentally, I have been told that yesterday's review failed miserably to do justice to Mary Ellis' voice, displayed in one brief song during the second act of "Cherries Are Ripe." As I read it over, I am convinced that the objection is wholly justified. Well, then, if you must know, Miss Ellis' voice is gorgeous.

And how Basil Sydney manages to survive three acts trussed up in that high-collared military tunic in weather like this is beyond me. My own exudations were increased by at least a quart just at the sight of him!

According to present plans, "Cherries Are Ripe" will be presented for its New York engagement in the Gayety Theater beginning Monday, October 5.

The Myron C. Fagan play, "Peter Flies High," seen here last week and now on view in Philadelphia, with Glenn Hunter in the stellar role, which was tentatively penciled in for the Gayety beginning October 19, will open on that date at the Criterion Theater instead. That is, if confirmation is forthcoming from New York, as is momentarily expected.

I suppose you have heard the rumor that is floating around to the effect that when Universal's lease on the Rialto Theater is up, Tom Moore plans to convert his "Temple of the Muses" into a department store? Well, don't hold your breath until it happens!

And, apropos of nothing in particular, Freddie Buchholz may be a very elegant cook, but it's pretty nice, just the same, to have your mother back from the seashore and something in the icebox besides cheese rinds and bacon drippings!

That is, except for those tall and irritating tales about sleeping under blankets every night!

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THIS guy Sharkey who meets Primo Carnera October 1 at Ebbets Field has been the greatest waster of fistic opportunity that the prize-ring industry has known; but because nobody, with the exception of Jack Dempsey, has been able to beat him decisively he has cashed in on all the big-shot matches of the last three years, with the exception of last June's fight between Schmeling and Stribling at Cleveland.

Ever since Jack Dempsey interrupted Sharkey's tete-a-tete with the referee in the seventh round at Yankee Stadium in 1927 with a left jolt to the jaw that knocked the sailor man down and out, Sharkey has piled disappointment on disappointment in his big matches and yet has never been removed as a contender for the title.

He got himself licked by Johnny Risko, had a hard time winning from Kayo Christner and Tuffy Griffith, fought a draw with Heeney, won a dull decision from Young Stribling, fouled Fainting Phil Scott, but won on a knockout, lost to Schmeling on a foul, and was held to a draw by Walker. The one bright spot in his campaign after the Dempsey debacle was his two-round knockout of Tommy Loughran.

Remains a Contender

Except for beating Loughran, Sharkey has done little to merit consideration as a contender for the championship, but his claims are based more on the fact that nobody has succeeded in eliminating him completely.

Sharkey has all the physical attributes of a champion. He is bigger than Dempsey and faster than Tunney. He can outbox either and hits harder than the retired champion. He has the best left hand since Jack Johnson, but it doesn't pack the punch of Dempsey's. But there is grave doubt as to the fighting qualities of his heart, and his faculty of leaving his brains, if any in the dressing room has cost him the title on at least one occasion.

That was in the Schmeling bout, recognized for the championship, when the sailor man had Schmeling in distress for three rounds and in and appeared on his way to a decisive knockout victory when he stupidly sent a low punch to the German's groin and lost on a foul in the fourth round.

Sharkey is placed in another sweet spot in his bout with Carnera. A decisive win over the vast Venetian will certainly place him high in the pugilistic scheme again. The bout with Jack Dempsey, if the old mauler keeps his promise to return to the wars seriously, will be Sharkey's if he eliminates Primo.

Golden Opportunity

The man who meets Dempsey in Dempsey's first big shot match of his comeback campaign will share in a $500,000 gate if the fight is held outdoors, which it certainly will. Thus Sharkey again is presented with a golden opportunity against Carnera. What he will do with it this column is not prepared to predict.

Sharkey certainly ought to beat Carnera. Despite his vastness, Primo is still a neophyte as far as fighting goes. Against a man like Jimmy Maloney, whom Sharkey knocked out twice in the first round, Carnera showed little punching or boxing ability and in fact was beaten by Maloney last October.

But on his past performance, Sharkey is a poor risk. From bout to bout he has fumbled his chances that should have put him on the championship throne. It may be overzealousness that causes the sailor man to forget to think in the crises. But if it is his native dumbness, which seems more probable, a place bet on Sharkey is the best risk.

Glendon Quits As Coach At Navy

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 22.—Athletic authorities of the Naval Academy today accepted the resignation of Richard A. "Old Dick" Glendon, veteran mentor of Navy rowing crews, and simultaneously announced the appointment of Ensign Charles S. "Buck" Walsh, of the Navy (retired), as his successor.

Glendon's decision to quit was like a bolt from the clear. First intimation of it came in a letter from him last June, soon after his varsity crew, viewed as a dark horse, rowed to a smashing triumph in the annual intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie. Glendon at that time, made the mere statement that he had decided to give up coaching and would not return to Annapolis. Navy athletic authorities, however, were inclined to view that announcement doubtfully, and until a few days ago were looking forward to his return by October 1 to begin the usual fall practice with the oarsmen. In the meantime, communication with him, established that his decision was final. Glendon is now at his home at South Chatham, Mass.

Formal Statement Of Regret.

Glendon's service as head mentor covered a period of 23 years, he first coming to Annapolis in 1904, and, with the exception of a four-year hiatus, 1924 to 1927, his service had been continuous. For two years of that four-year-period, Glendon's son, Richard J. Glendon, who had been his assistant here, became head coach and the latter in turn was succeeded by "Bob" Butler, of the University of Washington. The younger Glendon then went to Columbia as coach, and his father assisted him there for two years.

At the close of the 1927 season, through the instrumentality of Commander Jonas H. Ingram, then director of athletics at the academy; "Old Dick" was induced to return to Annapolis, and as in former years Navy rowing showed marked progress under his guidance. Commander Ingram stroked a Glendon coached crew back in 1908.

Won Three-fourths Of All Races.

Commenting upon Glendon's success, Navy officials pointed out that crews under his tutelage won approximately three-fourths of all the races in which they were entered. In 1920 his crew defeated the Leanders of England, won the Olympic title in 1924, and established a world's record for the 2,000-meters distance. Only recently naval officials were discussing prospects for rowing next spring, pointing out that it would be Olympic year and expressing hope that the Middies, under Glendon, again would get into that classic.

In naming "Buck" Walsh as head mentor, academy authorities feel that a successful regime lies ahead. Walsh, a former star Navy oarsman, was not only a pupil of Glendon's during the seasons of 1921 and 1923, inclusive, but for the last several years he has handled plebe crews at the academy and is well versed in the Glendon style of oarsmanship. Walsh graduated from the academy in 1923, and resigned the service three years later.

Mrs. Hill Beaten in Lone Upset in National Golf Event.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, of Philadelphia, and most of her leading rivals marched into the second round of match play for the women's national golf championship today, but one outstanding contender, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, was eliminated.

Mrs. Hill, touted before the championship opened as one of the most formidable obstacles in the path of Mrs. Vare's march to her sixth national title, fell before the accurate sharp-shooting of young Jane Brooks, of Nyack, N. Y., 2 and 1.

Mrs. Vare had no trouble with Jean Armstrong, Chicago player competing in the championship for the first time, and won by the comfortable margin of 6 and 4.

Miss Wilson, English Girl, Advances.

Advancing to the second round with Mrs. Vare and Miss Brooks were Enid Wilson, husky English girl, who holds the British championship; Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J.; Helen Hicks, Hewlett, N. Y.; Virginia Van Wie, Chicago; Mrs. Leona Pressler, San Gabriel, Calif.; Marion Hollins, Santa Cruz, Calif.; Mrs. Charles Eddis, Toronto; Bernice Wall, Oshkosk, Wis.; Frances Williams, Bethlehem, Pa.; Mrs. Leo Federman, New York; Mrs. Helen Payson Corson, Philadelphia; Mrs. L. C. Nelson, Dayton, Ohio; Marjorie Kerr, England, and Fritzi Stifel, Wheeling, W. Va.

Miss Wilson had plenty of trouble before she could subdue her first-round opponent, Martha Brewer, of Weston, Mass., 3 and 1. Miss Brewer led 1 up at the turn, but the British champion applied pressure to win four of the last five holes and the match.

Miss Hicks put out Mildred Hackl, of Chicago, 6 and 5; Miss Van Wie conquered Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, of Flushing, N. Y., Southern and Long Island champion, 3 and 2; Mrs. Pressler had to go to the eighteenth green to conquer Martha Parker, of New York, former metropolitan titleholder.

Mrs. Vare's Wooden Shots Faulty.

Although her wooden shots lacked their customary length and accuracy, Mrs. Vare had no uneasy moments with Miss Armstrong. Some of the champion's long shots were affected by a blustery gale, but most of them were due to faulty stroking. The 20-year-old Chicagoan won two of the first three holes to be one up.

She played courageously to protect that margin but yielded on the sixth hole after the champion planted her tee shot on the green 12 feet from the cup and almost sank her first putt. Miss Armstrong was trapped on her drive and played out far past the hole, needing two putts. Mrs. Vare won the next hole to go out front, and she stayed there the rest of the way.

Mrs. Vare vs. Mrs. Eddie; Miss Orcutt vs. Miss Wall; Miss Van Wie vs. Miss Williams; Mrs. Federman vs. Mrs. Corson; Miss Hollins vs. Miss Hicks; Mrs. Pressler vs. Miss Stifel; Miss Wilson vs. Mrs. Nelson, and Miss Kerr vs. Miss Brooks.

FIRST ROUND.

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Philadelphia, defeated Jean Armstrong, Chicago, 6 and 4. Enid Wilson, England, defeated Martha Brewer, Weston, Mass., 3 and 1.

Mrs. Leona Pressler, San Gabriel, Calif., defeated Martha Parker, New York City, 1 up.

Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, defeated Marion Turpie Lake, Flushing, Long Island, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Charles Eddis, Toronto, Ont., defeated [illegible] Arthur Harrison, Buffalo, 3 and 2.

Loughran, Fat and Slow, Barely Outpoints Sekyra

QUEENSBORO STADIUM, New York, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, Ohio, nominated as a "set-up" opponent for Tommy Loughran, came close to turning in one of the most surprising upsets of boxing history tonight when he held the Philadelphia boxing master to a close ten-round decision before 15,000 spectators at Queensboro Stadium.

Sekyra, a 5-to-1 underdog in the betting, made a surprisingly strong showing and, until the final round held Loughran, rated as the most worthy challenger for Max Schmeling's heavyweight title, on even terms. In fact, he had a big advantage throughout the early rounds of the fight and a majority of the spectators at the Daily Mirror's charity show thought the veteran Bohemian had won the bout.

Referee Arthur Donovan called the bout a draw, but was outvoted by Judges Charles F. Matthison and Marty Monroe, who cast their ballots for Loughran.

Although the decision was greeted with boos by the fans, who are always with the underdog, it appeared fair. The United Press score card gave Sekyra four rounds, the first, second, fourth and seventh, with the third even and Loughran winning the other five.

Tommy, who apparently believed that Sekyra was an easy opponent, despite the Dayton puncher's recent upset victory over Charley Retzlaff, was far below his best form. He appeared fat and slow, weighing 185 pounds to Sekyra's 177, and failed to make full use of his boxing ability in the early rounds when he attempted to slug.

Charley Retzlaff, of Duluth, Sekyra's recent victim, added another technical knockout to his impressive list when he was awarded a victory over Dick Onken, of Germany, after 2 minutes 45 seconds of the second round in a scheduled ten-round bout.

Maryland Picked To Beat Middies

Maryland University's eleven already is being touted a sure-fire winner over Navy though the clash between these teams is more than two weeks away. This opinion was expressed last night by one of the District's college coaches, who for reasons of his own, asked that his name be withheld.

Having witnessed Navy in a workout at Annapolis and being acquainted with Maryland's present standing, the coach said:

"Maryland should have no unusual difficulty in beating Navy, for to me it looks as if Navy is sadly lacking in ability and Maryland has the same team that held them to a 6-to-0 score last year.

"The introduction of the Notre Dame system at Annapolis is not yet bearing fruit and I do not see how Navy can be ready to defeat a team of Maryland's caliber by the time they meet.

Cardinals Vote to Split Series Winnings in 30 Equal Shares

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The Cardinals, 1931, National League champions, held a meeting today and voted to split into 30 equal shares their winnings in the coming world series with the Philadelphia Athletics, title winners in the American League.

Each one of the twenty-five players, Manager "Gabby" Street, Secretary Clarence Lloyd, Coach Clyde Wares, Trainer Harrison Weaver, and Assistant Trainer Kirby Samuels, will come in for one-thirtieth of the team's "take," which will be either 60 or 40 per cent of the competing teams' pot from receipts of the first four series games. The team winning the world championship gets the 60 per cent share.

The players also voted $500 to Groundskeeper Bill Stocksieck.

8-6 Win Over Tigers 105th; Most Ever Won by A's.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics set a new record for Mack pennant winners when they defeated the Detroit Tigers, 8 to 6, today and registered their 105th victory of the season. The highest number any of the previous Athletics teams won in a season was 104, a mark reached by the 1929 combination.

1-2 Game Lead Is Gained As Faber Is Batted Out In 6-Run Rally at Start

Nats' Half-Game Lead May Decide 2d Place

The Nats hold a distinct advantage over the Yankees in the second-place fight by virtue of their half game lead this morning.

The Yankees, with one less victory and the same number of defeats, can lose second place by a half game if both teams fare alike in their remaining five games. Due to a tie with the White Sox three weeks ago, the Yankees will be able to play only 153 games this season, while the Nats play 154.

The Nats need only split their four-game series with the Yanks starting today and win the final game of the season with Boston to clinch the second place, even if the Yankees beat Philadelphia in their final game.

Fischer Yields 7 Hits in Tenth Straight Defeat for Sox.

Bluege Clears Bases With Double; Cronin Gets 3 Safeties.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

BREAKING out in a rash of hits for the first time in several days, the Nationals had little trouble in making it four in a row over the Chicago White Sox yesterday, winning 7 to 2 and jumping into a half-game lead over the Yankees, who are seriously threatening the Washington club's second-place hopes. It was the tenth straight loss for the Bushmen.

At that, the Nats barely ran their hit total into double figures, getting eleven, but five of these were packed into one frame, the first, netting six runs and a comfortable lead which Lefty Carl Fischer had no trouble holding.

Sox Start Off With One-run Spurge.

The Sox, who had scored in the first inning of two of the three previous games in this set, did so again yesterday when an opening single by Blue, Sullivan's sacrifice, a theft on a wild pitch, and Smead Jolley's shoe fly netted a marker. As things turned out, though, this was the only time they were actually in the ball game.

Coming in from the field, the Nats immediately started to work on Urban Faber, veteran spitballer, and they had him on the way to the showers before a single out had been turned in. The story of this big inning is the whole story of the game.

Myer opened with a safe bunt down first base way, went to third on Rice's single and scored while Blue was fumbling Manush's roller. Then followed a clean single by West, back in the game after a short layoff due to his throwing arm giving him trouble, and a double by Cronin. With three runs over and men on third and second, Faber was excused and Alphonse (Tommy) Thomas ambled to the mound.

Kuhel, first to face the relief flinger, coaxed a pass which filled the bases and Bluege came through with a double over third base which scored all three runners. The rally ended after this blow, but six runs were more than the Nats needed to win.

Sox Score Run With Need Of But One Hit.

The Sox had molded their first run with the need of but one hit and they were able to garner but six more off Fischer's slants over the balance of the route. They molded another useless tally in the ninth, the result of Fothergill's single, a walk and Garrity's double and had threatened in two other rounds—the fifth and seventh.

With two gone in the fifth, Garrity singled, Thomas scratched a safety off Fischer's glove, and Blue walked, filling the bases. Sullivan, however, kept the Sox from benefiting from these happenings by rolling to Kuhel for the third out. In the seventh, Appling opened with a double and was safe when Cronin tried to nail him at third on Kerr's grounder but got the peg to Bluege too late. After Garrity popped to Myer, Fonseca pinch-hit for Thomas and tapped into a snappy twin-killing, Bluege to Myer to Kuhel.

Singles by Manush and Cronin were not used by the Nats in their second but they added another to their total in the fourth, singles by Myer and Rice, Gill's suicide, and West's long fly coining it. They never threatened thereafter, getting but two more hits, George Bowler, a right-handed rookie obtained from the Rocky Mount Club, faced them in the seventh and eighth and granted but one bingle, a topped safety toward first in the seventh which was later turned into a double-play.

Bluege's Double Is Biggest Blow of Game.

Although Cronin was credited with three hits, including a double, and Myer, Rice and Bluege had two each, the big blow of the game was the latter's two-bagger, which emptied the filled bases in the opening stanza. Appling and Garrity each accounted for two of the seven chalked up on the alien ledger.

YANKS FACE BROWN IN OPENER

MANAGER WALTER JOHNSON and his Nationals left last night for New York, where they open a four-game series with the Yankees this afternoon, which will decide their second-place fight. A single game is listed for today and Friday, with a double-header Saturday. This twin bill is made necessary because the Nationals agreed to idle tomorrow so the Yanks, Giants and Robins could stage a charity two-game attraction in Yankee Stadium tomorrow.

Lloyd Brown, who has been pitching fairly good ball but who has not been benefiting from many breaks lately, will pitch for Washington, while McCarthy's sensational young southpaw, Vernon Gomez, is expected to do the alien flinging. He will be seeking his twenty-sixth victory of the season.

The Nationals missed most of their fielding practice because of a torrid meeting in their locker room over the division of the Washington Club's share of the world's series spoils. Just what was decided upon is not known, although it is understood that, in addition to all of the regulars, full shares were voted to Coaches Altrock, Schacht and Gharrity, to Trainer Mike Martin and to Assistant Trainer F. Riley Baxter. Fractions of shares were voted to several of the rookies, who have helped the Nats.

It is understood that one of the main arguments arose over the proposal to give Infielder Jordan Baxter, Outfielder Harry Rice and Catcher "Pinky" Hargrave a small "cut," and no member of the team would state what finally was decided in this respect.

Boston, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns closed the American League season in Boston today with a volley of hits, which scored five runs in the ninth inning and gave them a 5 to 2 victory over the Red Sox. Two errors contributed to the last inning downfall of Milton Gaston. Wilcey Moore, who succeeded Gaston, yielded two runs.

FORTUNATE YOUTH WINNER OF HAVRE DE GRACE FEATURE

Labrot Entry Is Extended In Victory

White Cloves II Is Challenger But Is Beaten Out.

Hot Toddy Finishes Third; Burning Blaze Scores.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 22.—Sylvester Labrot, of Maryland, again served notice today that he was in the racing game by landing his second purse of the meeting when his Fortunate Youth, which won by the last nod from the Foxcatcher Farm's White Clover II, the favorite, earned the decision in the feature. Hot Toddy was third and Morsel fourth. The other starter was Quarter Deck. Remillard rode the winner, which paid $13. Time, 1:46 for the mile and a sixteenth.

The day was as hot as yesterday. There were few coats worn by the patrons, but a wide expanse of shirts. The heat also affected the horses, especially the 2-year-olds, which became restive, while Starter Milton and his assistants attempted to pacify them. The races again were run late, after the delayed start in the opener.

In the Loch Raven Morsel got away first, after Hot Toddy was subdued, permitting a start. Fortunate Youth was at his heels and hung on tenaciously, with White Clover II third.

Entering the back stretch, Fortunate Youth took the lead, with Morsel second and Quarter Deck third. In the stretch, White Clover II challenged and almost got away with the purse, but Remillard, on Fortunate Youth, stuck to his task and his mount just lasted. The track was fast.

Tomorrow will be run the $20,000 added Potomac, with a field of twelve, headed by A. C. Bostwick's Mate.

Burning Blaze Easy Winner in Yorktown.

The Valley Lake Stable's Western speedster, Burning Blaze, carrying top weight, came from behind to run over his field and win the Yorktown Purse, secondary feature, by three lengths. J. B. Respess' Our Fancy was second and Glen Riddle Farm's Capacity, third. The winner paid $5.80 and ran 5½ furlongs, with 122 pounds, in 1:06 1-5. Wise Count, the pacemaker, was fourth.

Espinaca delayed the start several minutes. When the field was off Wise Count ran into a long lead, with Capacity the contender. Burning Blaze drew near at the far turn, was second in the stretch, and under pressure by W. Garner took the lead at the sixteenth and drew away. Twelve started.

Schoor's Playing Surprises.

John F. Schorr celebrated his advent into Havre de Grace by putting over Playing in the first race, paying the juicy price of $25.50 for $2. Burke had the mount and barely got the decision by a head from Mrs. H. L. Ughetta's Dustemoff, a colt which formerly was owned by C. V. Whitney. A length back S. Ryan's Line of Fire was tridd. Flaming Mamie was fourth. Flaming Mamie, in the field, got away in front, pursued by Beauty Bride and Playing. Beauty Bride went out in front of Flaming Mamie and General Court moved up. In the stretch the leaders were bunched and Playing came again, getting in front near the wire. Time, 1:14 2-5. 6 furlongs.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Boniface got, Boundless Deep, was best in the second race for maiden 3-year-olds, running the mile and 70 yards in 1:44 3-5. He got a neck decision over C. Cremen's Margaret Mc. Log Cabin Stud's Caplin was third and Astrakan, which had unseated Maiben at the barrier, fourth. The winner paid $10.20. Margaret Mc led all the way until Boundless Deep, Workman up, caught her near the finish line. Caplin ran sluggishly throughout. At the first turn Boundless Deep became the contender and was never out of striking distance. Nint started. Kitty Graves was 100 to 1, a short price on her.

Stretch Run Wins For Whisp.

W. E. Caskey's Phillip, under a good ride by Earl Steffen, won the third race from Whisp by a half length in 1:13 2-5. The Heathen was third by a nose behind Whisp. Whisp, probably best, was far out of it in the early running, then came in the stretch with a rush, going fastest of all, but never had free running. The winner was $6.80. The Heathen broke fast, with Phillip following. Nearing the stretch Whisp moved up and Phillip passed The Heathen. There was a long delay at the barrier. Aldershot ran through the gate repeatedly.

John Goff's filly, All Columbia, won the sixth race, the finish furnishing another nose decision, Sand Bell being the contender. Fourth Ward was third. The winner paid $13.90. Royal Rock took the lead soon after the start, All Columbia being the contender entering the back stretch and Sand Bell third. Albazano was out on the outside after wearing himself down as well as tiring out several others of the field.

Redivivus, $31.60, Wins Last Event.

Paying a $31.60 mutuel, the biggest of the meeting to date, F. J. Buchanan's Redivivus won the seventh race here today, with Jockey Sonny Workman in the saddle. This brown gelding caught the leaders about midway the one and one-sixteenth miles route and never was headed, although he was pressed by Bob's Play which closed stoutly in the stretch. Bob's Play finished one length behind the winner and one length ahead of Airway, which also showed gameness in the final drive.

Workman exerted slight pressure on his mount after hustling him into a contending position shortly following the start. When Workman called for more speed Redivivus responded nobly and wore the leaders down leaving the back stretch.

Bob's Play came forward with a rush at this stage, but Redivivus had plenty of reserve to stall him off.

—Havre de Grace Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 22.—The first of three $20,000 added stakes of the twelve-day meeting here is the Potomac Handicap, for 3-year-olds, which will be decided tomorrow, and has attracted twelve horses, one of the best fields of the year. A. C. Bostwick's MATE, Preakness and Arlington classic winner, of course, will be favorite, probably opening at even money. The mile and one sixteenth will suit MATE, which carries top weight of 127 pounds.

MATE'S race in the Saranac at Saratoga saw him running next to last in the race won by Danour. His next appearance was in the Kenner at the Spa, which he won in his true form, defeating Sun Meadow. He was not trained for the Saratoga Cup, magnificently won by Twenty Grand, and since has seemed to avoid a meeting with the Greentree champion 3-year-old. It is now said MATE will start for Canada after the running of the Potomac. George Ellis will ride him.

The Jeffords-Burch entry of IRON CLAD and TAMBOUR is rated the contender. TAMBOUR, with 110 pounds, following fast workouts, make her dangerous to MATE and IRON CLAD'S fast race at Belmont Park gives him a chance to figure. Greentree Stable's ST. BRIDEAUX is fast and will be second choice. He carries 121 pounds and should at least shut out everything for third money. There are other good horses in the race, notably SUN MEADOW, RISQUE and CLOCK TOWER should not be entirely overlooked. It will be one of the outstanding renewals of this stake, but it can not be termed an open race with MATE seeming to outclass the field.

FIRST RACE—The Max Hirsch entry of BLUE DAMSEL and DUNNY BOY is selected to win the first race, for maiden 2-year-olds. BLUE DAMSEL has worked very fast and ran a good race in New York. ZOSARA probably will be the favorite, and will make a good showing. MY DESIRE will run well and should show. Twenty juveniles are seeking opportunity to start, but twelve is the limit.

SECOND RACE—TANCRED, which won his last start in New York and beat a strong field should repeat in the second event at a mile and 70 yards. He appeared lame going to the post, but footed everybody. In the meantime, most everybody hedged on other horses and his price went up rapidly. But he won going away. RAEBURN, formerly a Widener horse, has astonished the clockers here by his fast gallops a mile in 1:42 flagged down being his last gallop. He should be no worse than second and may be at long odds. FLAGSTONE, also entered in the Potomac, will figure in this race if he starts.

THIRD RACE—SENADO looks best in the Port Deposit Purse for 2-year-olds. He can go 6 furlongs handily and should justify the large price paid for him. But there will be plenty of contention. THE CRANE is in top form and his last race at Belmont Park was convincing of his class when he finished second to Snap Back. PENCADER should be in the money. JAMBALAYA also is very fast.

FOURTH RACE—THE BEASEL at 110 pounds should prance home in the Round Bay fourth race and secondary feature. She carried 126 pounds and beat Clock Tower and others in her last Belmont race. RIP VAN WINKLE is rated the contender. He is ready for one of his best races. CHESTNUT OAKS is also dangerous and has all of his speed.

SEVENTH RACE — SHANTUNG is best in the seventh race at a mile and a furlong, but there is doubt about getting in as he is fifth on the list of eligibles. FIVE OAKS should be an easy second, and first is SHANTUNG fails to start. WORKLESS ought to hold the others safe.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PLAYING, $25.50, $13.80, $7.70; DUSTEMOFF, $9.00, $6.10; LINE OF FIRE, $3.50.

PLAYING hurried into a forward position and, racing in her best form, responded with good courage to take command in the final furlong, but had to be vigorously ridden to withstand DUSTEMOFF. Latter worked his way up steadily on the outside and finished fast for the closing drive. LINE OF FIRE, shuffled back directly after the start, was unable to secure racing room in the first half mile while racing on the inside. Fields sent him through on the inside of the leaders when midway the home stretch, but Burke came over with PLAYING and forced Fields to take his mount up. FLAMING MAMIE weakened during the final three furlongs. POMPEIA was racing strongly at the end. RIVET raced well. PIPE tired. BEAUTY BRIDE stopped badly after five furlongs.

SECOND RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. For maiden 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:53. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOUNDLESS DEEP, $10.20, $5.70, $3.00; MARGARET MC, $5.40, $2.70; CAPLIN, $2.20.

BOUNDLESS DEEP, prominent from the start, followed the pacemakers closely for six furlongs, slipped through on the inside of MARGARET MC rounding the final turn, withstood a stout drive gamely and was up inside the final furlong. MARGARET MC outran her field to the turn, was steadied along in front and continued willingly when put to a drive. CAPLIN lacked early speed, was put to pressure through the final half mile, but was held safe. ASTRAKHAN could not menace during the final drive. MONOCLE tired. The others had no excuses.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start fair from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:34. Winner, W. E. Caskey's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PHILLIP, $8.80, $3.90, $3.20; WHISP, $6.70, $4.10; THE HEATHEN, $3.00.

PHILLIP, a keen factor from the start, raced THE HEATHEN into submission in the first five furlongs, assumed command when straightened into the home stretch and held on determinedly to withstand WHISP. Latter, away slowly and badly outrun in the early stages, circled his field and finished with a belated rush. THE HEATHEN displayed good early speed, but tired when the real issue came. ALDERSHOT lost ground entering the home stretch, but was racing strongly at the finish.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BURNING BLAZE, $5.80, $4.40, $3.20; OUR FANCY, $6.50, $4.50; CAPACITY, $5.90.

BURNING BLAZE entered contention with a rush, was forced to race on the outside for racing room, closed stoutly when shaken up during the stretch run and drew out smartly after taking command inside final furlong. OUR FANCY, a keen factor throughout, held on well when the real test came. CAPACITY forced a steady early pace, made a determined bid entering the stretch and fought it out gamely. WISE COUNT displayed keen early speed, saved ground, but tired during the final furlong. He may have needed this race. FREDERICK raced well. MEXICO could not improve his position.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,800; allowances. The Loch Haven. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:40. Off at 4:51½. FORTUNATE YOUTH went into an easy lead and raced along under stiff restraint until leaving the back stretch, responded to pressure when entering the home stretch and just lasted long enough. WHITE CLOVER II broke slowly, was repeatedly bothered by HOT TODDY until reaching the back stretch, but ran on the inside to reach the pacemakers, then came to the outside to finish courageously.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALL COLUMBIA, $13.90, $6.30, $4.70; SAND BELL, $5.10, $4.00; FOURTH WARD, $4.00.

ALL COLUMBIA, away in the first flight and forcing a good early pace, raced ROYAL ROCK into submission, continued willingly under vigorous pressure and outstayed SAND BELL. Latter, well placed from the beginning, made a bold challenge when entering the home stretch and fought it out gamely. FOURTH WARD improved his position on the outside, but could not menace the first two. JIMMY D., slow to begin, closed a big gap. MEEK was unable to reach the leaders. ROYAL ROCK tired.

REDIVIVUS, hustled into a forward position and kept under slight pressure, moved up fast when leaving the back stretch, wore the leaders down and had enough in reserve to stall off BOB'S PLAY. Latter, slow to get into full stride, met with interference rounding the far turn, swung to the outside thereafter and closed stoutly. AIRWAY finished with good energy. JORICO began very slowly, worked his way up steadily and showed a winning effort. GRADISET could not keep pace when pressed.

ELDBROOKE DEFEATS COMMERCE, 4 TO 3, FORCING PLAY-OFF

G. P. O. Team Is Given Tie For Lead

Commerce, G. P. O. to Start 3-Game Series Today.

THE fallacy of predicting results in sandlot ball games was never more strikingly proven than when the Commerce nine, odds-on favorite to defeat Eldbrooke yesterday and win the Week-Day League championship, was upset by the underdog, 4 to 3, in a five-inning game.

As a consequence, the lead is now tied with Government Printing Office disputing Commerce's claim to first place, and a play-off series of three games between these two teams will be started today, the time, as usual, being 4:15 p. m. and the scene, the Ellipse.

Commerce Looked Upon As Sure Winner.

Having swept over all opposition following a reverse from the Constructioneers early in the series, the Commerce nine was virtually conceded the title when it defeated G. P. O. last week. The remaining game with Eldbrooke was regarded as merely incidental to playing out the schedule.

But Eldbrooke demonstrated at the outset yesterday that it was not to be so lightly regarded and before the first inning was completed held a lead it never relinquished. Four runners piled over the plate in this inning for the Church nine.

"Wild Bill" Payne, ace pitcher for Eldbrooke, held the touted Commerce batters to five hits, while his mates collected a total of eight off the slants of Shout Taylor.

Fuchs opened Eldbrooke's early attack with a single, following which Schneider went to first when struck by a pitched ball. Fuchs scored when Freeman singled and the latter trailed Schneider over the plate on a single by Duvall. The last mentioned came home with the fourth run as Lewis threw the ball away attempting to catch Hunt, who had singled and was stealing second.

Commerce Stages 3-Run Onslaught.

Commerce came back strongly in its half of the inning to score three runs. Singles by Povich and Hessler, coupled with two walks and a hit batsman turned the trick.

Eldbrooke was off to another big inning when darkness forced a stop to the proceedings in the sixth inning. The score reverted to the end of the fifth.

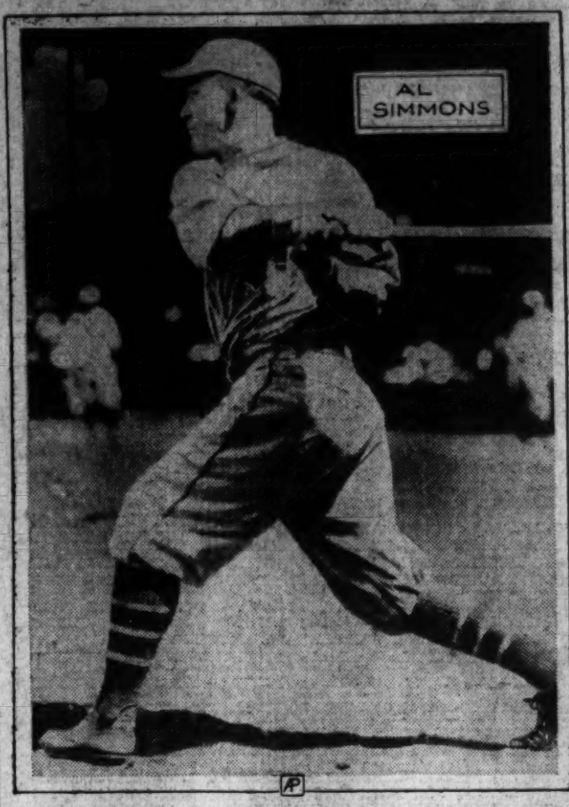
CONNIE'S CREW—Up Close



Al Simmons, big slugger of the Philadelphia Athletics, is one of those sluggers who make a pitcher earn his pay check—he hits anything. A strike through the center of the plate fools him most—he sees one so seldom.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

No. 9—Anything Al.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—If Al Simmons—christened Aloysius Harry Szemanski—has any batting weakness at all it is a ball squarely across the plate. Those are the kind he pays the least attention to.

"Why, I had that guy two balls and two strikes," growled Burleigh Grimes after the first game of the 1930 world series, "so I waste one. I throw him a bad ball, wide. And what does he do? He hits it out of the park."

The rest of the world's champion Philadelphia Athletics say that the big slugger is so anxious to hit that he pays no attention at all to where the ball is.

Hit Ball Close to Hands For Homer.

Dan Howley, of the Browns, says he saw Simmons hit a ball so close to him that it almost struck his hands—and he dropped it in the left field stands for a home run.

The next time he reached across the plate for a ball a foot wide and plunked it in the right field bleachers.

When Simmons decides to hit he merely pokes the first thing that comes along, high, low, inside or out, says Walter Johnson dolefully.

Twice in one day last year the A's beat the Nationals, and both times Simmons did the big hitting. The two teams met in the railroad station that evening.

"If I knew what to pitch to you," said Johnson to Simmons, "we'd beat out the Athletics. What would you pitch to yourself if you were twins and one of you was a pitcher?"

Simmons grinned.

"I'd throw one down the middle," he said. "That's where I look for them least often."

Simmons was not very popular when he first came up with the Athletics. He hated so to lose that he took every error the infield made to heart and often marched in from his post in left field to tell the offenders about it in rather savage language.

"You won't have a friend on the club," he said, "unless you stop that. They're trying just as hard as you are."

Simmons thought that over and found that Gleason was right. Now he is one of the most popular men on the club. The Athletics rank him the greatest outfielder in baseball today, and the baseball world agrees with them.

He used to "put his foot in the bucket" so much that big league scouts took one look at his form and turned away. They forgot to look at his batting average. Now he steps forward more than he steps away, but the reputation still clings to him.

Has Copied Many of Cobb's Mannerisms.

He moves about a great deal in the batting box, crowding the plate for some pitchers, standing back for others, in one corner and then the other. He instinctively copied many of Ty Cobb's ball field mannerisms when Ty was with the Athletics.

His ambition is to play every game of a season, but bad ankles forced him out for a long spell again this year. He never worries about his batting average. He doesn't pile up a fine average, then get sick and let the other sluggers shoot at it.

"First fellow I ever saw do that," he says, "was in the Dakota League a long time ago. He's still there."

JOB BATTLES ARE HEATED AT G. W.

Coach Faces Problem in Picking Varsity Eleven.

FOOTBALL history is being made these days at George Washington University. Whereas in past years material was so scarce that it was difficult to muster two full teams for scrimmage Head Coach Jim Pixlee now has a problem in picking the best eleven from among more than 30 good players.

Four capable ends are battling for the end positions on the team that starts Saturday aginst Shenandoah College in Central Stadium. They are Fouts, Galloway, Mulvey and Chambers. The same is true of the tackles, Slaird, Nielsen, Bagranoff and Hale.

Usnik, Dikes, Wilson, Hickman, Littleton and other guards are competing for nominations, while Blackistone and Conn are waging war for the center assignment. In the back field at quarter back the fight is among Fenlon, Carlin, Carter, Metia and Coegler. Hoffman and Jones seek the full back post, while the half back jobs are sought by Stewart, Parrish, Kriemelmeyer, Doyle, Hendrickson and Gilliland, all of whom seem to be on an even basis.

TIGERS TO BALITMORE.

The Takoma Tigers, crack Capital City League team, will play in Baltimore Sunday against the Associated Democrats, champions of the Sunday Sandlot League. The game will be played in Bloomingdale Bowl, beginning at 2 o'clock.

A squad of fifteen Tigers will make the trip, starting at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning. In order to tune up for the game the local team will practice today on the Takoma playgrounds.

G. U. Practicing Aerial Defense

Overhead Attack Expected From Lebanon in Grid Opener Saturday.

Intrasquad rivalry, intense, yet friendly, has caused Head Coach Tom Mills to soften the burden on his Georgetown football players this week as they prepare for their inaugural game with Lebanon Valley, scheduled Saturday afternoon in Griffith Stadium.

Due to the fact that many of his players are injured as a result of hard scrimmages, the Hilltop mentor has eliminated scrimmage from his practice program for the week.

Forward pass defense consumed most of yesterday's drill. Mills thus preparing his team for what he expects will be an aerial attack from Lebanon Valley.

Catholic U. Team Named by Coach

Following a two-hour scrimmage yesterday with the Maryland University squad at College Park, the Catholic University Football Team which will face Boston College in the Hub on Saturday was identified by Head Coach Bergman. The Cardinal array was named as follows:

Wohlforth, Meikeljohn, Ends, Out From Injuries.

THREE days before it was to open its season, Tech High School yesterday lost two of its 1930 regulars through injuries, Meikeljohn and Wohlfarth, both ends. A broken bone in Wohlfarth's foot may keep him out for the season, but Meikeljohn's wrenched shoulder will respond to treatment, it is believed, before the middle of next month.

Tech faces Baltimore Poly Friday in Baltimore with four regulars in the line-up, Sachs, captain and half back; Gormley, full back; Baxter, center, and Rhodes, guard, all four of them all-high selections. Against Poly, and Winchester High the next day, Coach Hardell will use three back fields. The first group of ball carriers will be composed of, besides Sachs and Gormley, Carlton Edwards and Steve Oehman.

Training School Takes Devitt's Place at Alexandria.

Meikeljohn and Wohlfarth will be replaced from a group which includes McKinney, Stehman, Dey and Merriatt.

A game was canceled and a game added to the local high school grid program for the week yesterday when Devitt canceled with Alexandria, who immediately secured the services of the National Training School for Friday, at Alexandria.

HITTING THE HEAD PIN

CERTAINLY one of the most interesting pin spilling groups in town is the Intercollegiate Bowling League, whose members make it hard to get an alley at Rendezvous on Thursday nights during the winter. The guiding light of the league is Creed Fulton, Cornell, who organized the loop three years ago and was last night reelected president.

Fred Bamman, Princeton, gained the vice presidency; Frank Borden, Lehigh, the treasurer's post, and J. W. Haines, Princeton, the job of secretary.

Fulton, who has had great experience in collecting college men and leading them back into some form of athletics, looks upon this as the league's most successful season. Harvard and Michigan came in last night, boosting the number of teams to twelve. The other ten are Maryland, Dartmouth, V. M. I., V. P. I., Princeton, Navy, Lehigh, Yale, Cornell and Brown.

Maryland has had things pretty much their own way. Last spring they won their third leg on the three-year trophy and thus retired it from competition. The featured stars of the league, however, are not on the Old Line aggregation. Neil Anderson, of V. M. I.; Musco Garnett, of V. P. I., and Joe Storey, of Dartmouth, were the kingpins of the circuit.

The league was concluded in exciting fashion last year. Dartmouth was out on top by a slim margin and Maryland in second place, when Yale, firmly entrenched in the cellar, beat the league leaders, giving Maryland the trophy.

This year the league starts October 15.

There is a rumor that the tennis players of Washington, with no indoor courts to play upon during the winter, will form a bowling league. It would not be such a bad circuit, what with Garnett, Anderson, John Neale, Harry Hill and Clarence Charest.

Kann's took two out of three games from Lansburgh's last night in the feature event of the Ladies Independent League matches at King Pin No. 2. Yielding the first game, 393 to 405, Kann's came back to score 406 and 459 against 399 and 393 for their opponents.

Navy could do nothing with Capital and Tip Tops won over Rose Buds by forfeit in the other Independent matches.

The Ladies Federal League will consist of sixteen teams this year, instead of fourteen, proving that there is no depression in that section of the bowling world. Mrs. Elsie Romero, the obliging secretary of the loop, announces that the new squads are Internal Revenue, G. P. O., and Marine Corps.

Doris Goodall is president of the league this year, and the team line-up reads, besides the three teams already mentioned: Agriculture, Census, Census Stars, Commerce, Commerce Comets, Commerce Juniors, Economics, G. A. O., Interstate Commerce Commission, Labor, Treasury, Veterans' Bureau, and War Department.

With a burst of noise and a shower of pins, the National Capital League opened its season last night at Lucky Strike, with Lucky Strike taking all three from Barnes Used Cars and Temple taking two out of three from National Pale Dry.

That the opening of the season did not catch the bows unaware may be seen from the scores of the match. Hokie Smith, of Lucky Strike, turned in a great 168, 132, 122 to clinch high set honors for the night. Schecter took honors in Barnes' line-up, while Megaw and Clark divided honors in the Temple-Pale Dry hostility.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

He Needs Help.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Am I just "learning about women" or what? Does every man go up against the same rude surprises that have me baffled? What about these women anyway? Listen:

When I danced with the first one, those demure eyes seemed to say, "I am the stay-at-home girl you have been searching for, the kind you want to settle down with; I am not much of a dancer, but I can cook." Not in so many words, mind you, but nobody with the ability to sift below the surface could miss it. But I missed it. Yes, sir. I said to myself, "No designing female here." And the fun began.

Probably I had been the first man who was not scared away by her demure "marry me" attitude. The affair reached the point where she was nothing more than clay in my hands. Of course, I enjoyed being loved. Of course, I enjoyed being coddled in my every action and suggestion. Despite demure appearance, I was never called down for actions that deserved it. She was a "good" girl who tempered behavior with "judgment."

Then came the showdown. She dropped a hint to somebody that she was expecting an engagement ring any time now. By the time that story got back to me I was supposed to be on my way to the bureau to get a license—you know how stories grow as they pass from mouth to mouth. It may have been so much idle talk, but it had the effect of a dash of cold water on spring fever. That week I took her out for the last time, and I haven't seen her since.

It was about a month later I met the second one also at a dance. Just after I had started dancing with her she said, "I was just telling the girls with me that I hoped you'd ask me to dance, for I noticed that you danced my way." Nothing very demure or subtle about that, and she meant every word of it. Straight from the shoulder came every commendation and criticism. That girl was none of your stay-at-home type. She had no home and the place where she lived and worked was a kind of a place you want to get away from as many of the 24 hours as you can. She admitted very blankly that she was out late altogether too often. She made herself attractive (admitted that she squandered all her pocket money on clothes). We had a dance among my own personal group of friends. She turned up in evening dress, and maybe I didn't like trotting the most attractive girl in the hall right past some of the worst snobs that I know, or maybe again I liked it immensely.

And then I killed the goose that laid the golden egg. I began to behave as I had with the demure girl. She was no prude, but I did not get far. She had led me blindly to the fact that she was a good girl. What the "demure" girl permitted, the "dangerous" girl resented in flaming indignation and wrath. Now? I'm eating my heart out for a chance to apologize to the second girl for my stupidity and inexperience. You can not imagine how empty my life has become without her. What is a fellow to think or do? The ones who look good are lax and the ones who look aporty are straight—and believe it or not—pure!

I, for one, will not marry one of "God's chillun without any wings." She must know how to keep me in my place. But how can a man find out without disaster? My future wife has got to be a stepper. But she must have dignity, too. If you can not tell by looks, how can you? Come on you other fellows? What is your method? X. Y. Z.

Are there many men as helpless as this youth? Must a man insult and be in turn insulted before he can recognize self-respect or dignity? An adult man should be able to distinguish between womanly reserve and mere dumb meekness. And such a man should be able to recognize sophistication and refrain from confusing it with moral turpitude.

There are still men to whom a lip stick is evidence of malice aforethought and to whom ease of manner in a woman suggests easy morals. Why? No one knows. It is, of course, all blamed on the woman, presumably she should unfurl a banner upon being introduced, thus dissipating suspense, and simplifying life for man. Relieved of all necessity for using his brain, the enterprising Romeo could then learn how deceiving banners can be.

If man becomes any more helpless, something will have to be done about his case. Meanwhile perhaps a little conversation might help. Humans, even female humans, frequently can be judged by that old but now forgotten method of gauging both intellect and character. Ever try it, Mr. X. Y. Z.?

Improvements Slated For Allegheny River

Kittanning, Pa., (U.P.).—Several million dollars are expected to be appropriated for improvements on the Allegheny River this winter as a result of the phenomenal growth of river traffic.

The Allegheny now has one-fourth of the tonnage of the Monongahela, which has been in use 40 years.

Two new locks and dams, Nos. 9 and 10, rebuilding of locks and dams at Aspinwall and Herr's Island, and two new dams on the Kiskiminetas River are expected to be provided for in the congressional bill this winter. The combined projects will cost several million dollars.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

TINY TOTS NEEDS.

Today's little outfit is so cunning. The fulness falling from brief shoulder yokes allow plenty of skirt freedom.

Style No. 505 takes but 2⅛ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 35-inch contrasting for the 4-year-old.

STOCK MARKET GETS BALANCE IN TRADING

Desire to Liquidate Lessens Under Shorts' Curb; Loss Averages 1 Point.

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—The stock market settled down to a more routine existence today. It opened under some pressure, and closed a little heavy, but between those extremes the tone was steady and fluctuations proved narrow. Volume was less than half yesterday's, aggregating 2,119,980 shares against nearly four and a half million on Monday.

Trading was somewhat restrained by the ban on short selling, but the urgent desire to liquidate was absent. It appeared, in short, that confidence had strengthened.

Wage cuts by the two big steel corporations had been expected for some time, although the announcements by both U. S. Steel and Bethlehem came after the close of the markets. Wall street has long been discussing the whole wage matter and would not be surprised if readjustments were made elsewhere on the theory that such action is a normal step in the painful process of deflation.

Foreign News Helpful.

London's decision to reopen its stock exchange tomorrow, and the resumption of trading on some continental markets, together with the improvement on the Paris Bourse, had a good effect here. Sterling exchange was still rather demoralized with inquiries fewer and the rates generally between $4 and $4.20.

Bankers said little stability could be anticipated for at least a fortnight. The final rate for cables was $4.19, off 13 cents. Canadian dollars dropped and then recovered.

Stocks averaged just a point net lower, according to the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite. U. S. Steel, off nearly 2 points in the opening flurry of selling, made full recovery, sagged toward the finish and then closed unchanged. Losses in American Can, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, General Electric, General Motors, Anaconda, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas, Sears Roebuck and Standard Oil of New Jersey ranged from a small fraction to a point. American Telephone had a 2½-point range, finishing 1¾ lower. Western Union was up 5. Erratic changes occurred in the rails.

Freight Loadings Drop.

The drop in freight loadings for the week ended September 12 reflected the Labor Day holiday; nevertheless, the loss of nearly 92,000 cars was large. Activity among the steel makers appears to be holding steady, which means that seasonal tendencies are not yet manifest. American Metal Markets estimated the operating rate at 28 per cent, unchanged from a week ago. Buying is being based entirely on immediate requirements.

For the first time since May a change was made in bankers' acceptance rates, the yield is being increased ¼ of 1 per cent. This was partly a seasonal development, in anticipation of larger mill supplies which would reflect business revival.

Commodity markets closed rather steady. Silver got a fractional setback and cotton lost much of an early gain, closing 3 to 7 points higher. Wheat's net advances were small. September corn slumped more than a cent, although other months finished virtually unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Sept 22 (A.P.).—Abundance of American corn rather than scarcity of British gold played the star role in the grain markets today. Sudden huge deliveries of 2,021,000 bushels of corn were made to settle outstanding September corn contracts, and this unexpected circumstance tumbled quotations down 2 cents a bushel to below the season's previous bottom level. Wheat sympathised with corn weakness, but wrenched higher responsive to comparative strength shown by the stock market and to harvest delays in Canada.

Corn closed irregular, 1½ cents lower to ¼ cent advance, wheat ¼@½ up, oats at ⅛ decline to ⅛ gain, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents down.

Corn traders were bearishly affected not only by today's big deliveries but by predictions that deliveries between now and the end of the month would be heavy. For the first time in a long while Chicago receipts of corn were larger than for the corresponding day both of the week previous and a year ago. Arrivals totaled 800 cars, against respectively 33 and 63 last week and last year. Receipts, too, at other primary centers were increased, aggregating 360,000 bushels compared with 217,000 at this time last week.

Wheat took its cue from reports that rains were continuing in the Canadian harvest region, where downpours had been threatened for ten successive days. The territory deluged included sections in which the wheat crop had been best. Some of the wheat was reported as still uncut, and most of it unthreshed, so that threshing would not be resumed for about a week in many places. Much "spread" selling here was done against purchases at Winnipeg, and there was also selling on account of rains where needed over part of the United States winter wheat belt.

Considerable attention was given to Liverpool advices that Russia was sending large shipments of wheat to Great Britain in an effort to anticipate tariff enactments or other import restrictions. Oats followed corn, with oats receipts as well as corn arrivals larger.

BANKERS GIVE BONDS AID TO HALT LOSSES

Several Foreign Issues Gain Under Support; Others Resume Declines.

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—Buying support, some originating with important banking interests, came into the bond market today to bolster many issues, particularly foreign, that have suffered almost uninterrupted declines in recent weeks.

In the face of nervous selling inspired in part by the unsettlement abroad, buying support was not sufficient to stem the decline, and losses outnumbered advances, carrying the list to another successive new low as gauged by the averages. While trading failed to maintain as fast a pace as yesterday, the day's transfers amounted to $14,958,000, a volume that has been exceeded few times in the last two years.

The wide disparity between bid and asked prices that has been chiefly responsible for the sharp drop taken by bonds in comparatively light trading in some sessions was lessened, and the market had a better appearance of two-sidedness than in many weeks.

With confidence greatly impaired by world-wide developments natural investment demand has been virtually absent. Following the climax of the selling reached yesterday it was reported that several leading banking firms had agreed to support issues they had underwritten without organizing a pool. The better showing made by both foreign and domestic bonds today was ascribed principally to inquiry from those sources.

Gains ranging from 1 to 8 points were registered by some of the leading European, Asiatic and South American governments, while those of lesser rating resumed their decline. In the domestic list the range was narrower, but gave the appearance of a better balance. Recent declines in domestics as a whole have not compared with the spectacular dips taken by foreign obligations.

There was a better inquiry for some of the leading railroad, utility and industrial obligations, and advances from 1 to 4 points tended partially to offset declines in other issues. Dealings in United States Governments dropped off noticeably from the unusually active session yesterday, and prices rallied.

Led by German government 5½s, which jumped 8 points, such foreign government bonds as Australians, Belgians, Chilean, Japanese, French, Swiss and British advanced buoyantly. Some other South American followed their lead, but the movement was not uniform. Italian governments and municipals continued under pressure and in heavy trading the Italian 7 per cent issue reacted 10 points to close at a new low for the year.

TEN CAPITAL FIRMS BID ON NEW THEATER

Bids for the construction of the new Crandall Theater on Connecticut avenue, between Ordway and Newark streets northwest, have been entered by ten concerns, all of Washington, it was announced yesterday by John J. Zink, of Baltimore, architect for the new moving picture house.

The bidders are: Boyle-Robertson, Inc., Evans Building; Davis, Wick, Rosengarten Co., District National Bank; Skinker & Garrett, 1719 I street northwest; R. P. Whitty Co., 917 Penrike Building; Arthur L. Smith & Co., 2539 Pennsylvania avenue northwest; Maiatico Construction Co., International Exchange Bank; W. P. Lipscomb Co., District National Bank; George E. Wyne, 2539 Pennsylvania avenue northwest; DeSibour Construction Co., 2000 R street northwest; Robert A. Moyer, 3400 Quebec street northwest.

October 3 is the deadline on which bids will be received at Mr. Zink's office, it was announced. Plans for the new theater have been filed and permit to proceed with construction will probably be granted this week.

Building Contracts Increased.

Construction contracts in Washington during August amounted to $3,782,300, against $1,769,000 over the same month last year, according to reports from the F. W. Dodge Corporation.

Washington holds the distinction, according to the Dodge report, of being the only city in the Middle Atlantic territory showing August planning on a higher plain than a year ago on contemplated work.

Directors of the Merchants Transfer and Storage Co., meeting yesterday afternoon, declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on preferred stock, payable October 1 to stockholders of record on September 24. Books will be closed from September 24 to September 30, inclusive, for the transfer of stock.

The directors expressed satisfaction over the high volume of business realized up to date this year in comparison with the same period last year.

Carusi Joins Firm.

Eugene C. Carusi, son of the late Charles F. Carusi, and grandson of Eugene Carusi, has resigned from the Navy to accept a position with the new insurance agency of Legg, Griffin & Co. He also intends to study law at National University, of which his father was president. Mr. Carusi represents the third generation of the Carusi family to take up law and business in this city.

Mr. Carusi was born in Washington in 1908, graduated from the public schools here, entered the U. S. Naval Academy in 1924 and graduated in 1928 and was commissioned as ensign. He served on the U. S. S. Utah for nearly three years and has made many foreign cruises. He was aboard the Utah when President Hoover returned from Buenos Aires after his "good will tour."

Shortly after being promoted to lieutenant last summer, he resigned from the Navy to accept the position with the new firm.

Bond Club Library.

Plans are going forward for the establishment of the financial library to be established here October 1 under the sponsorship of the Bond Club of Washington. This enterprise is expected to form the basis for considerable discussion at the luncheon meeting of the Bond Club in the assembly rooms of the National Press Club at 12:30 o'clock today. All active members of the club are invited to attend the luncheon which will inaugurate the new season.

The new library, which is to be located in the banking offices of a prominent international and underwriting house on Fifteenth street within a block of the Treasury Building, will contain histories of stock exchanges in every corner of the globe, stories of the development of American railways, biographies of financial celebrities, in fact, everything of interest to students of finance and economics.

A rental will be charged to members of the bond club for books borrowed and a fine will be imposed for tardy returns. Receipts will be devoted to the purchase of new books. The management of the bond club circulating library predicts that the venture will become one of the most active literary projects in the District of Columbia within a year of its birth.

Carpel Dividend Declared.

A dividend of 50 cents per share has been declared by directors of the Carpel Corporation, payable October 1 to stockholders of record September 24. This declaration places the stock on a regular $2 basis, against $1.50 plus extras, per annum previously paid.

Henry L. Carpel, president of the corporation, reports excellent progress this year, gross sales for the first seven months being $1,138,608, as compared with $1,092,571 for the corresponding period in 1930. This gain has been made despite the fact that prices of merchandise sold show a decrease of about 20 per cent.

Stock of the Carpel Corporation is listed on the Washington Stock Exchange and is widely held by local investors. John F. Brawner, of Waggaman, Brawner & Co., Inc., has been elected treasurer of the corporation to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Arthur Foraker.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Sept. 22 (A.P.).—An opening advance in cotton here today was followed by partial reactions under realizing or liquidation, but Southern selling was less active than yesterday and trading became comparatively quiet on the declines.

December contract, after selling up to 6.42 at the start, reacted to 6.37, worked up again to 6.43, and later sold off to 6.36, closing at 6.38, net unchanged to 2 points lower. Other months showed steady to 4 net advances of 3 to 7 points.

The opening was steady at advances of 7 to 11 points. The steadiness of the Liverpool market and reports of a better tone in Manchester may have been sentimental factors on the advance, but some traders thought the depreciation in sterling might call for a further widening of differences between New York and Liverpool and offerings increased after the early buying had been supplied. Prices sagged in consequence, but the buying continued quite active up to the close of the Liverpool market.

October sold up to 6.21 and March to 6.76, or back to about the opening prices, making net gains of about 10 to 13 points. Trading later became comparatively quiet and there was probably some selling in expectation of increased hedging in the last half hour. This carried prices off to within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing quotations, but hedging failed to develop in the anticipated volume and the close was a shade up from the lowest.

Attention again seemed quite closely focused on the readjustment of the differences between New York and Liverpool and the further course of sterling.

Liverpool cables said covering and Manchester buying had absorbed liquidation and realising and reported Manchester more optimistic with an improved cloth inquiry. Exports today, 12,814, making 142,242 so far this season. Port receipts, 14,852. U. S. port stocks, 2,996,940.

Golfing Attorneys Led By Early in Medal Event

Wins 72-Hole Tourney for Attorneys Practicing Before the Interstate Commerce Commission by 9-Stroke Margin.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

FELIX E. EARLY yesterday won the golf trophy presented by the attorneys practicing before the Interstate Commerce Commission in a tournament played on the course of the Indian Spring Club. Competition was 72 holes medal play, handicap allowance, and Early's four rounds of 77—78—78—78, with seven handicap for each round, easily outclassed the field of nearly 100 entrants. His net score of 283 led the runner-up contestant by nine strokes.

When the final rounds began yesterday Early was in the lead with a net 141 and when he continued throughout the day to break 80 his victory never was in doubt. The runner-up was A. R. Strohm, whose net score of 148 on Monday was followed by a net of 144 yesterday for a total of 292, his handicap being one stroke higher than that allowed the winner.

Third Net Prize Won by McCallum.

The third prize was won by W. A. McCallum with net scores of 148 and 151, his handicap of 18 being of material aid in obtaining a net total of 299. Early not only won the practitioners' trophy, a replica of which will be presented to him, but he won the prizes for low gross for 18 and 36 holes. The net scores of the contestants and their handicap for each eighteen holes were as follows:

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 22.—Charlie Corbett's St. Mary's Celtics will inaugurate their 1931 football season on October 4 at Baggett's Stadium, opposing the Northern A. C. of Washington, it was announced today.

The Celtics are also entered in the Washington gridiron loop and will engage the Apaches, champions in the District last year, in the opening game at Griffith Stadium on October 11. Billy Padgett and George Moore, two stars with the Celtics last year, will be seen at their regular positions, while Williams and Murphy will also be in the line-up. They have played with the Celtics for three years. The new addition to the team is Vic Turner, end, who is now coaching at Washington and Lee High School. He formerly played with the University of Virginia team.

On Sunday the Celtics Baseball Team will meet the Dixie Pigs, champions of the Prince Georges County League. This club has lost only three games this season.

Six teams will be represented in the Old Dominion Boat Club Bowling League, which will open on the Health Center alleys next Thursday evening. Many new faces will be seen in the line-ups of the clubs. The Sculls won the honors last season.

0-0 TIE MARKS FIRST GRID TILT HERE

Fumbles Frequent in National Training-Emerson Game.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

PLAYING on a rock-ribbed field, the boys of Emerson Institute, that staid old college preparatory school, and the boys of the National Training School, violators of the pettier laws of mankind, opened the local scholastic football season yesterday afternoon at the Training School's gridiron. The score, or lack of it, was 0-0.

Emerson, mostly Right End Brown, tossed, away two golden opportunities to beat the dogged play of the home team. With four minutes to play, Joe Buscher's 25-yard dash to the Training School's 20-yard line was followed by a long pass to Brown, who let the ball slip away from him while his feet were churning up the dust from the last white line. Then again, after Dick Kelso had intercepted an abortive pass and ran to the 10-yard line, Buscher passed one more, hard and true over the line into the slippery hands of Brown, whose groan of self-disgust matched prettily with the piping from the final whistle.

Fumbles Handicap Training Lads.

Fumbles sold for a dime a dozen, three consecutive errors in ball handling wiping out National Training's one chance of winning the game. The episode in question cropped up in the dusty final moments of the first half, when successive line bucks and a beautiful long, low pass from Merryman, quarter back, to Signa, left half, gave National Training the hoghide on Emerson's 26-yard line. Three fumbles and one gainless off-tackle thrust edged the ball back nearly to midfield.

Otherwise the game was about evenly fought. Emerson was the stronger team and a trifle more sure of themselves, but the home team, as incohesive as their play oftimes was, most times managed to entwine arms around the pistoning knees of the boys from the outside world. National Training, coached by Ed Crandall, former G. W. player, uses Jim Pixlee's screen play on the kick-off.

25 Years Ago Today

SEPTEMBER 23, 1906.

Dispatches from Havana, where Secretary of War Taft and other American emissaries are attempting to stave off trouble, quote the War Secretary as saying he had formulated a plan by which Cuban sovereignty could be preserved.

* * * *

It was evident today that American armed forces are primed for almost instant action if President Roosevelt should say the word "intervene" in connection with the unrest in Cuba.

* * * *

That President Roosevelt has given up his simplified spelling project—temporarily, at least—was indicated today in an order from the Public Printer to his subordinates to forget a previous instruction that the word "passed" should be spelt "past."

* * * *

Harry Houdini has accepted a challenge from a local firm of expert packers to nail him in a box at Chase's Theater next Tuesday night. The wizard guarantees to free himself barehanded from his "prison" within a short space of time.

PEIRCE TO TESTIFY TODAY AS HEARING ON GAS IS RESUMED

Expected to Be Questioned About Ownership of Capital Company.

INQUIRY INTO CONTROL MAY BE SENSATIONAL

Other Officials of Central Service Are to Appear Before Commission.

Albert E. Peirce, head of the $400,000,000 Central Public Service Corporation, will take the witness chair this morning before the Public Utilities Commission to be questioned about the supposed ownership by his corporation of the Washington Gas Light Co.

Mr. Peirce, generally referred to by his associates as colonel, a rank he held in the World War, is expected to be the first witness when the hearings are resumed by the commission at 10 o'clock.

Having done with the gas pressure phase of the hearing, the commission now is turning its attention to the more important question of ownership of the local company, a phase which may prove far more sensational because of the La Follette anti-merger law, which forbids outside ownership of local utilities.

Eighty-four per cent of the stock of the Washington Gas Light Co., which owns the Georgetown Gas Co., was acquired by the Seaboard Investment Trust more than a year ago. The deal was engineered by Harris Forbes & Co., of New York, one of whose officers, F. S. Burroughs, who handled the transaction, also is to appear before the commission here.

Transaction Upheld.

Although the legality of the purchase of control of the local gas companies was contested by the District in the local courts, the transaction was upheld. Those who engineered the transaction admitted their attempt to get around the letter of the antimerger law and insisted they had done so. The law provided a penalty and therefore must be construed literally, they contended. The court agreed and inasmuch as the law mentioned most everything but a trust the transaction was upheld.

A few months ago, however, a new aspect was given the situation when publicity agents for the Central Public Service Corporation announced that the Washington Gas Light Co. was one of several utilities taken over by the corporation. Subsequently this announcement was denied and has been denied since, although papers seized from the files of George A. G. Wood, president of the Capital company, make it clear that the Chicago corporation has developed a closer and closer hold on the management of his company.

Not for Reelection.

This control was extended so far that Mr. Wood wrote to Mr. Peirce, informing him that he would not permit his name to be put up for reelection at the next annual meeting of the board of directors.

William Wildes, executive vice president, and R. E. Gallagher, comptroller, of the Central Public Service Corporation, also are to appear before the commission during the hearing.

Mr. Wildes is expected to be questioned about a letter he wrote Mr Wood in which he said that Bert H. Peck, then chief engineer of the utilities commission, was an old friend whom he had promised a better job, and expressed the belief that Mr. Peck, in the meantime, probably would prove of service to Mr. Wood in dealing with the utilities commission. Mr. Peck now is engineering assistant to Mr. Wood.

America Daughters Seat New Officers

Mrs. Mabel Downing Named State Councilor as Session Ends.

New officers of the Daughters of [illegible] ics, who were elected yesterday [illegible]ing by the District of Columbia [illegible]uncil were installed and initiated last night at the closing meeting of the annual session at the Mayflower Hotel.

Twenty-six councils of the District attended the meeting of the State Council this year marking one of the largest attendances since the organization of the Daughters of America.

Officers elected yesterday were: Mrs. Mabel Downing, State councilor; Mrs. Emma Brooks, associate State councilor; Mrs. Belle Gibson, State vice councilor; Mrs. Helen Luckett, associate State vice councilor; Mrs. Ollie Montgomery, State warden; Mrs. Ella Stone, State conductor; Charles H. Miller, State secretary; Mrs. Deborah Streitberger, State inner sentinel; Mrs. Viola Frazier, trustee, and Mrs. Grace M. Rickett, State treasurer.

Titles to Potomac River Sites Probed

Government and Private Owners Dispute Rights to Virginia Lands.

Acting on the request of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the Department of Justice announced yesterday that steps will be taken immediately to clear up titles to five parcels of land along the Virginia side of the Potomac River which are expected to be a part of the George Washington Memorial Parkway.

The parcels were once a part of the bed of the Potomac and have been reclaimed through artificial filling. The commission claims the property is owned by the Federal Government. In a case involving the Washington Airport, the Department of Justice announcement said, the Supreme Court decided that the land appeared to be in the District of Columbia.

The request of the commission was made because of claims of private individuals and corporations adverse to the property rights of the United States. The matter is being handled by the Public Lands Division of the Department of Justice.

60 YEARS IN FEDERAL SERVICE

Underwood & Underwood.

Miss Letitia Calhoun, photographed yesterday at her desk in the Treasury Department where she has been employed since June 1, 1871. She was 15 when appointed by Gen. Francis E. Spinner and holds the distinction of being the Government's oldest employe in point of service. Miss Calhoun lives with a niece at 2153 California street.

AUTOPSY IS SOUGHT IN DEATH YEAR AGO

Officials of the United States Attorney's office yesterday appeared reluctant to go behind the results of a coroner's autopsy and launch a new investigation into the death of Mrs. Mary L. S. Sutton, 89-year-old recluse, who died at the home of friends, at 632 Randolph street northwest, more than a year ago.

The request for an additional investigation was made by a special investigator, who is employed by persons contesting a will made by the aged woman, in which she disposed of an estate that approximated $100,000.

The original circumstances of the woman's death caused a midnight investigation by police last year, as Mrs. Sutton's body was being placed on a train for shipment to Greenwich, Conn. Telephoned reports led Coroner Nevitt to order police to seize the corpse and take it to the morgue.

The next day an autopsy was performed by Dr. Joseph A. Rogers, who found that the woman's death was caused by bronchial pneumonia. Upon that finding, which, of course, was a natural death, the coroner released the body and permitted it to be taken away. Persons in Connecticut now wish to have the body exhumed, and a further investigation made.

Such an investigation is up to the Connecticut authorities, it was said, because the body is there, and local authorities do not have the power to order it disinterred. The investigation from a Washington standpoint consisted of a search of the records. It is not expected that any developments will take place here.

Siggers Blocked On Reno Divorce

Holding that the residence of Philip E. E. Siggers, patent attorney, was here and not Reno, Nev., Chief Justice A. A. Wheat yesterday granted Mrs. Siggers a temporary injunction restraining her husband from further prosecuting a suit for divorce in Nevada.

Mrs. Siggers, who resides at 3406 Lowell street northwest, filed a suit for maintenance here August 13. She alleged that her husband had deserted her and their five children, and that he was paying her less than $300 a month from an income estimated at that time to be in excess of $12,000 annually.

The chief justice ruled that Mr. Siggers was "taking advantage of his wife's financial necessity" to induce her to "confer semblance of jurisdiction upon the Nevada court. She refuses and is entitled to the protection of the court." The ruling did not take into consideration the amount of maintenance.

Receiver Is Requested For Woodward Building

F. H. Duehay, Inc., of the Woodward Building, Fifteenth and H streets northwest, yesterday sought the intervention of the District Supreme Court to prevent an advertised sale today of the Woodward Building.

Claiming that the corporation, which purchased the property several years ago, has an equity of $1,600,000, the suit alleges that its interests would be best protected by appointment of a receiver to sell the building. Named as defendants were George N. Everett and Brainard W. Parker, trustees; Randall H. Hagner and James J. Becker, cotrustees; Helen Woodward Wilson, Irene Woodward Parker, Donald Woodward, Catherine Woodward Tyssowski and the New York Life Insurance Co., which holds a $2,000,000 first trust on the building.

MAN KILLED IN FALL MAY BE E. L. JONES

Although Washington police are almost certain that it was Edward L. Gunnell's body which was found in the rear of the Allies Hotel Sunday night, Macon, Ga., authorities yesterday began working on the theory that the victim may have been E. L. Jones, a Macon man who is missing, and who is said to answer the description of the local hotel guest who fell or was thrown from a third-story window.

Deputy Sheriff W. C. McKenzie, of Fulton County, Georgia, said yesterday, according to the Associated Press, that he is sure the body is that of Gunnell, his 27-year-old stepson, who formerly lived in East Point, Ga. He decided, in a message to Washington police, that he had located Miss Mildred E. Felix, of Atlanta, to whom the license plates on the auto found in front of the hotel were issued, and she said they had been issued in her name by Gunnell; and it was not her machine.

The deputy sheriff requested that the remains be sent to Atlanta for interment, following the inquest which is scheduled to be held today.

The man—whose body lies in the District Morgue—registered at the Allies Hotel Sunday morning as E. L. Jones, Macon, Ga. His belt buckle was inscribed with a "G," however, a point which bolsters the belief that he is Gunnell.

While police are trying to solve the mystery, the First Precinct station has been besieged with telephone calls from persons offering a home to the bull terrier which lay on the victim's bed when the tragedy was discovered. The animal has been turned over to the District pound.

European Artists Arrive Here Today

Three Members of Jury for Carnegie Exhibition to Make Visit.

Three European artists, members of the jury of award for the thirtieth Carnegie international exhibition of modern paintings, which opens in Pittsburgh on October 15, will arrive in Washington this afternoon for a three-day visit.

The jurymen, Henri Eugene Le Sidaner, of Paris; Paul Nash, of London, and Cipriano Efisio Oppo, of Rome, will be accompanied by Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of the institute, and Guillaume Lerolle, European representative.

While in Washington they will visit the Corcoran Art Gallery, Mount Vernon, Rock Creek Cemetery and the Phillips Memorial Art Gallery. Friday they will be entertined at luncheon by Secretary Mellon.

159 Veterans Get Aid of Red Cross

Abridged Report Shows Organization's Work During August.

District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross handled 159 veteran cases and gave 262 office and home interviews during the past month, according to its abridged report for August, made public yesterday.

Sixty-five workers volunteered 1,913 hours, in which time more than 255 garments were made, according to the report. Altogether, 3,613 surgical dressings were made for three Washington hospitals by ten workers who gave over 50 hours, it was said.

Twenty workers assisted with typing and filing in preliminary roll call work, and completed the filing and packing of 673 Christmas bags to be shipped to soldiers, sailors and marines in foreign service, devoting 160 hours to the service.

Rattler at Zoo Becomes Father of Five Snakelets

Basking lazily in his quarters at the Zoo's snake house, and oblivious of the honor which is his, a rattler yesterday became the father of five death-dealing youngsters which were born a thousand miles away.

The Associated Press learned the news from Wesley Minear, Quincy, Ill., high school biologist, who caught ma and pa snake on a sunny hillside in Pike County, Illinois, last spring.

"Ma doing well with five little rattlers born yesterday," read the bedside bulletin. "Congratulations."

Pa and ma were separated recently when the former was shipped to the Zoo here for exhibition purposes.

STEWARD CONDEMNS WOOD'S WAGE PLAN AS BEING DISHONEST

PROPOSAL IS BRANDED ECONOMICALLY UNSOUND

A statement condemning Representative Will R. Wood's proposal to slash the wages of employes of the United States Government was issued yesterday by Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes. He declared:

"Representative Will R. Wood's Federal wage cutting proposal is essentially dishonest. Compensation of Federal employes never was raised commensurately with either the cost of living or a progressive concept of a proper employment standard. Representative Wood opposed every move to bring Federal salaries up to an adequate figure during the height of national prosperity and leads the move to repudiate the Government's contractual obligation for increases as provided in the classification act of 1923. His present proposal is characteristic Will Wood tactics.

"The National Federation of Federal Employes shall oppose to the uttermost a proposition that involves a repudiation of the Government's obligation, is contrary to repeatedly announced administration policy and is economically unsound."

Senator Millard Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, on the other hand, said he approved the proposal insofar as it was proposed to cut the $10,000 salaries of congressmen but he did not expect it to be passed.

Washingtonians Barred From Clerical Tests

The Civil Service Commission announces that residents of the District of Columbia, Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, or West Virginia will not be admitted to the stenographer and typist examinations now open to residents of other parts of the country, for the reason that there are ample registers of eligibles from the District and the States named.

Applications from residents of other States and Territories, however, will be accepted until October 8. The examinations are for senior stenographer, at $1,620 a year, junior stenographer, at $1,440 a year, senior typist, at $1,440 a year, and junior typist, at $1,260 a year. Vacancies in both field and departmental services will be filled from these examinations.

Lack of Evidence No Bar To Dry Trial for Quartet

Despite the failure of the police to find liquor of any sort, P. J. Ahearn, Lester Simmons, W. H. Woods, and John Peyton were arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of possession of liquor. All entered pleas of not guilty and demanded jury trials.

Special interest was shown in the case by the United States Attorney's office when Julian Richards, assistant United States Attorney, was taken from his regular assignment in the District Supreme Court and detailed to prosecute the case.

PRISONER IS FACING NEW EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

Justice Adkins Brings End to Dilatory Tactics; Pleas Set for October 9.

The District Supreme Court was informed yesterday by special Government prosecutors, that it might have to appoint attorneys to defend G. Bryan Pitts, reputedly a millionaire, when he is brought up in criminal court during the month of October on a charge of embezzlement.

The Government lawyers declared repeated efforts had been made to ascertain the identity of Pitts' lawyers but they were still in the dark, inasmuch as his former attorneys had definitely declined to again represent him.

Must Dispose of Pleas.

Pitts, former F. H. Smith Co. head, had been brought to the courthouse from the jail, where he is awaiting an appeal from his sentence of 14 years, so that the court might judicially determine who would represent him. Because of demurrers and pleas in abatement filed by Pitts, the Court, through Justice Jesse Adkins, ruled that these dilatory tactics must be disposed of at the first motions day of the fall term, which would be October 9.

When that matter is disposed of, Justice Adkins said, Pitts will be called upon to say who he has gotten to represent him, providing the indictment withstands the attack of the pleas, and if he has been unable to secure counsel, the court will appoint some one to defend him.

Former Counsel Reluctant.

The apparent reluctance of attorneys to represent Pitts was not understandable by the Government counsel, Nugent Dodds and Neil Burkinshaw. Mr. Burkinshaw said that he had sent registered letters to Pitts' counsel of record and he declared the replies indicated that none of them would attempt to defend him in his next trouble.

The indictment was returned more than a year ago. Pitts has since then been indicted on other charges, and he faces a lifetime in jail if the four remaining charges against him should stand good in court. He now has an appeal pending before the Court of Appeals, and the time he is now serving does not count on his sentence time. He has been in jail almost ten months.

Polish Women Banquet And Make Pilgrimages

A tour of Mount Vernon and Arlington, followed by a banquet at the Willard Hotel last night, were features of the second day of the annual convention of the Polish Women's Alliance of America. More than 500 members are attending the sessions, which will conclude Saturday.

The Right Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore, and Representative Leonard A. Schuetz, of Illinois, were the principal speakers at the dinner. They were introduced by Mrs. A. Emily Napieralski, national president of the organization. The group placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier yesterday afternoon, following which they held informal ceremonies in the amphitheater. A reception at the Polish Embassy is scheduled for today.

REWARDS A LA RUSSIA.

"Joseph McDowell, a Kansas farmer, has received the highest award of the Soviet government, the Order of Lenin, for special services to Russia. The order carries with it a salary increase of $15 a month, a 25 per cent cut in house rent, two railroad passes a year to any point in Russia and three street car tickets entitling him to enter street cars by the front end."—Dispatch from Moscow.

NOW there's an idea! It is hoped somebody in Washington will take advantage of it at once. If ever ingenuity needed inspiration and incentive in this country it needs it today. The following announcement from President Hoover might well be looked forward to:

TO JASPER PHERTLE.

In recognition of distinguished service to the United States through constant refusal to talk pessimistically about business and steadfast application to his job of selling more goods, the President confers upon Mr. Phertle the Badge of Merit, Series 356. The order carries with it a salary raise of $3.50 a week, the repapering of the Phertle apartment free, a season pass to any cinema theater he may select, a card entitling him to ride on the roof of any interurban bus in the country and an autographed photo of Marlene Dietrich.

TO DUDLEY DOLLOP.

Mr. Dollop passed through 1930 and 1931 without once predicting that worse times were ahead or that the real facts were being concealed from the people. Washington takes pleasure in admitting him to membership in the Sons of the Silver Lining. This carries with it the right to play pool in any Elks Club, $11 in 2-cent stamps, a chance on a new automobile and an upper berth once a year on any railroad in the land. It also entitles him to get out of taxicabs while in motion and bid five no-trumps regardless of his hand.

GREGORY MATTITUCK.

IT is conceded that by going ahead minding his own business and not stopping on street corners to argue about trade conditions in other lines, Mr. Mattituck established himself a unique American. The entire Cabinet voted him the Order of Calvin Coolidge and threw in a three-piece blue suit, a pair of rubber boots, a permit to fish for trout anywhere in the country in or out of season, a watch said to have been carried by Gen. Sheridan, a complete set of Edgar Guest's poems and a trick mirror.

TO LUTHER McGLOOK.

To date no one has ever heard Mr. McGlook blame the slump on anybody or express the opinion it would last for years. His country is glad to decorate him with the Peacock Feather of the Rapidan, carrying with it eleven banjo lessons gratis, a box of 10-cent cigars, two smoked hams a year from any grocery store, two tickets to Earl Carroll's "Vanities" and the right to ride backwards on any recognized roller coaster. The Government will also send him a Thanksgiving turkey if reminded two weeks ahead.

THIEF STEALS PANTS FROM PARK SLEEPER

Good Samaritan Pays Price of New Trousers After Mission Aid Fails.

How a certain trouserless gentleman was rescued from the city streets after Washington's meanest thief had deprived him of his pants was related to The Post yesterday in an anonymous communication, at least partly substantiated by the police and one local mission house.

The letter to The Post was signed only "From a Man Interested in the Needy." It contained charges that two local charity institutions turned down the trouserless gentleman's request for pants, forcing the Good Samaritan who rescued him to dig down into his own trouser pockets for funds to buy a pair.

Private L. A. Carlin, of the Traffic Bureau, vouches for part of the story. He said a trouserless individual, with all of the appearance of a Scotch highlander, was brought into the bureau Sunday night. After headquarters had been ransacked for pants to no avail, the pantsless gentleman was referred to the Salvation Army, he said.

Watchman Denies Claim.

At Salvation Army quarters, 102 B street northwest, the watchman was questioned. He declared no such application was made there Sunday night. Officials said the request may have been made to some of the inmates, who were without authority to give help.

At Gospel Mission the plot thickened. A. D. Robinson, night clerk, said some one who got out of a large car parked across the street, knocked on the door about midnight Sunday and applied for pants and lodging for some one in the car. Robinson said the mission was filled, and that nineteen men were sleeping on the floor. He said the "day man" alone had access to the mission's clothing, and he so informed the man at the door. Besides, the midnight applicant admitted the man without pants had been drinking, he said.

The story, as related in a letter to The Post, follows:

"Last evening about 10:30 p. m., I was driving up Seventh street near the Medical Museum when I noticed a man walking up the street without any trousers on. Stopping, I asked if I could be of any assistance to him.

Robbed While Sleeping.

"He said that he had fallen asleep in the park, and that some one had stolen his pants. I then took him to the Traffic Bureau, where, with the consent of the officer in charge, I drove first to the Salvation Army headquarters on B street and then to the Gospel Mission, both places refusing him lodging or pants to wear.

"Not being in a financial position to procure him sleeping quarters, I did with difficulty succeed in buying him a pair of pants and gave him some cigarettes.

"It seems to me a shame that a man without a home and no clothes to wear deserves at least a little consideration from the above mentioned organizations. I thought maybe you could prevent such things as this from happening in the future."

Woman Is in Hospital After Narcotic Dose

Mrs. Marie Wade, 36, of 2 Seventeenth street southeast, was in an undetermined condition at Sibley Hospital last night after an alleged attempt to end her life by drinking a quantity of a narcotic yesterday morning in the District of Columbia Garage, 201 Bryant street northwest.

She was taken to the hospital by her husband, Charles Wade, who works in the garage. No motive for her action could be determined.

$75 Clothing Theft Reported.

Earl B. Chewning, 1213 M street northwest, reported to police that $75 worth of clothing was stolen from his room at the M street address during his absence at work yesterday.

Westlake Cleared In Death of Child

Judge Finds Scoutmaster Not Guilty in Auto Accident.

William C. Westlake, Washington scoutmaster, of 436 Taylor street, Chevy Chase, Md., has been exonerated of manslaughter charges preferred against him following the death of Thomas Benfield, 10 years old, also of Washington, on Rockville pike near Old Georgetown road. The charges were dismissed by Judge Charles W. Woodward in Montgomery County Police Court at Rockville.

Westlake was driver of a Boy Scout bus which struck and fatally injured the Benfield boy September 7. The boy was said by witnesses to have darted in front of the truck, which was proceeding at about 20 miles an hour. The truck was carrying a group of scouts from Washington who had been away on a camping trip.

TRAFFIC JAM LIKELY TO CONTINUE 8 DAYS AT HIGHWAY BRIDGE

REMOVAL IS STARTED OF TEMPORARY SPAN

Crews Work All Night to Speed Job; Optional Route Available.

Motorists who use Highway Bridge, leading into Virginia, may expect continued traffic jams at the south end of the bridge for at least eight days more, it was said last night by contractors who are completing work on the new overpass above the Mount Vernon boulevard.

Although the new section will be open to traffic early this morning, workmen will start tearing down the temporary wooden span, erected last winter to accommodate traffic while the overpass was being constructed, as soon as the morning rush hour is over.

Alternating one-way traffic, inaugurated yesterday morning over the wooden section, will continue until all work is completed. The project is expected to be finished in eight or ten days.

During the rush hours yesterday traffic for more than one-half mile on either side of the temporary wooden span was tied up. At the peak of the rush more than half an hour was required to cross the bridge. Street cars, running on a single track, caused most of the delay.

Crews of men worked all night last night so that the new section would be ready for traffic this morning. Motorists are requested to keep in single file and not attempt to pass other vehicles on the bridge.

"Bottle-Neck" Is Formed.

Where the new overpass and approach from the Virginia shore connects with Highway Bridge, a narrow "bottle-neck" stretch will be formed. This stretch will accommodate only one lane of traffic at a time. Police and traction employes will be on hand to see that there is a smooth flow of traffic at this section.

Motorists who wish to avoid the congestion are directed to use Key Bridge as their crossing point between Washington and Virginia. The lower, or River road to Alexandria was also closed yesterday for widening and repairs. Traffic, after crossing Highway Bridge, will be rerouted along Military road through the Government experimental farm.

Broken Airline Helps Clear Train of Charge

A railroad train beat a traffic charge in Police Court yesterday when Judge I. R. Hitt dismissed a charge of blocking a highway that had been preferred against the Baltimore & Ohio. The traffic code prohibits a train from blocking a highway for more than 5 minutes, while it was testified that the train blocked Michigan avenue, near the Catholic University, for 45 minutes.

Testimony that the train had sustained a broken airline and that it was impossible for it to go ahead, led to the dismissal. The radio car of the Twelfth Precinct and a bus driver testified that they were held up in the traffic jam that ensued. The incident occurred August 21.

Washington has 341,465 persons "of voting age," notwithstanding the fact they can't vote, according to statistics made public yesterday by Director of the Census William M. Steuart.

The population of the United States "21 years and over" when the 1930 decennial census was taken, was 72,943,624, compared with 60,886,530 in 1920, Director Steuart announced. Of these, 37,056,757 were males, and 35,886,867 were females.

In Washington, 160,809 of the persons "of voting age" were males and 180,656 were females. This city had a native white population over 21 years of 223,936, or 65.6 per cent of the total population. Colored residents formed 28.9 per cent of the total, and foreign born, 5.5 per cent.
